Must Shoot Them: Castro

President, Whole U. S. Denounced

'To the Wall' Is Havana Demand

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A threat of firing squads hung today over hundreds of anti-Castro invaders and others rounded up as "counter - revolutionaries" during the ill-fated invasion of Cuba.

"Counter - revolutionaries must be shot," Fidel Castro announced in his first public appearance in Cuba for a week. "We have to act with hard hands. Don't let the terrorists entertain dreams that they can act with impunity while they persist in these plans. Let them not ask for clemency."

'To the Wall' Cry

A Cuban audience watching the marathon television - radio broadcast Sunday night in Havana cried "to the wall!"

Castro spoke four hours and 23 minutes, vilifying the U.S. administration, President Kennedy personally, the Central Intelligence Agency and the U.S. way of life. He compared Kennedy to Adolf Hitler, called him an "international bully" and his administration "thugs" who threaten the world with war.

Says 458 Captured

What Castro had to say about the captured rebels — he said there are 458 of them — and others of the thousands rounded up in Cuba on charges of disloyalty to the Communist-dominated regime sent a chill through the Cuban community in exile in Florida.

There was a hint that Castro might spare some from the firing squads. He implied that clemency would depend on a pledge from the United States to end any attempt to oust communism from Cuba.

Castro's appearance — he was an hour and a half late on the air — dispelled rumors that he had somehow been put out of commission during the invasion.

He asserted that his regime had "won over a reactionary, aggressive, brutal enemy.

Likens JFK to Hitler

"The threat of Kennedy is much like that of Hitler," said Castro. "Hitler threatened small countries., Kennedy threatens small countries."

Should any new invasion attempt be launched, all Latin America would rise violently against the United States, Castro said, and he called for an end to the U.S. "empire."

"If they (the United States) invade Cuba, all Cubans and Latin American sympathizers of the revolution will take the battle there, to the heart of the empire," Castro said.

Roundups of suspected Cubans were reported, continuing in Havana, which had the look of a city of terror. Diplomatic sources, in telephone conversations with the United States, pictured a hushed and uneasy city, full of fear.

Call Out Reserves On Defense

Air-Borne Attempt Is Great Concern

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

PARIS (AP) — Fearful of a paratroop invasion by army mutineers from Algeria, the French government today announced plans to call up reservists to strengthen its defenses at home.

Premier Michel Debre in a communique said units loyal to the government would be "reinforced by individual callups which will permit the constitution of reserve units with regular officers."

Debre announced the callup after a night of electric tension sparked by his own warning that the government feared an airborne attempt to seize the French capital.

The invasion didn't materialize during the night and some of the special precautions were relaxed. But the French air force remained on the alert and jet interceptor squadrons were ordered to fire on any unauthorized plane from Algeria.

Clamor for Arms

As the right-wing mutineers in Algeria claimed more and more of the troops there were joining their rebellion against De Gaulle's Algerian policy, labor and professional organizations from left to right called on their members to defend the republic.

Volunteers by the hundreds streamed to the Interior Ministry in Paris, clamoring for arms. They were given rifles or carbines and partial uniforms, organized into 10-man squads and sent out to guard public buildings.

As dawn broke over the French capital, thousands of tank-supported troops and security forces were on guard at key points.

France on War Footing

Much of France went on a virtual war footing after Premier Michel Debre told a nationwide TV-Radio audience Sunday night that an attack from Algeria could come anytime. Rumors flew that 1,500 paratroopers in 30 planes had taken off from Algeria.

All commercial air traffic to and from France was halted. Trucks were parked on airport runways to prevent the landing of any troop carriers. Labor union members assembled at union headquarters to back up the security forces if needed

This morning the Interior Ministry announced that "fear of what could have happened during the night on the territory of metropolitan France did not materialize."

Subsides Somewhat

As public fear of an invasion subsided somewhat, most civilians went to work as usual. The ban on commercial aviation was

Auto Mishap Fatal To Betty J. Riehl

A young Kingston woman, daughter of City Treasurer and Mrs. Orrie R. Riehl, was instantly killed Sunday evening when the car in which she was riding went out of control and smashed into a utility pole on Main Street, Ruby, throwing her from the vehicle.

Miss Betty Jean Riehl, 27, of 176 O'Neil Street, was apparently killed instantly.

She was one of 18 persons in New York State reportedly killed in traffic accidents during the weekend, including a brother and sister who died near Corning.

Fatal in Dutchess

Dutchess County also had a fatal—Lucille Sinclair Nostrand, 41, of 165 Church Street, Poughkeepsie, who was pronounced dead at the scene when her 1960 sedan left Route 9 about a quarter of a mile south of Spackenkill Road, town of Poughkeepsie, and smashed into a utility pole.

Mrs. Nostrand was proceeding north at the time. The car was demolished. Dr. William Thompson, Dutchess County medical examiner issued a verdict of accidental death due to laceration of the brain and compound fracture of the skull.

Two other area men were hospitalized in two one-car collisions during the weekend.

Four persons also died in New York State as the result of accidents other than vehicular, according to the Albany Associated Press.

Was Market Clerk

Miss Riehl, who was employed as a clerk in the Bull Market at the corner of Washington and Hurley Avenues, was riding in a car operated by John Blass, 28, of 60 Esopus Avenue, according to Kingston state police.

Blass was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering from a cerebral concussion, lacerations and abrasions. Hospital authorities reported his condition this morning as satisfactory. He was taken to the hospital by Fatum's ambulance.

Coroner Francis J. McCardle of Kingston issued a verdict of accidental death due to multiple fractures of the skull, face and cervical vertebrae.

Blass told Troopers David Wachtel and T. J. Crowley that he was blinded by oncoming headlights.

Car Demolished

State Police said the Blass car was demolished by the impact.

Blass was proceeding in a northerly direction on Main street, Ruby at the time—9 p. m. Sunday.

Miss Riehl was a graduate of Kingston High School. She was

Mother and Two Almost Escape, Fire Kills Nine

NORTH BEACH, Md. (AP)—Grim firemen probing the blackened ruins of a large frame house in which nine persons died early today found the charred bodies of a mother and two children lying within a few feet of the front door.

They apparently died in a desperate attempt to flee the blaze that wiped out the Bowden family Sunday night.

Police identified the dead as Bill Bowden, 35; his wife, Marie Elizabeth, 33; their six children, ranging from about 1 to 13 in age, and Mrs. Bowden's mother, Xenia Farr, in her early 60s.

Troops Go to Front Before Cease-Fire

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Hundreds of government troops were airlifted to the front north of Vientiane today to shore up crumbling defenses against the pro-Communist rebels in the final hours before a cease-fire in the civil war.

Pathet Lao rebels pushed southward along the main north-south highway during the weekend, sending royal army troops into a headlong retreat of 30 to 40 miles.

The rebels bolstered their position as India agreed to convene a three-nation commission to supervise a truce which would freeze military lines.

May Have Americans

Three American military advisers may have been captured in the rebel thrust to Vang Bieng, a major government military headquarters 80 miles north of here on the Vientiane-Luang Prabang highway linking the administrative and royal capitals.

There were conflicting reports on the fate of the Americans. One source said one of them was wounded.

He said they were not wearing U. S. uniforms.

The government radio, which often paints a darker picture than warranted in hopes of receiving maximum military aid from outside, called the situation north of Vientiane "a Laotian Dien Bien Phu." That referred to the decisive battle in the Indochina war that marked the beginning of the end for the French there.

Copters Take Troops

U. S. helicopters shuttled troops in battalion strength to Vang Khy, a small town on the north-south road. In the uncertain military situation this was encouraging. Vang Khy lies 10 miles north of the spot at which government troops had been expected to halt their retreat.

Government troops bolted before the rebel attack and at least 18 were reported killed. It was uncertain how far south the royal Lao troops withdrew and whether they were beaten from Vang Vieng or simply abandoned the town.

Missing Since Thrust

Reliable sources said the three unnamed American advisers have been missing since the thrust began. Uniformed U.S. advisers moved to front-line positions among royal Laotian soldiers last week, hoping to bolster the sagging government forces.

With a cease-fire due within two days, the leftist Pathet Lao forces now hold about one third of Laos and control its narrow

Governor Vetoes Bill Aimed to Stop Milk Wars

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller slapped down today a widely supported bill designed to prevent milk-price wars by giving the state agriculture commissioner broad powers to set minimum retail prices.

Rockefeller's veto of the price bill was one of several actions he announced on farm bills passed by the 1961 Legislature, including measures dealing with eggs, cooperative dues and farm trucks.

He also announced he had signed a measure permitting judges to issue injunctions to halt labor disputes that interferred with movement of farm produce that would spoil if not shipped.

Sends Long Message

In rejecting the milk-price bill, the governor said in an unusually long, 5½-page veto message:

"I am not convinced by the argument that the 'stabilization' of retail prices will benefit consumers in the long run, nor am I persuaded that all of the restrains on competition permitted by this bill will afford substantial protections to milk producers."

The sponsors of the bill said it was designed to halt price wars in which retailers undercut each other in selling milk.

Rocky Signs School Bill For State Aid Increases

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Approval of a $29.1-million increase in state aid to education was the major action as Gov. Rockefeller neared the end of the annual, 30-day bill-signing period.

Rockefeller also raised the minimum salaries required for school teachers.

He has to midnight tonight to complete action on the 1,294 bills passed by the 1961 Legislature, which adjourned March 25.

As of today, the governor had announced action on 1,047 measures, leaving him with 247 to go. His decisions on many, although made before midnight, will not be announced until Tuesday.

Adds $29.1 Million

The governor signed the school-aid bill Saturday. It adds $29.1 million to the aid the state will pay school districts in the school year beginning in September.

The funds will be in addition to mandated increases based on enrollment. State aid to education will total more than $800 million in the new school year.

The $29.1 million for the new school year will require $13.5 million additional in the current state budget because the school year and state fiscal year do not coincide.

The governor announced today he had approved legislation increasing minimum salaries school districts must pay teachers.

Teachers Pay Raised

The starting salary will go from $4,000 to $4,200 a year and the minimum that must be paid after 11 years service will go from $5,600 to $6,200.

The governor noted most districts now meet the new minimums but the increases would provide raises for 12,000 of the 124,000 elementary and secondary school teachers in the state.

The governor took this action on other bills:

Miss Mary E. Noone, 91, Retired Teacher Dies, Taught Celebrities

Miss Mary E. Noone, 91, who taught in the Kingston school system for 37 years prior to her retirement in February 1933, died Saturday. Born in Phoenicia, daughter of the late Rodney and Bridget McGrath Noone, Miss Noone taught in several rural schools following her graduation from State Normal School before attending Emerson College at Boston, Mass., prior to entering the Kingston school system in September 1896. Miss Noone was a niece of the late Luke Noone, Kingston resident, who operated the famous Noone stone quarries in this area.

During her association with the Kingston school system she numbered among her students numerous prominent men and women who went on to attain great honors. Schooled in dramatics her influence was felt by numerous of her pupils, among them Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, president of the University of Oregon and former United States Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in the cabinet of President Eisenhower. The late Judge John T. Loughran, chief judge of the State Court of Appeals, who prior to being elected to the Supreme Court bench had served as a professor of law at Fordham University, was one of her pupils who gained early training from Miss Noone as a member of the Kingston Academy debating team.

Miss Noone came to the Kingston school system in 1896 and taught English and Dramatic Art at old Kingston Academy for many years prior to joining Kingston High School staff when that school was completed and both Kingston Academy and old Ulster Academy were abandoned.

For many years Miss Noone was a resident at The Huntington of Pearl Street and of late years had resided at the Governor Clinton Hotel until illness made it necessary for her to take up residence at the New Paltz Nursing Home.

Miss Noone had received many honors during her long teaching career and some time ago was honored by Kingston Kiwanis.

During her long career as a teacher of English and dramatic art at Kingston High School, Miss Noone directed high school

Governor Vetoes Bill Aimed to Stop Milk Wars

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller slapped down today a widely supported bill designed to prevent milk-price wars by giving the state agriculture commissioner broad powers to set minimum retail prices.

Rockefeller's veto of the price bill was one of several actions he announced on farm bills passed by the 1961 Legislature, including measures dealing with eggs, cooperative dues and farm trucks.

He also announced he had signed a measure permitting judges to issue injunctions to halt labor disputes that interferred with movement of farm produce that would spoil if not shipped.

Sends Long Message

In rejecting the milk-price bill, the governor said in an unusually long, 5½-page veto message: "I am not convinced by the argument that the 'stabilization' of retail prices will benefit consumers in the long run, nor am I persuaded that all of the restrains on competition permitted by this bill will afford substantial protections to milk producers."

The sponsors of the bill said it was designed to halt price wars in which retailers undercut each other in selling milk.

Jewish History Teacher Tells of Blow to Progress

By RELMAN MORIN

JERUSALEM (AP)—A witness in Adolf Eichmann's trial testified today that Nazi Germany wiped out "overnight" the fruits of a 200-year-old struggle by the Jews in Europe to improve their social and political position.

Eichmann, listening intently, began scribbling rapidly on a pad of paper in the prisoner's dock. He was one of the early members of the Nazi party, joining it in 1931 when it was still outlawed in Austria.

The witness was Dr. Salo Wittmayer Baron, professor of Jewish history at Columbia University in New York City.

Rocky Signs School Bill For State Aid Increases

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Approval of a $29.1-million increase in state aid to education was the major action as Gov. Rockefeller neared the end of the annual, 30-day bill-signing period.

Rockefeller also raised the minimum salaries required for school teachers.

He has to midnight tonight to complete action on the 1,294 bills passed by the 1961 Legislature, which adjourned March 25.

As of today, the governor had announced action on 1,047 measures, leaving him with 247 to go. His decisions on many, although made before midnight, will not be announced until Tuesday.

Adds $29.1 Million

The governor signed the school-aid bill Saturday. It adds $29.1 million to the aid the state will pay school districts in the school year beginning in September.

The funds will be in addition to mandated increases based on enrollment. State aid to education will total more than $800 million in the new school year.

The $29.1 million for the new school year will require $13.5 million additional in the current state budget because the school year and state fiscal year do not coincide.

The governor announced today he had approved legislation increasing minimum salaries school districts must pay teachers.

Teachers Pay Raised

The starting salary will go from $4,000 to $4,200 a year and the minimum that must be paid after 11 years service will go from $5,600 to $6,200.

The governor noted most districts now meet the new minimums but the increases would provide raises for 12,000 of the 124,000 elementary and secondary school teachers in the state.

The governor took this action on other bills:

Miss Mary E. Noone, 91, Retired Teacher Dies, Taught Celebrities

Miss Mary E. Noone, 91, who taught in the Kingston school system for 37 years prior to her retirement in February 1933, died Saturday. Born in Phoenicia, daughter of the late Rodney and Bridget McGrath Noone, Miss Noone taught in several rural schools following her graduation from State Normal School before attending Emerson College at Boston, Mass., prior to entering the Kingston school system in September 1896. Miss Noone was a niece of the late Luke Noone, Kingston resident, who operated the famous Noone stone quarries in this area.

During her association with the Kingston school system she numbered among her students numerous prominent men and women who went on to attain great honors. Schooled in dramatics her influence was felt by numerous of her pupils, among them Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, president of the University of Oregon and former United States Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in the cabinet of President Eisenhower. The late Judge John T. Loughran, chief judge of the State Court of Appeals, who prior to being elected to the Supreme Court bench had served as a professor of law at Fordham University, was one of her pupils who gained early training from Miss Noone as a member of the Kingston Academy debating team.

Miss Noone came to the Kingston school system in 1896 and taught English and Dramatic Art at old Kingston Academy for many years prior to joining Kingston High School staff when that school was completed and both Kingston Academy and old Ulster Academy were abandoned.

For many years Miss Noone was a resident at The Huntington of Pearl Street and of late years had resided at the Governor Clinton Hotel until illness made it necessary for her to take up residence at the New Paltz Nursing Home.

Miss Noone had received many honors during her long teaching career and some time ago was honored by Kingston Kiwanis.

Indians Get Part Payment for Land

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) —There was little jubilation on the Tuscarora Indian Reservation today, although 585 Indians each had a fresh $550 check from the state.

The State Power Authority issued checks totaling $321,750 to the Indians Saturday as partial payment for a 550-acre corner of the reservation the state acquired for construction of the Niagara Power Project.

Chief Elton Green said the money came at a good time for some of the Indians, but added sadly:

"It will be spent in some time to come, and the land will be gone too."

The Tuscaroras lost a bitter two-year court battle to keep their land in March 1960, when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the land was not original reservation land. The court said it was bought by the Indians from private owners —and as such was subject to condemnation for public purpose.

The land was sold to the state for $850,000, or about $1,500 an acre. The balance of the price will be paid later.

Midair Collision Kills Sky Diver

PRINCESS ANNE, Va. (AP)—One sailor was killed and another injured Sunday when they collided in midair during a sky dive.

The dead man was AT3 E. L. Lamb, 20, of Des Plaines, Ill., injured was AT2 W. G. Burns, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Patrick Burns of Homer, N. Y. Burns was held under observation at the Oceana Naval Air Station Hospital.

Both men were members of a Navy-sponsored parachutists club. Members jump each Saturday and Sunday afternoon.

A witness said the two jumpers left a twin-engined aircraft together. Sky divers generally fall free, without opening their parachutes, for a greater part of the distance to the ground.

The witness said that as Burns and Lamb neared the ground, Burns' chute opened and Lamb fell into the open chute, collapsing it.

Burns, the witness said, managed to get his emergency chute open but Lamb fell to the earth.

Auxiliary Police In Ulster Will Discuss CD Alert

A special meeting of auxiliary police of the Town of Ulster Civil Defense Council will be held at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Lake Katrine Grange Hall.

Dominick Brugnolotti, CD director appointed earlier this year by the town board, said the purpose of the meeting is to discuss the nation-wide alert scheduled later this week. ....

There will be a 10-minute public participation beginning at 4 p. m. Friday.

Brugnolotti urged men throughout the township who would be interested in assisting in the alert to attend the meeting. There are some 30 men at present who are members of the auxiliary police, but others are needed.

The alert will begin Thursday evening, continuing through Saturday. Civil Defense officials will be active throughout this three-day period. The public will be involved for only 10 minutes, however.

Indians Get Part Payment for Land

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) —There was little jubilation on the Tuscarora Indian Reservation today, although 585 Indians each had a fresh $550 check from the state.

The State Power Authority issued checks totaling $321,750 to the Indians Saturday as partial payment for a 550-acre corner of the reservation the state acquired for construction of the Niagara Power Project.

Chief Elton Green said the money came at a good time for some of the Indians, but added sadly:

"It will be spent in some time to come, and the land will be gone too."

The Tuscaroras lost a bitter two-year court battle to keep their land in March 1960, when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the land was not original reservation land. The court said it was bought by the Indians from private owners —and as such was subject to condemnation for public purpose.

The land was sold to the state for $850,000, or about $1,500 an acre. The balance of the price will be paid later.

AP Writer Wins Clapper Award For Excellence

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Marlow, veteran Associated Press columnist, is the winner of the 17th annual Raymond Clapper Award for distinguished Washington reporting.

Marlow, one of 24 entries in the 1960 competition, was selected for consistent excellence on far-flung topics, ranging through a spectrum of politics, national and international affairs.

The award, accompanied by a $1,000 check, is presented annually at the banquet session of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. The association held its yearly session in Washington last week. The award was presented Saturday night.

Marlow, 58, has been a newspaperman for 35 years. A panel of five newspaper executives unanimously cited him for "consistently outstanding reporting and interpreting of the Washington scene."

His daily news analysis column is published by approximately 400 AP member newspaper in the United States.

Marlow was born in New York City and attended Fordham and Columbia Universities. He worked successively for the New York Evening World, the New Orleans Item and the New Orleans Times-Picayune before joining the AP at New Orleans in 1937.

In 1941 he was transferred to New York and in 1943 to Washington. A columnist since 1942, he now writes five daily pieces a week. He and his wife live at suburban Falls Church, Va.

Upstate Leaders After Expressway Between 2 Cities

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller has been urged by civic and industrial leaders from five Northern New York counties to sign a bill that would designate a proposed expressway between Watertown and Plattsburgh as an interstate highway.

The leaders reported in a statement Saturday that Rockefeller expressed complete sympathy with the need for the expressway.

A spokesman for the Republican governor said, however, that Rockefeller merely had expressed his recognition of the importance of adequate highways and a vigorous construction program to the economic well being of the area.

The legislation calls for taking interstate mileage from the Thruway and designating the proposed Northern New York expressway as part of the interstate program.

The federal government finances 90 per cent of the construction of such routes.

Rockefeller must act on the bill by midnight tonight, the end of the 30-day period for action on legislation passed during the 1961 session.

Those who met with the governor were:

Harry J. Cool, president of the St. Lawrence Valley Association; Don S. Foster, executive vice president of the association; George H. Phillips, president of the Ogdensburg Area Industrial Development Corp.; Chester Buxton, president of Paul Smith's College.

Duane A. Dittman, director of university development, St. Lawrence University; Robert S. McClellan, vice president of the Gouverneur Talc Co.; Francis C. St. Mary, president of the North Franklin Industrial Development Corp.

Spencer V. Silverthorne Jr., president of the Empire State Chamber of Commerce; Henry W. Lengyel, Jefferson County Republican Chairman; G. Judson Newell, chairman of the Ogdensburg Bridge and Port Authority; and former Assemblyman James A. Fitz Patrick of Plattsburgh.

Fireworks Show Plans Underway By City Firemen

Plans for the annual fireworks display sponsored by the Uniformed Fire Fighters Local 461, AFL-CIO, are well underway for the Fourth of July, Clayton Stalter, president, announced today.

He said that from all indications this year's display promises to be bigger and better than previous displays. He noted that as soon as plans for pre-fireworks entertainment are completed they will be announced.

Work has begun on the program book and the ticket committee will soon be ready for advanced sales.

Due to the large atendance at the fireworks displays each year, the public is advised to purchase tickets in advance to avoid waiting in long lines at the box offices the night of the event, which will be held at Dietz Memorial Stadium starting at dusk on July 4.

YWCA WEEK CELEBRATION

Celebration of National YWCA Week now in progress makes this a particularly appropriate time to express our appreciation of the organization and discuss its increasingly valuable contribution to both the local and world communities. Many of its services are so familiar they have come to be taken for granted. Its facilities and program for women and girls in tangible aid, such as housing, health and recreation services are widely recognized. So are the opportunities it offers for personal development, for making friends, and for cultural, mental and spiritual growth through classes, clubs and other group activities in an atmosphere of Christian fellowship.

Less well recognized is the YWCA's intangible service to the community in developing women as leaders whose concern and efforts make our home and world communities better ones for all of us.

In the competitive society of today, man's time and attention are largely taken up by day-to-day requirements of his job and his particular place in that society. Quick action and concrete results are demanded of him in most affairs, whether in industry, government, business, professions or personal advancement.

Women's schedules are more flexible. By their natures and by the requirements of their role in the family and home they have a deep concern for others. This concern for the welfare of others extends outward from the family to the community, and to concern about the human family in the world community.

It is in helping women develop such natural capacities, and the abilities to give expression to them that the YWCA renders yet another important service to the community. As an organization of, and for women, it provides opportunities for women to realize their potentials, and make greater contribution to our society. It brings together, in thousands of communities women of similar ages, of all races, faiths, and classes where they can work together in a Christian atmosphere of encouragement and mutual regard. It helps them become more efficient participants in community service and provides an effective channel through which they can work for progress in human relations, public affairs and world problems.

Our salute then, to the YWCA at the beginning of the observance of National YWCA Week for the many services it performs, both tangible and intangible, for women and girls; and for the whole community.

CITY DRIVING CURBS

Such is the prediction of Cleveland's Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze, uttered to a Senate subcommittee on loans for public transportation. He was not alone in this startling prophecy. Senator Prescott Bush of Connecticut thinks that an increasingly desperate congestion might force cities to levy taxes on incoming cars, or "devise some sort of discipline to help correct the situation."

This suggestion is not as novel as it sounds. It is merely a revival of the toll system, now largely confined to turnpikes.

Everyone has noticed in a traffic jam that a large number of cars carry only the driver. Rarely are they full. It thus takes a good deal of room to get one man to town. The luxury of being able to jump in an automobile and go where you like seems to many to be a vested right. It is not. It is a luxury, permissible when granting it does not cause more inconvenience than it removes.

There is a considerable possibility that the railroads will give up hauling commuters. If that happens, tolls for drivers—or perhaps even bans on driving into downtown areas — may have to be applied to suburbanites with business in the city.

THE REVOLT AGAINST REPUBLICANISM

Constantly mail comes in from many parts of the country which says that the United States "is a republic not a democracy," which nowadays is a play on words. Government is the exercise of power by those who are in control of the machinery for the management of men and production and distribution. The United States is a representative republic which means that this country is governed by representatives of the people in Congress assembled in accordance with the Constitution.

There are those who say that the trend in this country is toward democracy which, in the United States, would mean the submission of government to direct pressure of the people. The assumption of those who want to keep this a republic rather than a democracy is that the structure of government must be retained, despite wars and economic dislocations. No country can afford to be static and the United States is not static. Government is constantly changing its form and application as the affairs of the country change. It is impossible to engage in wars of the nature of World War I, World War II, the Korean War and the Cold War and function under the constitutional limitations of the Jeffersonian era. Constitutional changes, by amendment or judicial decision, beginning with the first Ten Amendments and coming down to the Brown Decision have been constant.

The War Between the States resulted in significant constitutional alterations by war. The 14th and 15th Amendments were basic constitutional changes. Therefore, those who want to keep this a republic rather than a democracy, are raising an issue which is not of significance at this moment in our history. In fact, what we need to face now is the fact that for better or for worse, this country is in a period of transition, the nature of which no one can foretell.

H. S. Tuttle of Eagle River, Wisconsin, pertinently asks how the country is to be saved:

". . . By electing a President who could and would reverse the tide? That is patently impossible the way conventions are rigged and national elections handled these days."

"Or by electing a roster of Congressmen who can and will fend off the terrific pressure of special interest groups, and do the right thing by this country and its people? . . ."

What Tuttle advocates is not so much impeachment as recall and his advocacy is for democracy, that is, for direct decision by the people, not through representatives chosen for a fixed period, but by popular pressure. If the people do not like a decision of the Supreme Court, the Court should be impeached, according to this doctrine. Judges would not exercise freedom of judgement but wouuld live in terror of a mob that would, without knowledge or preparation, dictate decisions. The terror of the French Revolution was of this nature. Instead of orderly government, anarchy would prevail. Mr. Tuttle jumps all over Chief Justice Earl Warren. Of him, he writes:

"Warren, as I read the record, has time after time disgraced his high office, disregarded the Constitution, flaunted and abused the Congress, rendering its work futile, disenfranchised the states of the union from rights set forth in the Constitution, coddled Communists and helped the conspiracy at every turn."

"Having committed such widely acknowledged atrocious deeds, why should not Warren be called to the bar of justice to answer? That is the one civil way of bringing culprits in high places to account — impeachment. If we do not avail ourselves of this safeguard we slide to oblivion."

This is really amazing. I do not hold with many of Justice Warren's views but these paragraphs represent a violent response to political agitation. In the 1930's such words and phrases appeared in "The Daily Worker," the organ of American Communism. In 1960, members of the John Birch Society employ such language and accept such ideas in the name of conservatism.

Were such thinking not so widespread and such a genuine and sincere response to distress at the vast changes that are taking place in this country, one would put it all down to ill-considered repetition of agitational slogans. But actually, Mr. Tuttle's views are proof that many of our people do not understand our form of government at all and they do not understand that their liberties are assured only if the liberties of others are assured by the structure of the law, no matter how unpleasant the law may be.

Worms Are Easy to Rout; It's How to Block Return

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—"I live on a farm. I am 33 years old. I have just had the shocking and hysteria-producing experience of discovering I have worms. I have since had great trouble sleeping. The very thought of worms is serving as a psychological focus to unnerve me almost completely. Please tell me if they are caused by candy, bad meat, uncleanliness or fresh garden vegetables? Are they common in humans? Am I likely to spend my life chock-full of worms?"

Dear reader, you excite yourself without cause. Your worms are no more than an annoyance to millions who have had a similar experience.

Worm infestations are so commonly encountered everywhere that a writer on the subject recently entitled his article, "This Wormy World." Perhaps a brief review of the worm problem on the North American continent will answer some of the questions asked in the letter and calm our correspondent's nerves.

Most worm invasions in enlightened communities are mere infestations, meaning that the worm merely lodges in the intestinal tract but does not actually invade body tissues. Under the latter circumstance, the condition is an infection, comparable to what happens when a micro-organism invades the tissues and organs of its chosen host.

The primary importance of differentiating infestations from infections has to do with the method of treatment and the prospects for cure. In the case of the infestations it is not necessary to do more than dislodge the worm. In an infection, an effort must be made to kill the worm without inflicting too great damage on the host.

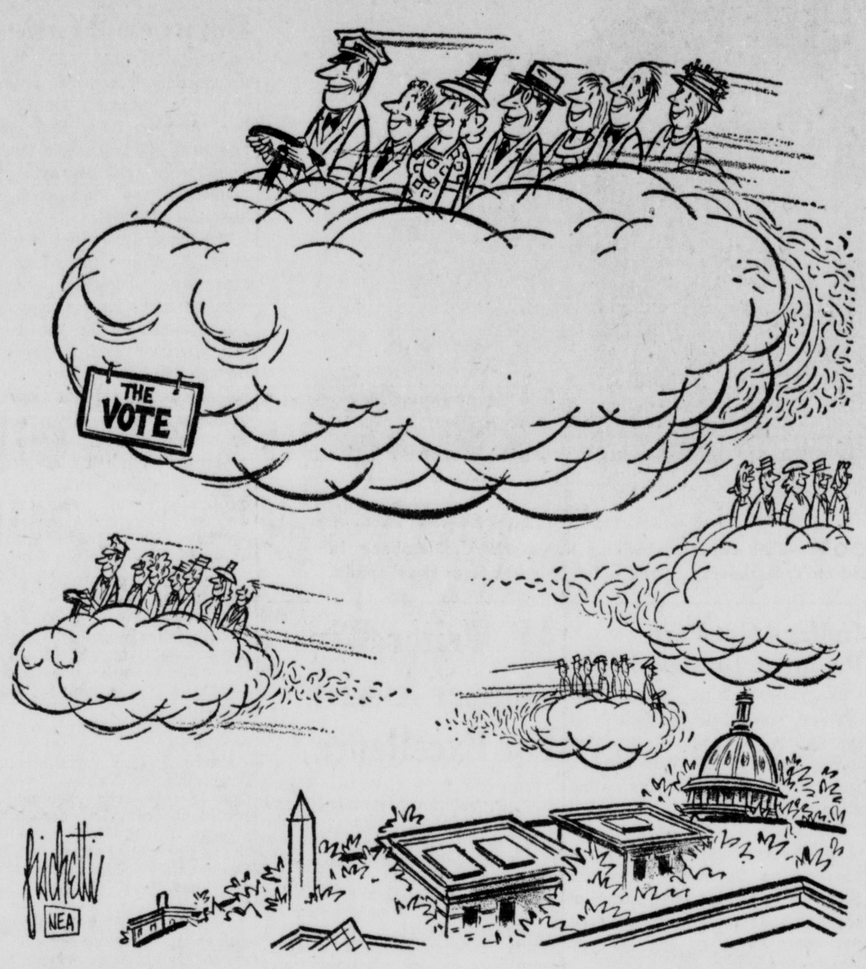

Now the worms with which we have to deal, for the most part, are pinworms, round worms, hookworms and tapeworms. Pinworms are usually transmitted by school children and household pets, round worms and hookworms through soil contaminated by human excreta and tapeworms through the ingestion of raw beef (steak tartare) or raw or rare pork.

None of these infestations has anything to do with candy or bad meat. Anyone could infest the cleanest of us, especially if we lived on a farm, gardened and/or ate fresh-picked vegetables in their raw state, most particularly in salads and the like.

There is no reason for anyone to become hysterical over the discovery of a worm infestation. With rare exceptions, none of the worms mentioned causes any serious inroads on health. All can be dislodged rapidly, especially if the worm-expellent (vermifuge) is given directly into the small intestine by a tube that's passed through a nostril and beyond the stomach into the duodenum.

Unhappily the problem is not permanently settled after successful use of the vermifuge. There's no immunity to worm infestations or infections. So the continuing problem is that of preventing reinfestation or reinfection. That involves worming members of the household pets, strict orders against walking barefoot in soil that has been contaminated with animal excreta, thorough hand washing after farm chores or gardening, thorough cooking of beef and pork meats and spraying of salads, celery and other garden products that are eaten "as is."

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Events in Cuba and Laos have finally proved to the Kennedy administration that it can't do business with the Russians on Communists terms.

The Laotian and Cuban crises no longer affect those two countries alone. They have become problems in American relations with Soviet Russia. This applies equally to the Congo, to developments at the UN to the mob outside the U. S. Embassy in Moscow.

THOSE ARE THE IMPORTANT FACTS behind President Kennedy's short but sharp note to Nikita Khrushchev, setting him straight on what is happening in Cuba, assuring him there is no U. S. intervention and telling him bluntly there should be no other outside military intervention.

It was perhaps necessary for the new Kennedy administration to feel its way at first, trying to establish better relations with Russia through peacful negotiation.

Just after the inauguration, Kennedy and Khrushchev exchanged messages expressing the desire for a fresh start to improve relations. Khrushchev backed this up by releasing the two American RB-47 pilots whose plane had been shot down by the Russians over international waters.

Later, at the UN, the Russians dropped charges on the U-2 spy plane case. Things really began to look cozy. But developments since then have made it fair to ask if the United States did not come close to being booby trapped.

ON JAN. 6, KHRUSHCHEV MADE his famous Moscow speech, released two weeks later, in which he announced Communist demands for disarmament, but also support for wars of liberation like those in Cuba. This should have warned the world, but it didn't.

On Jan. 21, the day after Kennedy was inaugurated, the British ambassador in Moscow handed the Russians the first of what has since become a series of notes on a peace plan for Laos.

On the day after the first British note was delivered, the Russians stepped up their military aid to the Communist Pathet Lao and Viet Minh forces invading Laos.

In the three months since then, the Russians have made several replies to the British notes which have been considered favorable, hopeful, promising or encouraging to the cause of peace in Laos. But they have never agreed to a cease-fire.

Instead, the Communists have used the interval of peaceful negotiation to consolidate their position in Laos.

THERE IS NOW EVERY INDICATION that the Russians will pursue the same tactics in Cuba, if given the chance.

Possibly taking a pitch from Khrushchev, Cuba's Fidel Castro announced after Kennedy's inauguration that he was willing to begin relations with the U. S. anew. Then he said he looked forward to re-establishing diplomatic relations with the U. S. under its new president.

This was of course an empty gesture. For Castro continued his anti-U.S. broadcasts. Before the UN, he charged the U. S. with threatened aggression against Cuba and whipped up his followers into a full-scale mobilization.

THEN THE TRUTH CAME OUT, as 60,000 Cuban refugees fled to Florida from Castro tyranny and other thousands filled his jails.

Anti-Castro political factions united a new revolutionary council under Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, and in Cuba rebels took to the hills in such numbers that even Castro was forced to admit he had a fighting civil war on his hands.

But now Russian jet aircraft and Russian tanks are thrown into the fight by Castro, backed by promises from Khrushchev of "all necessary support."

SO THIS IS NO LONGER AN AFFAIR for Cubans to settle in their own way. It is an international incident in which the Russians are threatening armed intervention in the Americas.

To some, this will be regarded as bluff. The doubtful point out that Russian troops have never yet taken direct part in any of these "wars of liberation," as Khrushchev calls them.

They forget Hungary. Where the stakes are big enough, there is no limit of action for the Communist conspiracy.

U. S. Action in Cuba Seen Justified in U. N. Charter

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What is needed here is a compass to steer by. International relations nowadays bob around on turbulent seas. The pious words of Khrushchev, with their blatant hypocrisies, are spread around the world. Inside the United States—indeed, inside the America as a whole—there still is doubt, skepticism and uncertainty over the policy of the United States toward Cuba.

While President Kennedy's words in his speech last week are in line with historic policy, the question of how to implement those words has yet to be answered. What shall be done? The United States in this controversy has a fuundamental principle to stand on—it must keep the Communists out of Cuba and Latin America. Enough evidence is at hand to show that the Soviets already have sent munitions of war, planes and tanks into Cuba. The United States is in duty bound to seize such equipment and confiscate it. Otherwise, the Monroe Doctrine becomes meaningless.

The justification for such a step is to be found not only in this doctrine—which now has been embraced by the Organization of American States—but in basic international law. American lives and property have been endangered. It is up to the United States to furnish protection not only for the lives of its own citizens but for those of other foreign citizens. The United States has long been acting as the trustee in this hemisphere of European nationals as well as Americans.

Is It Intervention?

But wouldn't this be "intervention"? Not as between domestic factions, but only as between the United States and the Soviet Union, which has already intervened in the internal affairs of Cuba. The United States itself seeks no authority over the internal affairs of Cuba — it's up to the Cubans to set up their own government and to hold free elections.

Supposing, however, resistance is encountered? The United States has a right under international law to use military force to suppress any opposition to its seizure of ports, homes or building where Americans and their assets are sequestered.

The arrangement is made that this will hurt to some extent the prestige of the United States in Latin America and elsewhere. It can also be noted that, unless the United States fulfills its obligations under international law, it will forefeit all its prestige. No government ever lost prestige by fighting for it lawful rights.

The United States, therefore, cannot stand merely on the unstable premise that it will encourage revolutionaries engaged in a worthy cause. Aid to revolutionary movements is an age-old custom, but the United States cannot rely on a band of hastily organized revolutionaries to make its own rights secure.

For many years Congress was reluctant to give up the "Platt Amendment" whereby the Cuban government in a treaty signed in 1903—five years after the Spanish-American war — had agreed to permit automatic entrance of the forces of the United States if Cuban independence were threatened. This was abandoned in 1934 by the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration when it was believed that Cuba was immune from outside interference. Another step must be taken now in line with the spirit of the "Platt Amendment" to recover the territory of Cuba for the Cubans.

Such a policy—open and aboveboard—is more in keeping with American tradition than clandestine support of revolutionaries who, incidentally, can also be infiltrated by Soviet stooges.

Lesson to Others

Only a few months ago the United States, under President Eisenhower, undertook an air and sea blockade along the Guatemalan coast to prevent Communist landings. Active protection of American lives and properties in Cuba means an air and sea blockade of all Cuban ports and airfields. But it also means cleaning out Havana and other places in Cuba and deporting all Communist agents and military men, among them the Czech fliers and Red Chinese helpers. Eliminating Communist influence from Cuba would be a lesson to other countries in Latin America, where already several anti-American demonstrations have been launched, including last week an attack on American newspapermen's offices in Caracas, Venezuela, and the destruction of their property.

The theory that the United States can imitate the Soviet Union in guerrilla tactics has been given some support in official circles but while help of that kind could be extended to liberation movements, the fact remains that this country cannot depend on any military force except its own to protect the lives and properties of Americans and other foreigners in revolution-torn Cuba.

The charter of the United Nations, moreover, under Article 51 and 52, gives to any member "the right of individual or collective self-defense." Hence, an action taken in Cuba by the United States alone in defense of the rights of its citizens is in accord with the basic principles of the U. N. charter. The only legal requirement is that the move be formally reported to the Security Council which can later take steps of its own to restore peace — subject, of course, to a United States veto.

YWCA WEEK CELEBRATION

Celebration of National YWCA Week now in progress makes this a particularly appropriate time to express our appreciation of the organization and discuss its increasingly valuable contribution to both the local and world communities. Many of its services are so familiar they have come to be taken for granted. Its facilities and program for women and girls in tangible aid, such as housing, health and recreation services are widely recognized. So are the opportunities it offers for personal development, for making friends, and for cultural, mental and spiritual growth through classes, clubs and other group activities in an atmosphere of Christian fellowship.

Less well recognized is the YWCA's intangible service to the community in developing women as leaders whose concern and efforts make our home and world communities better ones for all of us.

In the competitive society of today, man's time and attention are largely taken up by day-to-day requirements of his job and his particular place in that society. Quick action and concrete results are demanded of him in most affairs, whether in industry, government, business, professions or personal advancement.

Women's schedules are more flexible. By their natures and by the requirements of their role in the family and home they have a deep concern for others. This concern for the welfare of others extends outward from the family to the community, and to concern about the human family in the world community.

It is in helping women develop such natural capacities, and the abilities to give expression to them that the YWCA renders yet another important service to the community. As an organization of, and for women, it provides opportunities for women to realize their potentials, and make greater contribution to our society. It brings together, in thousands of communities women of similar ages, of all races, faiths, and classes where they can work together in a Christian atmosphere of encouragement and mutual regard. It helps them become more efficient participants in community service and provides an effective channel through which they can work for progress in human relations, public affairs and world problems.

Our salute then, to the YWCA at the beginning of the observance of National YWCA Week for the many services it performs, both tangible and intangible, for women and girls; and for the whole community.

CITY DRIVING CURBS

The day may come when cities will be forced to draw a circle round their business districts and say to commuters, "No farther in private automobiles."

Such is the prediction of Cleveland's Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze, uttered to a Senate subcommittee on loans for public transportation. He was not alone in this startling prophecy. Senator Prescott Bush of Connecticut thinks that an increasingly desperate congestion might force cities to levy taxes on incoming cars, or "devise some sort of discipline to help correct the situation."

This suggestion is not as novel as it sounds. It is merely a revival of the toll system, now largely confined to turnpikes.

Everyone has noticed in a traffic jam that a large number of cars carry only the driver. Rarely are they full. It thus takes a good deal of room to get one man to town. The luxury of being able to jump in an automobile and go where you like seems to many to be a vested right. It is not. It is a luxury, permissible when granting it does not cause more inconvenience than it removes.

There is a considerable possibility that the railroads will give up hauling commuters. If that happens, tolls for drivers—or perhaps even bans on driving into downtown areas — may have to be applied to suburbanites with business in the city.

THE REVOLT AGAINST REPUBLICANISM

Constantly mail comes in from many parts of the country which says that the United States "is a republic not a democracy," which nowadays is a play on words. Government is the exercise of power by those who are in control of the machinery for the management of men and production and distribution. The United States is a representative republic which means that this country is governed by representatives of the people in Congress assembled in accordance with the Constitution.

There are those who say that the trend in this country is toward democracy which, in the United States, would mean the submission of government to direct pressure of the people. The assumption of those who want to keep this a republic rather than a democracy is that the structure of government must be retained, despite wars and economic dislocations. No country can afford to be static and the United States is not static. Government is constantly changing its form and application as the affairs of the country change. It is impossible to engage in wars of the nature of World War I, World War II, the Korean War and the Cold War and function under the constitutional limitations of the Jeffersonian era. Constitutional changes, by amendment or judicial decision, beginning with the first Ten Amendments and coming down to the Brown Decision have been constant.

The War Between the States resulted in significant constitutional alterations by war. The 14th and 15th Amendments were basic constitutional changes. Therefore, those who want to keep this a republic rather than a democracy, are raising an issue which is not of significance at this moment in our history. In fact, what we need to face now is the fact that for better or for worse, this country is in a period of transition, the nature of which no one can foretell.

H. S. Tuttle of Eagle River, Wisconsin, pertinently asks how the country is to be saved:

". . . By electing a President who could and would reverse the tide? That is patently impossible the way conventions are rigged and national elections handled these days."

"Or by electing a roster of Congressmen who can and will fend off the terrific pressure of special interest groups, and do the right thing by this country and its people? . . ."

What Tuttle advocates is not so much impeachment as recall and his advocacy is for democracy, that is, for direct decision by the people, not through representatives chosen for a fixed period, but by popular pressure. If the people do not like a decision of the Supreme Court, the Court should be impeached, according to this doctrine. Judges would not exercise freedom of judgement but wouuld live in terror of a mob that would, without knowledge or preparation, dictate decisions. The terror of the French Revolution was of this nature. Instead of orderly government, anarchy would prevail. Mr. Tuttle jumps all over Chief Justice Earl Warren. Of him, he writes:

"Warren, as I read the record, has time after time disgraced his high office, disregarded the Constitution, flaunted and abused the Congress, rendering its work futile, disenfranchised the states of the union from rights set forth in the Constitution, coddled Communists and helped the conspiracy at every turn."

"Having committed such widely acknowledged atrocious deeds, why should not Warren be called to the bar of justice to answer? That is the one civil way of bringing culprits in high places to account — impeachment. If we do not avail ourselves of this safeguard we slide to oblivion."

This is really amazing. I do not hold with many of Justice Warren's views but these paragraphs represent a violent response to political agitation. In the 1930's such words and phrases appeared in "The Daily Worker," the organ of American Communism. In 1960, members of the John Birch Society employ such language and accept such ideas in the name of conservatism.

Were such thinking not so widespread and such a genuine and sincere response to distress at the vast changes that are taking place in this country, one would put it all down to ill-considered repetition of agitational slogans. But actually, Mr. Tuttle's views are proof that many of our people do not understand our form of government at all and they do not understand that their liberties are assured only if the liberties of others are assured by the structure of the law, no matter how unpleasant the law may be.

Worms Are Easy to Rout; It's How to Block Return

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—"I live on a farm. I am 33 years old. I have just had the shocking and hysteria-producing experience of discovering I have worms. I have since had great trouble sleeping. The very thought of worms is serving as a psychological focus to unnerve me almost completely. Please tell me if they are caused by candy, bad meat, uncleanliness or fresh garden vegetables? Are they common in humans? Am I likely to spend my life chock-full of worms?"

Dear reader, you excite yourself without cause. Your worms are no more than an annoyance to millions who have had a similar experience.

Worm infestations are so commonly encountered everywhere that a writer on the subject recently entitled his article, "This Wormy World." Perhaps a brief review of the worm problem on the North American continent will answer some of the questions asked in the letter and calm our correspondent's nerves.

Most worm invasions in enlightened communities are mere infestations, meaning that the worm merely lodges in the intestinal tract but does not actually invade body tissues. Under the latter circumstance, the condition is an infection, comparable to what happens when a micro-organism invades the tissues and organs of its chosen host.

The primary importance of differentiating infestations from infections has to do with the method of treatment and the prospects for cure. In the case of the infestations it is not necessary to do more than dislodge the worm. In an infection, an effort must be made to kill the worm without inflicting too great damage on the host.

Now the worms with which we have to deal, for the most part, are pinworms, round worms, hookworms and tapeworms. Pinworms are usually transmitted by school children and household pets, round worms and hookworms through soil contaminated by human excreta and tapeworms through the ingestion of raw beef (steak tartare) or raw or rare pork.

None of these infestations has anything to do with candy or bad meat. Anyone could infest the cleanest of us, especially if we lived on a farm, gardened and/or ate fresh-picked vegetables in their raw state, most particularly in salads and the like.

There is no reason for anyone to become hysterical over the discovery of a worm infestation. With rare exceptions, none of the worms mentioned causes any serious inroads on health. All can be dislodged rapidly, especially if the worm-expellent (vermifuge) is given directly into the small intestine by a tube that's passed through a nostril and beyond the stomach into the duodenum.

Unhappily the problem is not permanently settled after successful use of the vermifuge. There's no immunity to worm infestations or infections. So the continuing problem is that of preventing reinfestation or reinfection. That involves worming members of the household pets, strict orders against walking barefoot in soil that has been contaminated with animal excreta, thorough hand washing after farm chores or gardening, thorough cooking of beef and pork meats and spraying of salads, celery and other garden products that are eaten "as is."

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Events in Cuba and Laos have finally proved to the Kennedy administration that it can't do business with the Russians on Communists terms.

The Laotian and Cuban crises no longer affect those two countries alone. They have become problems in American relations with Soviet Russia. This applies equally to the Congo, to developments at the UN to the mob outside the U. S. Embassy in Moscow.

THOSE ARE THE IMPORTANT FACTS behind President Kennedy's short but sharp note to Nikita Khrushchev, setting him straight on what is happening in Cuba, assuring him there is no U. S. intervention and telling him bluntly there should be no other outside military intervention.

It was perhaps necessary for the new Kennedy administration to feel its way at first, trying to establish better relations with Russia through peacful negotiation.

Just after the inauguration, Kennedy and Khrushchev exchanged messages expressing the desire for a fresh start to improve relations. Khrushchev backed this up by releasing the two American RB-47 pilots whose plane had been shot down by the Russians over international waters.

Later, at the UN, the Russians dropped charges on the U-2 spy plane case. Things really began to look cozy. But developments since then have made it fair to ask if the United States did not come close to being booby trapped.

ON JAN. 6, KHRUSHCHEV MADE his famous Moscow speech, released two weeks later, in which he announced Communist demands for disarmament, but also support for wars of liberation like those in Cuba. This should have warned the world, but it didn't.

On Jan. 21, the day after Kennedy was inaugurated, the British ambassador in Moscow handed the Russians the first of what has since become a series of notes on a peace plan for Laos.

On the day after the first British note was delivered, the Russians stepped up their military aid to the Communist Pathet Lao and Viet Minh forces invading Laos.

In the three months since then, the Russians have made several replies to the British notes which have been considered favorable, hopeful, promising or encouraging to the cause of peace in Laos. But they have never agreed to a cease-fire.

Instead, the Communists have used the interval of peaceful negotiation to consolidate their position in Laos.

THERE IS NOW EVERY INDICATION that the Russians will pursue the same tactics in Cuba, if given the chance.

Possibly taking a pitch from Khrushchev, Cuba's Fidel Castro announced after Kennedy's inauguration that he was willing to begin relations with the U. S. anew. Then he said he looked forward to re-establishing diplomatic relations with the U. S. under its new president.

This was of course an empty gesture. For Castro continued his anti-U.S. broadcasts. Before the UN, he charged the U. S. with threatened aggression against Cuba and whipped up his followers into a full-scale mobilization.

THEN THE TRUTH CAME OUT, as 60,000 Cuban refugees fled to Florida from Castro tyranny and other thousands filled his jails.

Anti-Castro political factions united a new revolutionary council under Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, and in Cuba rebels took to the hills in such numbers that even Castro was forced to admit he had a fighting civil war on his hands.

But now Russian jet aircraft and Russian tanks are thrown into the fight by Castro, backed by promises from Khrushchev of "all necessary support."

SO THIS IS NO LONGER AN AFFAIR for Cubans to settle in their own way. It is an international incident in which the Russians are threatening armed intervention in the Americas.

To some, this will be regarded as bluff. The doubtful point out that Russian troops have never yet taken direct part in any of these "wars of liberation," as Khrushchev calls them.

They forget Hungary. Where the stakes are big enough, there is no limit of action for the Communist conspiracy.

U. S. Action in Cuba Seen Justified in U. N. Charter

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What is needed here is a compass to steer by. International relations nowadays bob around on turbulent seas. The pious words of Khrushchev, with their blatant hypocrisies, are spread around the world. Inside the United States—indeed, inside the America as a whole—there still is doubt, skepticism and uncertainty over the policy of the United States toward Cuba.

While President Kennedy's words in his speech last week are in line with historic policy, the question of how to implement those words has yet to be answered. What shall be done? The United States in this controversy has a fuundamental principle to stand on—it must keep the Communists out of Cuba and Latin America. Enough evidence is at hand to show that the Soviets already have sent munitions of war, planes and tanks into Cuba. The United States is in duty bound to seize such equipment and confiscate it. Otherwise, the Monroe Doctrine becomes meaningless.

The justification for such a step is to be found not only in this doctrine—which now has been embraced by the Organization of American States—but in basic international law. American lives and property have been endangered. It is up to the United States to furnish protection not only for the lives of its own citizens but for those of other foreign citizens. The United States has long been acting as the trustee in this hemisphere of European nationals as well as Americans.

Is It Intervention?

But wouldn't this be "intervention"? Not as between domestic factions, but only as between the United States and the Soviet Union, which has already intervened in the internal affairs of Cuba. The United States itself seeks no authority over the internal affairs of Cuba — it's up to the Cubans to set up their own government and to hold free elections.

Supposing, however, resistance is encountered? The United States has a right under international law to use military force to suppress any opposition to its seizure of ports, homes or building where Americans and their assets are sequestered.

The arrangement is made that this will hurt to some extent the prestige of the United States in Latin America and elsewhere. It can also be noted that, unless the United States fulfills its obligations under international law, it will forefeit all its prestige. Why We Say--

GOOD LUCK: The Swastika actually had little meaning to the Germans. It came from the ancient Sanskrit and was a good luck symbol. The four points of it represent the four winds which brought good or bad weather for farmers.

Keating Urges Unity With JFK In Cuban Crisis

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP)—"This is not the time for criticism of United States' policy, even though this country lost face in the Cuban invasion," Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., says.

Keating told 20 Harpur College students at a "coffee hour" discussion Sunday night that Americans should unite behind President Kennedy in the Cuban crisis.

Keating visited the college while in Binghamton for a speech at the 75th Anniversary of Temple Israel.

"American neglect of Arab-Israeli problems may lead to future crises in that area," he said at the dinner. "The government of the United States has been rather remiss in its treatment of Middle Eastern problems recently," he said.

Chapel Destroyed

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A fire Saturday destroyed a chapel and damaged a dormitory and dining hall at La Salle School for Boys.

About 10 pupils in the three-story brick building when the fire broke out escaped safely. The Roman Catholic school has an enrollment of 175 but most of the boys were out of doors or away from the school at the time.

Firemen said the fire began in the chapel. The cause was not determined and there was no estimate of loss.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Kingston was a city before the "Morning Courier" published in Rondout on Monday, Dec. 26, 1881 issue came out. This paper was loaned to me by James Rigney Jr., of 2 South Washington Avenue. A few weeks ago he had loaned me the "Poems of Henry Abbey" published in Kingston in 1885.

Incidentally the poem the lady from Brooklyn was interested in, is on page 69, and is called "Ballad of Consolation." This was brought to my attention by Attorney Henry Klein. Tom Walsh of 37 Boulevard brought me Henry Abbey's book of poems to keep, and to refer to.

Kingston was not born yesterday, of which the best proof are all the old newspapers such as the Rondout Morning Courier of 1881. In this one paper I seen Kingston was a gay old town around the holiday season. The Sampson Opera House, Broadway and Strand, had a Opera and Variety Co. for Monday evening, Dec. 28, to give the charming comedy "Le Chalet Suisse," and "The German Professor." Admission was 25 and 35 cents. Reserved seats were 50 cents. Tickets could be bought at Winter's. They also added in their advertisement "Don't fail to hear the brass band at noon and 7 o'clock on the day of the exhibition." No doubt an outdoor "come on" concert.

St. Peter's was having its Grand Christmas fair on the evening of Dec. 26 in St. Peter's School Hall. Admission was 10 cents. A social affair was also held at Voorhees Hall in Kingston run by "Oldtops." Tickets were $1 per couple, and a single ticket, 50 cents. Refreshments were extra. Music was by Human's Band. Floor managers were Joseph Williams and Eugene Wynkoop.

The Music Hall, for Tuesday, Dec. 27, 1881, had the "Big Four" all live show one act being, the "Great Irish Comedians, Sheehan and Coyne" in petite comedy, Mrs. Driscoll's Party. Willis Cobb had his "wonderful troupe of trained dogs, learned monkeys, and performing goats." Admission was 35, 50 and 75 cents, "Horse cars for Rondout at close."

Sampson Opera House in Rondout was a very busy place Wednesday, Dec. 28. They had the M. T. Skiff's Famous California Minstrels, 25 of them.

Those were the days of gingerbread houses which are as sturdy as ever. No doubt some of the wood came from W. B. Crane's Lumber yard. He advertised cypress, white wood and yellow pine of large sizes, long lengths, and sold at reasonable terms. He had a steam mill for planning, matching, beading, scroll and re-sawing, band sawing, turning, newel posts, balusters, brackets, mouldings of all kinds. A well known carpenter and builder of those days was Albert Mauterstock, who had a shop on Union Avenue, above Spring Street. "None but good workmen employed, jobbing promptly attended to."

They had pretty good roofs in those days too. Perhaps Samuel Dobbs of Ann Street, between Union and Mill Street (in Rondout, of course) built them. He did "plain and ornamental slate roofs, in red, green, black or purple slate. He made chimney tops, and drain pipes. He also had a fine lot of garden vases, flower pots, hanging baskets, iron vases. He had "oil cement for leaky roofs and chimneys, rosin size paper, tar paper and sheet zinc." His price for slate roofing was from $7 per square of 100 feet.

IT'S ALL IN YOUR MIND—The way in which the human brain works is demonstrated by this 14-foot-high aluminum working model on exhibit in Cologne, West Germany. Developed under a contract with the U.S. government, the model duplicates only the functions of seeing and hearing. More than 30,000 red, white and green light bulbs, connected by 115,000 feet of wiring, show how sensory impulses go through the various nerve channels and centers to form an image, perception or thought in the brain.

Volume of News Is Extraordinary

Associated Press Reports on Year Of Unusual and Complex Problems

NEW YORK (AP)—The directors of the Associated Press said in their annual report today that "in a year of unusual and complex problems" the AP had provided its members with a service outstanding in scope.

The report, prepared for the annual meeting of AP members, said:

"The mere volume of the news was extraordinary, and its complexities offered a continuing challenge to reporting in a manner making the meaning of events understandable without departing from basic Associated Press principles of objectivity, accuracy and fairness."

Has Unmatched Facilities

The board said it had "noted with satisfaction further expansion of enterprise copy—material developed by The Associated Press utilizing its unmatched worldwide facilities.

"These are projects designed to present, in a single article or series, multiple facets of a situation or news development, beyond what can practically be done in day-to-day reporting."

The report added:

"The organization's affairs have continued to flourish since we last met. There has been a gratifying and continued expansion of its services in all departments.

Growth Noteworthy

"Growth has been particularly noteworthy in overseas distribution of news and newsphotos, in broadcasting domesitcally and abroad, and in specialized services to U.S. members.

"AP World Service is serving more newspapers, broadcasters and other outlets with news and photos than ever previously reached by a single organization."

The directors said that, through a long-term agreement with United News of India, the AP became the first United States-based news agency ever distributed throughout India.

Supplies Big Networks

"Nigeria, Liberia, Indonesia, Israel and the German-speaking portion of Switzerland were other areas where large-scale AP distribution began," their report said. "The national radio networks of 10 nations became AP subscribers.

"Foreign photo distribution increased faster than ever before."

The board noted that news events of the past year included a presidential campaign and election, the launching of a new administration in Washington, armed conflict, political diplomatic jousting around the world, significant developments in business and finance, discoveries and experiments in the new horizons of science and "emotion-charged crises in human relations on a worldwide front."

Some Lapses

It said that in the pressure of getting out the news report there had been some lapses—"the ill-chosen word, the phrase subject to varying interpretations, some imbalance in factual presentation that greater care would have avoided."

"However," it said, "the board fails to find any significant departure from the fundamental fairness and impartiality of the news report. The validity of a news report can be judged only by the entire product, not by isolated words, phrases or sentences out of context of the entire dispatch."

Take Extensive Trips

The board said that in response to member editors' requests for greater attention to significant in-depth news of Canada and Latin America, staff writers were assigned to extensive trips in those areas.

"They produced splendid, incisive copy which, although played well by a number of member newspapers, probably merited wider usage than it received," it said.

The report said coverage problems were magnified by the steady increase in the number of new countries, notably in Africa.

Keeps News Flowing

"It was impossible to establish bureaus in all of them but the AP succeeded in keeping a flow of news from the principal trouble spots to an astounding degree, despite continued hazardous conditions and harassment," the board said.

Citing the Congo as an example, the board said AP members have benefitted time after time from a program of keeping staffers at important news centers even when there is a relative calm.

"Naturally, the management rushes reinforcements on extraordinary stories, but there is no substitute for the experienced and well-backgrounded reporter on the spot when news breaks," the board said.

The board said it noted with satisfaction that 1960 operations "resulted in a small excess of revenue over expenses, despite the heavy costs incurred in covering a larg variety of events from remote points, always an expensive operation, coupled with the seemingly never-ending inflation of costs generally."

It reported that revenues in 1960 were approximately $15 million greater than in 1950, a growth of more than 60 per cent in 10 years.

"Of this increase," the board said, "less than $2,800,000 resulted from assessment adjustments for basic service to domestic members since the last decennial revision.

"In other words, nearly 80 per cent of the increased revenue was derived from expansion of service—at home and abroad."

Rioters at El Prado

NEW YORK (AP) — A riotous clash between pro and anti-Castro partisans early today wrecked an 8th Avenue restaurant and resulted in injuries to two persons.

The fight broke out shortly after midnight in the El Prado, the restaurant in which a 9-year-old Venezuelan girl was shot to death last Sept. 21 as an innocent bystander during a similar fight.

Police said 15 to 20 persons took part in the melee today and several hundred more gathered to watch.

Main course for a ladies' luncheon: creamed sweetbreads, ham and mushrooms served in patty shells. Serve with green peas garnished with strips of scarlet pimiento.

KHS Math Group Places First in Upstate Contest

The Kingston High School mathematics team placed first in the recent 12th annual math competitions in upper New York State and Ontario, Canada, and a member of the team took first honors, it was reported today by Mrs. Edith Case Murphy, head of the department.

The math team, composed of five members of the KHS Math Club, was coached by Mrs. Julia O'Brien.

Thomas J. Goodey, 15, a sophomore, took top honors in the competition.

Young Goodey is eligible for a scholarship choosing from among a number of New York State Colleges, if he should return to this country.

He also receives a $100 prize from the National Commercial Bank and Trust Co. of Albany.

The contest is sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America and the Society of Actuaries.

First place in team rating went to Irondequiquoit High School and second to Albany Academy.

Mrs. Murphy said today that Goodey is "very brilliant in math" and that when tests were administered to him last fall it was found that his placement would be 12th year, although he was just entering his sophomore year.

The team, which placed in the upper 10 per cent of the entire New York State contest, including upper New York State and Ontario, Canada, Metropolitan New York and Western New York, was composed of Goodey, Helmut Altneder, Andrea Jacobson, Gerald Woodvine and Joel Kobran.

Goodey, son of Dr. and Mrs. John Goodey, came to Kingston with his parents last August from the British West Indies. Dr. Goodey was assistant director of the Kingston City Laboratory. The family just left for London, England, where they will make their home temporarily.

Police Guard Doors At Blake Hearings

LONDON (AP)—A hearing was held behind closed doors at the Bow Street Court today for George Blake, 38, accused of violating the British official secrets law.

Five policemen guarded the court as Blake, described as a government official, was led into the dock.

No details of the charges have been published. He is formally accused of "feloniously, for a purpose prejudicial to the safety and interests of the state, communicating to another person information which might be directly or indirectly useful to an enemy."

Even the government position he held has been kept secret.

After the hearing the magistrate ordered Blake held for trial. The date will be set later.

Kennedy Greets Sukarno: Both Stress Freedom

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indonesia's President Sukarno arrived here today for a one-day visit and told President Kennedy "it is my fervent hope that America and Indonesia will always be close friends."

Kennedy, greeting the neutralist Southeast Asian leader, praised him as "a distinguished national leader, the father of his country and a leader of the world."

The American chief executive said Sukarno throughout his life had devoted himself to the building of the Indonesian nation.

"We wish relations between the United States and Indonesia to be intimate and close," Kennedy said.

"We seek what he seeks—a life of freedom, independence and security for our peoples."

Sukarno, pointing out that this is his fifth visit to the United States, expressed appreciation for the warm welcome. He disavowed the "father of his country" role and said: "Without my nation, I am just the man next door."

The Indonesia president said he is "just a small mouthpiece of the Indonesian nation. I express its wishes, its hopes and aspirations."

The friendly exchange took place on a bright sunny morning at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland, where Sukarno was welcomed by fanfare and military pomp.

Kennedy and Sukarno rode in an open limousine to the White House in a motorcade that moved at a leisurely pace. They were met at the executive mansion by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The two presidents immediately began the first of a series of talks that were to total four hours today.

The talks were expected to range from the dispute over Dutch-held West New Guinea which Indonesians claim is a part of their country, to the situation in Cuba and Southeast Asia.

Keating Urges Society Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N. Y., wants a Senate probe of whether the John Birch Society is resorting to "harassment, intimidation and economic blackmail" against its critics.

But Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N. H., says he doesn't think the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee should furnish "a publicity forum for those who desire to be investigated and wish to publicize their aims and purposes."

Cotton, a subcommittee member, told a reporter he doubted the internal security unit had jurisdiction and saw no reason at this time for any investigation of the militantly conservative organization.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee is studying whether it has jurisdiction to probe the society founded by Robert Welch, retired Belmont, Mass., candy manufacturer. Welch has requested an investigation.

Keating, also a subcommittee member, said Sunday he wants the Senate to decide wether the John Birch Society should be required to account for "a potential income of over $18 million per year."

In a program recorded for television and radio stations in New York, Keating said this was the potential income of the society under its dues schedule.

Motorist to Face Three Violations

John C. Robb, 26, of Route 9, Box 41, Kingston, was booked early Sunday on charges of driving while his ability was impaired, passing a red light and lacking an operator's license.

The charges were lodged by officers Thomas Coffey and Bernard Bouton. City Judge Aaron E. Klein today put the case over to April 29. Attorney William Curran represents the defendant.

Harold Nelson Bodine, 20, of 2 Pearl Street, was arrested Saturday afternoon on a warrent charging third degree assault. The charge was lodged by Patricia Bodine, his wife, police said. Attorney Francis Martocci appeared in city court today for Bodine, and the case was put over to Tuesday morning.

Nicholas Carl, of 12 Wrentham Street, charged with speeding, was fined $10.

Troops To Front

waist. They dominate the north-south highway linking Vientiane with Luang Prabang.

May Come Soon

Britain and the Soviet Union, after weeks of negotiations on the Laotian situation, are expected to issue a joint call for a cease-fire today or Tuesday, and quick endorsement is expected from Washington. The Soviets reportedly have agreed that the cease-fire will be policed by the International Truce Commission set up by the 1954 Indochina armistice and that a 14-nation conference then will be held to arrange a unified, neutral Laos.

As the military position of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels got better and better, Prince Souvanna Phouma, the neutralist Laotian leader recognized by the Communists as the legal premier, said in Peiping that his people count on the Communist and neutral nations to help restore peace in Laos.

Fear Algerian

lifted for four airfields in the Paris region and one field in Alsace, near the Swiss border.

But airports at Marseille, Nice and Toulouse — those closest to Algeria — remained closed to traffic, with buses, tanks and trucks spotting their runways.

The situation in Algeria remained confused. The insurgent junta claimed the whole army in Algeria had rallied to it. But the French government said Gen. de Pouilly, with headquarters at Tlemcen, west of Oran, and still loyal to De Gaulle, reported he was in contact with all army detachments in western Algeria with the exception of those in Oran itself.

Rally to DeGaulle

This would mean that most of the army in the Oran area is standing by De Gaulle. The insurgent junta, broadcasting from Algiers, claimed that the whole army in Algeria had rallied to its cause.

The Interior Ministry said 1,500 civil defense volunteers had been enrolled in Paris for guard duty to supplement gendarmes and troops posted at the key structures of Paris.

Labor organizations, from right to left, scheduled a one-hour token strike at 5 p.m. to express their allegiance to De Gaulle.

Reports from throughout the country voiced a resounding chorus of support for the government.

Tighten Inspection

North of Lille and at Strasbourg, frontier police tightened their inspection. In the Lyon region of central France, security guards removed the propellers from private planes to keep them grounded.

The air flight center at Aix-en-Provence, clearing house for plane information over the Mediterranean, kept its radar beamed toward the Algerian coast for the first sign of any troop carriers headed toward France.

Each large provincial city was organizing a civilian militia to fight off any paratroop attack.

The government filed an open indictment against all persons leading or assisting the insurrection. The penalties will be death or life imprisonment.

The Finance Ministry cut off all transactions between France and Algeria, a step that eventually could freeze the insurgents' finances since the Algerian currency is based on the French franc.

De Gaulle in a TV appearance Sunday announced he had assumed almost dictatorial powers to combat the military junta that took control of Algiers and Oran in a bloodless coup Saturday.

The president promised to use all means to end what he called the "odious and stupid aventure" led by retired Gens. Maurice Challe, Raoul Salan, Andre Zeller and Edmond Jouhaud. He warned French forces in Algeria to remain loyal to the government or face court-martial.

The French army has another 300,000 men, 50,000 of them in Germany and about 10,000 in the Paris region. The navy presumably was mostly still loyal to the government. There were several score coastal patrol vessels and an unknown number of submarines in Algerian waters.

Rife With Rumors

Paris was rife with rumors but the city's famed night life was not dampened. The season's first tourists filled the nightclubs to drink champagne and ogle the stripteasers.

The insurgent-held Algiers radio poured forth an almost continuous stream of cryptic code messages, apparently aimed at their right-wing supporters in France, along with hourly claims of new support from wavering military commanders in Algeria.

These reports could not be verified. All unofficial communication with the territory was cut shortly after Foreign Legion paratroopers acting under orders from the junta of retired generals took control of Algiers before dawn Saturday.

The junta, supported by many of Algeria's million French settlers, is making a last desperate attempt to block De Gaulle's plans to negotiate a settlement of the six and a half years of nationalist rebellion. The generals and their right-wing followers believe De Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria will end the French supermacy there and the European population will be submerged by a hostile Moslem majority.

De Gaulle invoked Article 16 of the constitution granting the president almost limitless power to act in times of national crisis.

The Algerian rebel government in Tunis was hopeful that De Gaulle would crush the revolt and get down to peace negotiations with it. But in Cairo a spokesman for the rebel government warned that should the coup succeed, a "tremendous explosion in all North African countries" would follow.

Special Meeting

A special meeting of the Woodstock Town Board has been called for Tuesday at 4:30 p. m. The agenda has not been announced.

McNamara Cites Key Points in Defense Budget

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today shifts in military requirements and spending under the administration's reappraisal of defenses cannot be softened "to accommodate local or private interests."

Hard choices must be made and "pressures of special interest groups resisted," he said.

In his first formal address as secretary, the former Ford Motor Co. executive said, however, that steps were being taken to ease the impact on communities and industries of military contract cancellations and closing of bases.

McNamara's views were in an address prepared for a luncheon of Associated Press members holding their annual meeting.

Kennedy Instructions

In developing the new pattern for defense, McNamara said, he received two basic instructions from President Kennedy:

1. The defense program "must not be constructed within arbitrary budget ceilings."

2. While the size and form of the military organization were undergoing reappraisal to make sure they were adequate and up-to-date, "at the same time every possible effort must be made to eliminate waste, duplication and unjustifiable expenditure."

The preliminary reappraisal has been completed and the results incorporated into the new budget proposals, McNamara said.

"Our predecessors did a thorough job in preparing their program. As a result of the work we were able to do, however, we have reached different conclusions in a number of areas," the secretary said.

McNamara Lists Points

He then listed points already contained in the Kennedy defense budget, among them increases in the Polaris submarine force, Minuteman missile production and long-range airlift for troops and cutbacks in other production items and base closings.

"Further temporizing on experimental nuclear aircraft will be brought to a halt. The development program for the B70 aircraft will be modified. It will be possible to cancel the last two squadrons in the Titan missile program," McNamara said.

"I cite these savings not because economy can be the primary objective of the department of defense. I do so rather to emphasize what can be accomplished if hard decisions are faced, if hard choices are made and if the pressures of special interest groups are resisted."

U. S. Is Hopeful De Gaulle Able to Stop Insurrection

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government today watched reports of the French army insurrection in Algeria with deep dismay and with hope that President Charles de Gaulle would quickly put it down.

The U.S. ambassador to Paris, James M. Gavin, reported early today on the air of tension there.

Gavin has power to put into operation a number of steps for the safety of Americans if trouble developes. Communications from the U.S. consulate general at Algiers, center of the generals' rebellion, remained blacked out over the weekend.

For the time being there was no plan to postpone President Kennedy's visit to Paris now scheduled for the end of May.

Of major concern here was damage to the long effort for a peaceful settlement with Arab rebels on the future of Algeria.

The United States has supported De Gaulle's program for self-determination for the North African land. The right-wing army junta is dedicated to keeping Algeria French regardless of the cost.

Kennedy Urges United Support On Cuban Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—Official Washington withheld immediate comment today on a salvo of accusations fired at President Kennedy by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Spokesmen here declined to give a quick response to Castro's charge that "the threat of Kennedy is much like the threat of Hitler" and that the U.S. administration threatens the world with war.

Kennedy moved to build up greater unity for his position on Cuba and for possible future action on the thorny problem of growing Communist prestige in the Caribbean island.

Memoriam

In loving memory of Vera Nicoletti, who passed away four years ago today, April 24, 1957: Never shall your memory fade; Always in our hearts and prayers.

FRANK NICOLETTI AND FAMILY.

Miss Noone Dies

plays and coached debating teams. She was actively interested in numerous civic affairs, was a trustee of the Kingston Public Library and was one of the founders and members of the Atharhacton Club of Kingston. Just prior to her retirement from the teaching field she toured Europe. After retiring she continued to maintain contact with many of those who passed through her classes. Many of those who attended Kingston High School were inspired by her deep sense of duty and have gone on to give to others that deep sense of devotion which was instilled in them through their contact with Miss Noone.

Her devotion to a career of teaching was reflected in the action of the class of 1922 which dedicated the Kingston High School Maroon to her. Dr. Arthur S. Flemming was a member of that class.

The dedication message said: There is no one of our number who has devoted so much of his or her time to work on our school publications as the chairman of our advisory committee.

From the time she first assumed her duties in old Kingston Academy up to this day, she has been interested in and helped in the editing of the year book. However, it was not by her personal services alone that she has helped make these publications a success; but by most conscientious work as a teacher of English she has done much toward fitting the students for their places as editors.

The class of '22 is deeply indebted to her for her tireless efforts in helping our staff put out a good Maroon; so, in appreciation of her services in connection with former editions of our school annual and out of gratitude for her labor on this publication, we, the class of 1922, dedicate our book to our instructor, advisor and friend, Miss Mary E. Noone.

Surviving are two cousins, William J. McGrath of Phoenicia and Mrs. Raymond Baldwin of Oneonta.

Funeral services will be held from the A Carr and Son Funeral Home 1 Pearl street, Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. and thence to St. Joseph's Church where a high Mass of Requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul at 10 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Francis de Sales Cemetery at Phoenicia. Friends may call at the funeral home Monday and Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Merger of Banks Upstate Rejected

NEW YORK (AP)—A proposed merger of the Manufacturers & Traders Trust Co. of Buffalo and the State Bank of Newfane was rejected today by G. Russell Clark, state superintendent of banks.

Clark said a merger would have lessened competition and resulted in a tendency toward monopoly in the Newfane area by cutting the number of competing commercial banking organizations from three to two.

The Newfane bank, in Niagara County about 25 miles from Buffalo, would have become part of the Buffalo institution.

At the end of 1960, Manufacturers & Traders Trust, second largest bank in Buffalo, had deposits of more than $451 million and was ranked 65th in the nation.

Volume of News Is Extraordinary

Associated Press Reports on Year Of Unusual and Complex Problems

NEW YORK (AP)—The directors of the Associated Press said in their annual report today that "in a year of unusual and complex problems" the AP had provided its members with a service outstanding in scope.

The report, prepared for the annual meeting of AP members, said:

"The mere volume of the news was extraordinary, and its complexities offered a continuing challenge to reporting in a manner making the meaning of events understandable without departing from basic Associated Press principles of objectivity, accuracy and fairness."

Has Unmatched Facilities

The board said it had "noted with satisfaction further expansion of enterprise copy—material developed by The Associated Press utilizing its unmatched worldwide facilities.

"These are projects designed to present, in a single article or series, multiple facets of a situation or news development, beyond what can practically be done in day-to-day reporting."

The report added:

"The organization's affairs have continued to flourish since we last met. There has been a gratifying and continued expansion of its services in all departments.

Growth Noteworthy

"Growth has been particularly noteworthy in overseas distribution of news and newsphotos, in broadcasting domesitcally and abroad, and in specialized services to U.S. members.

"AP World Service is serving more newspapers, broadcasters and other outlets with news and photos than ever previously reached by a single organization."

The directors said that, through a long-term agreement with United News of India, the AP became the first United States-based news agency ever distributed throughout India.

Supplies Pig Networks

"Nigeria, Liberia, Indonesia, Israel and the German-speaking portion of Switzerland were other areas where large-scale AP distribution began," their report said. "The national radio networks of 10 rations became AP subscribers.

The board noted that news events of the past year included a presidential campaign and election, the launching of a new administration in Washington, armed conflict, political diplomatic jousting around the world, significant developments in business and finance, discoveries and experiments in the new horizons of science and "emotion-charged crises in human relations on a worldwide front."

Some Lapses

It said that in the pressure of getting out the news report there had been some lapses—"the ill-chosen word, the phrase subject to varying interpretations, some imbalance in factual presentation that greater care would have avoided."

"However," it said, "the board fails to find any significant departure from the fundamental fairness and impartiality of the news report. The validity of a news report can be judged only by the entire product, not by isolated words, phrases or sentences out of context of the entire dispatch."

Take Extensive Trips

The board said that in response to member editors' requests for greater attention to significant in-depth news of Canada and Latin America, staff writers were assigned to extensive trips in those areas.

"They produced splendid, incisive copy which, although played well by a number of member newspapers, probably merited wider usage than it received," it said.

The report said coverage problems were magnified by the steady increase in the number of new countries, notably in Africa.

Keeps News Flowing

"It was impossible to establish bureaus in all of them but the AP succeeded in keeping a flow of news from the principal trouble spots to an astounding degree, despite continued hazardous conditions and harassment," the board said.

Citing the Congo as an example, the board said AP members have benefitted time after time from a program of keeping staffers at important news centers even when there is a relative calm.

"Naturally, the management rushes reinforcements on extraordinary stories, but there is no substitute for the experienced and well-backgrounded reporter on the spot when news breaks," the board said.

The board said it noted with satisfaction that 1960 operations "resulted in a small excess of revenue over expenses, despite the heavy costs incurred in covering a larg variety of events from remote points, always an expensive operation, coupled with the seemingly never-ending inflation of costs generally."

It reported that revenues in 1960 were approximately $15 million greater than in 1950, a growth of more than 60 per cent in 10 years.

"Of this increase," the board said, "less than $2,800,000 resulted from assessment adjustments for basic service to domestic members since the last decennial revision.

"In other words, nearly 80 per cent of the increased revenue was derived from expansion of service—at home and abroad."

Rioters at El Prado

NEW YORK (AP) — A riotous clash between pro and anti-Castro partisans early today wrecked an 8th Avenue restaurant and resulted in injuries to two persons.

The fight broke out shortly after midnight in the El Prado, the restaurant in which a 9-year-old Venezuelan girl was shot to death last Sept. 21 as an innocent bystander during a similar fight.

Police said 15 to 20 persons took part in the melee today and several hundred more gathered to watch.

KHS Math Group Places First in Upstate Contest

The Kingston High School mathematics team placed first in the recent 12th annual math competitions in upper New York State and Ontario, Canada, and a member of the team took first honors, it was reported today by Mrs. Edith Case Murphy, head of the department.

The math team, composed of five members of the KHS Math Club, was coached by Mrs. Julia O'Brien.

Thomas J. Goodey, 15, a sophomore, took top honors in the competition.

Young Goodey is eligible for a scholarship choosing from among a number of New York State Colleges, if he should return to this country.

He also receives a $100 prize from the National Commercial Bank and Trust Co. of Albany.

The contest is sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America and the Society of Actuaries.

First place in team rating went to Irondequiquoit High School and second to Albany Academy.

Mrs. Murphy said today that Goodey is "very brilliant in math" and that when tests were administered to him last fall it was found that his placement would be 12th year, although he was just entering his sophomore year.

The team, which placed in the upper 10 per cent of the entire New York State contest, including upper New York State and Ontario, Canada, Metropolitan New York and Western New York, was composed of Goodey, Helmut Altneder, Andrea Jacobson, Gerald Woodvine and Joel Kobran.

Goodey, son of Dr. and Mrs. John Goodey, came to Kingston with his parents last August from the British West Indies. Dr. Goodey was assistant director of the Kingston City Laboratory. The family just left for London, England, where they will make their home temporarily.

Police Guard Doors At Blake Hearings

LONDON (AP)—A hearing was held behind closed doors at the Bow Street Court today for George Blake, 38, accused of violating the British official secrets law.

Five policemen guarded the court as Blake, described as a government official, was led into the dock.

No details of the charges have been published. He is formally accused of "feloniously, for a purpose prejudicial to the safety and interests of the state, communicating to another person information which might be directly or indirectly useful to an enemy."

Even the government position he held has been kept secret.

After the hearing the magistrate ordered Blake held for trial. The date will be set later.

Kennedy Greets Sukarno: Both Stress Freedom

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indonesia's President Sukarno arrived here today for a one-day visit and told President Kennedy "it is my fervent hope that America and Indonesia will always be close friends."

Kennedy, greeting the neutralist Southeast Asian leader, praised him as "a distinguished national leader, the father of his country and a leader of the world."

The American chief executive said Sukarno throughout his life had devoted himself to the building of the Indonesian nation.

"We wish relations between the United States and Indonesia to be intimate and close," Kennedy said.

"We seek what he seeks—a life of freedom, independence and security for our peoples."

Sukarno, pointing out that this is his fifth visit to the United States, expressed appreciation for the warm welcome. He disavowed the "father of his country" role and said: "Without my nation, I am just the man next door."

The Indonesia president said he is "just a small mouthpiece of the Indonesian nation. I express its wishes, its hopes and aspirations."

The friendly exchange took place on a bright sunny morning at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland, where Sukarno was welcomed by fanfare and military pomp.

Kennedy and Sukarno rode in an open limousine to the White House in a motorcade that moved at a leisurely pace. They were met at the executive mansion by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The two presidents immediately began the first of a series of talks that were to total four hours today.

The talks were expected to range from the dispute over Dutch-held West New Guinea which Indonesians claim is a part of their country, to the situation in Cuba and Southeast Asia.

Keating Urges Society Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N. Y., wants a Senate probe of whether the John Birch Society is resorting to "harassment, intimidation and economic blackmail" against its critics.

But Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N. H., says he doesn't think the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee should furnish "a publicity forum for those who desire to be investigated and wish to publicize their aims and purposes."

Cotton, a subcommittee member, told a reporter he doubted the internal security unit had jurisdiction and saw no reason at this time for any investigation of the militantly conservative organization.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee is studying whether it has jurisdiction to probe the society founded by Robert Welch, retired Belmont, Mass., candy manufacturer. Welch has requested an investigation.

Keating, also a subcommittee member, said Sunday he wants the Senate to decide wether the John Birch Society should be required to account for "a potential income of over $18 million per year."

In a program recorded for television and radio stations in New York, Keating said this was the potential income of the society under its dues schedule.

Motorist to Face Three Violations

John C. Robb, 26, of Route 9, Box 41, Kingston, was booked early Sunday on charges of driving while his ability was impaired, passing a red light and lacking an operator's license.

The charges were lodged by officers Thomas Coffey and Bernard Bouton. City Judge Aaron E. Klein today put the case over to April 29. Attorney William Curran represents the defendant.

Harold Nelson Bodine, 20, of 2 Pearl Street, was arrested Saturday afternoon on a warrent charging third degree assault. The charge was lodged by Patricia Bodine, his wife, police said. Attorney Francis Martocci appeared in city court today for Bodine, and the case was put over to Tuesday morning.

Nicholas Carl, of 12 Wrentham Street, charged with speeding, was fined $10.

May Come Soon

Britain and the Soviet Union, after weeks of negotiations on the Laotian situation, are expected to issue a joint call for a cease-fire today or Tuesday, and quick endorsement is expected from Washington. The Soviets reportedly have agreed that the cease-fire will be policed by the International Truce Commission set up by the 1954 Indochina armistice and that a 14-nation conference then will be held to arrange a unified, neutral Laos.

As the military position of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels got better and better, Prince Souvanna Phouma, the neutralist Laotian leader recognized by the Communists as the legal premier, said in Peiping that his people count on the Communist and neutral nations to help restore peace in Laos.

Fear Algerian

lifted for four airfields in the Paris region and one field in Alsace, near the Swiss border.

But airports at Marseille, Nice and Toulouse — those closest to Algeria — remained closed to traffic, with buses, tanks and trucks spotting their runways.

The situation in Algeria remained confused. The insurgent junta claimed the whole army in Algeria had rallied to it. But the French government said Gen. de Pouilly, with headquarters at Tlemcen, west of Oran, and still loyal to De Gaulle, reported he was in contact with all army detachments in western Algeria with the exception of those in Oran itself.

Rally to DeGaulle

This would mean that most of the army in the Oran area is standing by De Gaulle. The insurgent junta, broadcasting from Algiers, claimed that the whole army in Algeria had rallied to its cause.

The Interior Ministry said 1,500 civil defense volunteers had been enrolled in Paris for guard duty to supplement gendarmes and troops posted at the key structures of Paris.

Labor organizations, from right to left, scheduled a one-hour token strike at 5 p.m. to express their allegiance to De Gaulle.

Reports from throughout the country voiced a resounding chorus of support for the government.

Tighten Inspection

North of Lille and at Strasbourg, frontier police tightened their inspection. In the Lyon region of central France, security guards removed the propellers from private planes to keep them grounded.

The air flight center at Aix-en-Provence, clearing house for plane information over the Mediterranean, kept its radar beamed toward the Algerian coast for the first sign of any troop carriers headed toward France.

Each large provincial city was organizing a civilian militia to fight off any paratroop attack.

The government filed an open indictment against all persons leading or assisting the insurrection. The penalties will be death or life imprisonment.

The Finance Ministry cut off all transactions between France and Algeria, a step that eventually could freeze the insurgents' finances since the Algerian currency is based on the French franc.

De Gaulle in a TV appearance Sunday announced he had assumed almost dictatorial powers to combat the military junta that took control of Algiers and Oran in a bloodless coup Saturday.

The president promised to use all means to end what he called the "odious and stupid aventure" led by retired Gens. Maurice Challe, Raoul Salan, Andre Zeller and Edmond Jouhaud. He warned French forces in Algeria to remain loyal to the government or face court-martial.

The French army has another 300,000 men, 50,000 of them in Germany and about 10,000 in the Paris region. The navy presumably was mostly still loyal to the government. There were several score coastal patrol vessels and an unknown number of submarines in Algerian waters.

Rife With Rumors

Paris was rife with rumors but the city's famed night life was not dampened. The season's first tourists filled the nightclubs to drink champagne and ogle the stripteasers.

The insurgent-held Algiers radio poured forth an almost continuous stream of cryptic code messages, apparently aimed at their right-wing supporters in France, along with hourly claims of new support from wavering military commanders in Algeria.

These reports could not be verified. All unofficial communication with the territory was cut shortly after Foreign Legion paratroopers acting under orders from the junta of retired generals took control of Algiers before dawn Saturday.

The junta, supported by many of Algeria's million French settlers, is making a last desperate attempt to block De Gaulle's plans to negotiate a settlement of the six and a half years of nationalist rebellion. The generals and their right-wing followers believe De Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria will end the French supermacy there and the European population will be submerged by a hostile Moslem majority.

De Gaulle invoked Article 16 of the constitution granting the president almost limitless power to act in times of national crisis.

The Algerian rebel government in Tunis was hopeful that De Gaulle would crush the revolt and get down to peace negotiations with it. But in Cairo a spokesman for the rebel government warned that should the coup succeed, a "tremendous explosion in all North African countries" would follow.

Former Falls Resident Is Air Crash Victim

Word had been received here of the death of Major Thomas E. Donnelly in a plane accident Friday, April 21, at Oklahoma.

Major Donnelly was a former resident of High Falls and was the son of Mrs. Ursula Donnelly of North Bergen, N. J. and the late Michael E. Donnelly. Major Donnelly graduated from Kingston High School, class of 1934. He enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Force in 1935 and retired from service this past year.

No details of the accident are available at this time.

McNamara Cites Key Points in Defense Budget

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today shifts in military requirements and spending under the administration's reappraisal of defenses cannot be softened "to accommodate local or private interests."

Hard choices must be made and "pressures of special interest groups resisted," he said.

In his first formal address as secretary, the former Ford Motor Co. executive said, however, that steps were being taken to ease the impact on communities and industries of military contract cancellations and closing of bases.

McNamara's views were in an address prepared for a luncheon of Associated Press members holding their annual meeting.

Kennedy Instructions

In developing the new pattern for defense, McNamara said, he received two basic instructions from President Kennedy:

1. The defense program "must not be constructed within arbitrary budget ceilings."

2. While the size and form of the military organization were undergoing reappraisal to make sure they were adequate and up-to-date, "at the same time every possible effort must be made to eliminate waste, duplication and unjustifiable expenditure."

The preliminary reappraisal has been completed and the results incorporated into the new budget proposals, McNamara said.

"Our predecessors did a thorough job in preparing their program. As a result of the work we were able to do, however, we have reached different conclusions in a number of areas," the secretary said.

McNamara Lists Points

He then listed points already contained in the Kennedy defense budget, among them increases in the Polaris submarine force, Minuteman missile production and long-range airlift for troops and cutbacks in other production items and base closings.

"Further temporizing on experimental nuclear aircraft will be brought to a halt. The development program for the B70 aircraft will be modified. It will be possible to cancel the last two squadrons in the Titan missile program," McNamara said.

"I cite these savings not because economy can be the primary objective of the department of defense. I do so rather to emphasize what can be accomplished if hard decisions are faced, if hard choices are made and if the pressures of special interest groups are resisted."

U. S. Is Hopeful De Gaulle Able to Stop Insurrection

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government today watched reports of the French army insurrection in Algeria with deep dismay and with hope that President Charles de Gaulle would quickly put it down.

The U.S. ambassador to Paris, James M. Gavin, reported early today on the air of tension there.

Gavin has power to put into operation a number of steps for the safety of Americans if trouble developes. Communications from the U.S. consulate general at Algiers, center of the generals' rebellion, remained blacked out over the weekend.

For the time being there was no plan to postpone President Kennedy's visit to Paris now scheduled for the end of May.

Of major concern here was damage to the long effort for a peaceful settlement with Arab rebels on the future of Algeria.

The United States has supported De Gaulle's program for self-determination for the North African land. The right-wing army junta is dedicated to keeping Algeria French regardless of the cost.

Kennedy Urges United Support On Cuban Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—Official Washington withheld immediate comment today on a salvo of accusations fired at President Kennedy by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Spokesmen here declined to give a quick response to Castro's charge that "the threat of Kennedy is much like the threat of Hitler" and that the U.S. administration threatens the world with war.

Kennedy moved to build up greater unity for his position on Cuba and for possible future action on the thorny problem of growing Communist prestige in the Caribbean island.

Memoriam

In loving memory of Vera Nicoletti, who passed away four years ago today, April 24, 1957: Never shall your memory fade; Always in our hearts and prayers.

FRANK NICOLETTI AND FAMILY.

Miss Noone Dies

plays and coached debating teams. She was actively interested in numerous civic affairs, was a trustee of the Kingston Public Library and was one of the founders and members of the Atharhacton Club of Kingston. Just prior to her retirement from the teaching field she toured Europe. After retiring she continued to maintain contact with many of those who passed through her classes. Many of those who attended Kingston High School were inspired by her deep sense of duty and have gone on to give to others that deep sense of devotion which was instilled in them through their contact with Miss Noone.

Her devotion to a career of teaching was reflected in the action of the class of 1922 which dedicated the Kingston High School Maroon to her. Dr. Arthur S. Flemming was a member of that class.

The dedication message said: There is no one of our number who has devoted so much of his or her time to work on our school publications as the chairman of our advisory committee.

From the time she first assumed her duties in old Kingston Academy up to this day, she has been interested in and helped in the editing of the year book. However, it was not by her personal services alone that she has helped make these publications a success; but by most conscientious work as a teacher of English she has done much toward fitting the students for their places as editors.

The class of '22 is deeply indebted to her for her tireless efforts in helping our staff put out a good Maroon; so, in appreciation of her services in connection with former editions of our school annual and out of gratitude for her labor on this publication, we, the class of 1922, dedicate our book to our instructor, advisor and friend, Miss Mary E. Noone.

Surviving are two cousins, William J. McGrath of Phoenicia and Mrs. Raymond Baldwin of Oneonta.

Funeral services will be held from the A Carr and Son Funeral Home 1 Pearl street, Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. and thence to St. Joseph's Church where a high Mass of Requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul at 10 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Francis de Sales Cemetery at Phoenicia. Friends may call at the funeral home Monday and Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Merger of Banks Upstate Rejected

NEW YORK (AP)—A proposed merger of the Manufacturers & Traders Trust Co. of Buffalo and the State Bank of Newfane was rejected today by G. Russell Clark, state superintendent of banks.

Clark said a merger would have lessened competition and resulted in a tendency toward monopoly in the Newfane area by cutting the number of competing commercial banking organizations from three to two.

The Newfane bank, in Niagara County about 25 miles from Buffalo, would have become part of the Buffalo institution.

At the end of 1960, Manufacturers & Traders Trust, second largest bank in Buffalo, had deposits of more than $451 million and was ranked 65th in the nation.

Research Called Major Part Of Cancer and Heart Fight

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A panel of eminent physicians told President Kennedy today that an offensive against the two biggest killers in the United States—heart disease and cancer—can succeed.

They said the key to success is a "vast expansion of medical research," backed by a much higher level of federal appropriations and a commensurate increase in private, voluntary contributions.

The doctors said heart disease and cancer cause two out of every three deaths in the United States today, that every minute two Americans die of one or the other.

But, the panel reported, there is a "tremendous stirring of optimism" in the fields of combatting both heart diseases and cancer. So, they said, "this is no time to sit still in research."

The doctors are members of the President's Conference on Heart Disease and Cancer.

Kennedy called the conference last March 15 to help chart the government's further role in a national attack on the two major causes of death in the United States.

Twenty-two outstanding physicians were brought together in the conference under the chairmanship of Boisefeuillet Jones, special assistant to the secretary of welfare for health and medical affairs.

The report made no effort to approximate the cost of what it called "the massive pooling-up of our scientific potential which can, and will, lead to new triumphs" in the field of treating heart and cancer cases, or preventing their occurrence.

In plain, nontechnical and general terms, the doctors said thousands of additional research scientists must be trained and adequate research facilities built in a bold effort to "hammer out long-range, broadly conceived scientific endeavors which encompass years of effort."

POSTGRADUATE — Though she may be the oldest living doctor in the nation, Dr. Amelia Ziegler of Portland, Ore., isn't impressed. Her family Bible says she is 100 years old, but Dr. Ziegler says, "I don't believe it." She retired from practice in 1940.

Films Available For Area Groups

The newly inaugurated community service, the showing of fire prevention and associated films to various groups, has been successful, it was announced today by Philip Greer, public relations chairman of Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters Local 461, AFL-CIO, sponsors of the films.

During six weeks of operations they have shown films to many volunteer fire companies, service clubs, church groups and at schools as well as a special showing of "Our Obligation" at the Municipal Auditorium.

This film shows what could happen in a typical school if proper precautions are not taken. The film, as well as others, were also shown at the association's booth at the Lions Club exposition.

Any group interested in seeing films of this type are urged to communicate with Greer of fire headquarters for further information. This service is provided without cost by off duty firemen with 16mm sound equipment specially purchased for this community service.

The association extends its thanks and appreciation to IBM of Kingston, Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., Ulster County Chapter Red Cross and National Board of Fire Underwriters for loan of films.

Wool Producers Reminded to Keep Records Complete

With the 1960 wool marketing year closed and the 1961 year beginning, growers were reminded today of the importance of complete records on their sales of wool and unshorn lambs.

Producers are eligible for payments for the 1960 marketing year for wool and unshorn lambs marketed not later than March 31 of this year. Later marketing will be eligible for payments for the 1961 year.

The local office of Ulster County Agricultural Stablization & Conservation Committee, reminds growers that the sales documents must show the true net sales proceeds, including deductions made for freight and other marketing changes. Where false information is filed, both the producer and the wool buyer are subject to penalties.

Applications for payment under the 1960 program must be filed at the county ASC office not later than May 1. The average price received by farmers for wool during the entire marketing year can be than calculated and the payment rate announced. Payments to growers will be made some time during the summer.

For the 1959 wool marketing year 36 sheep growers in Ulster County received net shorn wool payments amounting to $909.62 and eight lamb growers received net payments of $66.01 on unshorn lambs sold. These amounts represent payments after deductions withheld for the grower's contributions to a fund for promoting the use of lamb and wool products.

Deductions were one cent per pound for wool sold and five cents per hundredweight of lambs sold.

Invasion Lacked Muscle

Says Castro Has Support For Program Despite Hate

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The main lesson from the Cuban invasion disaster is that you can't beat something with nothing.

What the invasion lacked was ideas and enough muscle. But the lesson here applies elsewhere.

President Kennedy said last week: "There are from this useful lessons. It is clear that the forces of communism are not to be underestimated in Cuba or anywhere else in the world."

Fidel Castro, at the beginning of his war against Fulgencio Batista's dictatorship, seemed to have nothing much more than resentment.

Seeks Mass Support

It was only after a year of fighting Batista in the mountains that he broadcast an idea to draw mass support.

This was his program of agrarian reform—land for the landless.

When he took over, even though he became a dictator, he put in this reform and others.

It's easy for Americans, with their distaste for dictatorship, to think that because they despise Castro all Cubans do. But there are two kinds of dictatorships.

One is simply repressive, selfish, and ignores the people's needs. There is the other which rallies support with benefits or promises of benefits long overdue.

Castro's is the latter kind.

Value of Freedom

To assume Cubans, after a long history of dictatorships, value freedom above all else when they haven't had the kind of freedom Americans enjoy, is simply to think of Cubans in American terms, not in their terms.

There was some astonishment—and the American Central Intelligence Agency reportedly badly advised Kennedy on this—that the Cubans didn't rise up and sink Castro when the invasion began.

There shouldn't have been. The exiled Cubans making the invasion represented shades of thinking from left to right. If they had won, it is easy to imagine the subsequent, and perhaps bloody, struggles between them for power.

But so far as this writer knows they did not try to win the Cuban masses away from Castro by programs which might make them look more attractive than the dictator.

Castro Programs Aided

Castro undoubtedly has broad support for some of his programs in Cuba, even though he may have brought hatred and resentment with others.

As a minimum for winning popular support before the invasion the rebels would have had to promise to keep the good Castro reforms while abolishing the unpopular ones.

Without proclaiming such a program in advance, the rebels seemed to be nothing more than a brand of men who didn't like Castro and whose only program was to get rid of him.

So, before the invasion began, the rebels hadn't prepared the population with ideas. And, as it turned out, from a military standpoint they also were poorly prepared, both in numbers and equipment.

U.S. Helped Plans

But this disaster raises questions which go further, and are more important, than Cuba alone. The United States, it's clear now, helped prepare the invasion.

If this government was so far off base in understanding both the attitude of the Cuban people and what the invasion needed in ideas and muscle, then how much better is it in other areas where it is trying to stave off communism?

If in Asia, or Africa or Latin America the Communists promise needed reforms and benefits but this country simply puts its effort into fighting communism, particularly if it backs reactionary regimes, the outcome looks gloomy, indeed.

This may be what Kennedy had in mind when he mentioned more lessons than one that needed to be learned from Cuba.

Don't overheat a sauce made with natural cheddar cheese; too much heat may produce a curdled look or stringiness.

Kennedy Family Leaves Estate

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, his wife and their 3-year-old daughter Caroline flew back today from a quiet weekend at their estate in the Virginia hunt country.

Kennedy took a respite from the cares of office following his Saturday meeting with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower at Camp David, Md.

The President attended Roman Catholic Mass with Mrs. Kennedy at the Middleburg Community Center Sunday. Then, in glorious sunny weather, he put the emphasis on comfort and such activities as swatting a few golf balls across the rolling lawns of Glen Ora.

Must Shoot Them:

with Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor in an investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency, the New York Times said today.

A Washington dispatch to the newspaper said President Kennedy asked his brother to help investigate the CIA's part in the Cuban crisis and in all other aspects of the secret defense activities of the United States.

Taylor, former Army chief of staff, was recalled from retirement Saturday to conduct a survey of the organization and capacity of the United States to deal with such things as subversion, counterespionage and guerrilla warfare.

The Times Story

The Times story said in part: The CIA, which operates under the President and the National Security Council, "helped organize, train, finance and arm the recent unsuccessful efforts of the Cuban refugees to overthrow the Castro government."

The President turned to his brother to help with the investigation because of his confidence in the attorney general and because the CIA's role in the Cuban attack has raised a number of highly sensitive political and international problems.

The failure of the Cuban uprising has been generally attributed to a faulty CIA intelligence estimate that the Cuban people were ready to revolt against the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Seek Refugee Safety

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—The Venezuelan Foreign Ministry sought safe conduct today for former President Manuel Urrutia of Cuba and 86 other Cubans who have taken refuge in the Venezuelan Embassy in Havana.

Two persons were hospitalized in two other area collisions over the weekend—one on Malden turnpike, the other on Lucas Avenue extension near Cottekill Four Corners.

William Donald Schaffer, 22, of Malden, was admitted to Benedictine Hospital with contusions, abrasions and a possible rib injury after his car, proceeding in a westerly direction on the turnpike, left the right side of the road and smashed head-on into a tree. The time was 2:30 a. m. Sunday. Trooper David Wachtel of the Kingston state police investigated.

Fractures Leg

Joseph V. Sullivan Jr., 31, of Box 171, Saugerties, suffered a fractured right leg and numerous abrasions of the face and body when his car went out of control on Lucas Avenue extension about 500 feet north of Four Corners, Cottekill.

Sullivan told Deputy Sheriffs Thomas Mayone and Charles Dullea that he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming vehicle.

He swerved off the road to avoid a collision, plunged into a small ditch, continuing for some 200 feet and striking a wooden fence pole. The car then sheared off a utility pole, continuing and striking four more fence poles before it crossed the highway and came to a stop.

Sullivan was proceeding north at the time of the mishap. The time was 2:30 a. m. Sunday.

A condition report was not immediately available at the hospital. He was not on the serious list, however.

Junior Chamber Lists Events for Survival Program

Operation Survival Day Saturday will climax a week of activities sponsored by the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce Operation Survival committee in cooperation with the Civil Defense Administration.

Tuesday, two short movies on atomic fallout and how to shield oneself from fallout will be shown at the Kingston High School Auditorium beginning at 8 p. m.

Thursday noon a Nike Atlas missle will arrive in the city.

Saturday afternoon beginning at 12:30 p. m. and continuing until 5 p. m. at the Kingston High School parking lot many interesting displays and exhibits will be on view. Emil Buhler, chairman of the committee, announced that the Nike Atlas missile will be on display as well as a model fallout shelter. A band concert will be given by the Kingston Concert Band with Marlin Morrette, directing the 25-piece union band, between the hours of 2 and 4. The concert is given courtesy of the Kingston local 215, AF of M through a grant from the Recording Industries Trust Fund of the American Federation of Musicians.

In adition to these events the National Guard will be present with many interesting displays. The United States Air Force will have nine airplanes circling the city twice at 2 p. m. The planes will fly from southwest to northeast and circle the city twice in the two approaches to Kingston that they will make. The planes will be three C119 Cargo planes; three T133 Fighter Jet Trainers and three B-52 Supersonic Jet Bombers. The Civil Air Patrol also will appear at the affair.

Emil Buhler and his comittee are looking forward to a large turnout from the public. He wishes to point out that radioactive fallout would cause the highest number of casualties in a nuclear attack, according to information garnered at the Civil Defense Commission. Without shelter protection, an estimated 77 percent of Kingston's population could be killed or injured by fallout radiation. One of the characteristics of fallout radiation that make protection against it practicable is its short life he said. Two weeks after a nuclear detonation, the intensity of fallout radiation would be only one-tenth of one per cent of the intensity at the time of detonation.

5 Growth Stocks Given For White Collar Workers

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "Recently you answered a letter from a school teacher, working for a moderate salary. I'm a white collar worker and very much in the same boat. You advised the purchase of good growth stock as a partial protection against inflation. I've been following the market for some time and would like to invest in five such stocks. Could you help me " E.G.

A) If you've been following the market closely, you know that there are several million other investors who feel as you do. Growth has always commanded a premium in the stock market.

Increased emphasis recently on growth — particularly on rapid stocks into stratospheric levels where I'm afraid to follow them. And I am not a timid man where investments are concerned.

In your circumstances, where a minimum of risk should be assumed, I'm going to suggest growth — has pushed a lot of stocks which have not yet gone wholly into orbit. Compared to other good growth situations, Brunswick (NYSE) looks relatively undervalued. I believe that Corn Products (NYSE), scheduled to be split this week, has little downside risk and a lot of growth ahead. I also like First Charter Financial, Fairmont Foods, and Montana Power, all Big Board stocks. I believe you will do well with these over a period of time.

Q) "We bought Servel shares recently. We know it is a speculation but would like your opinion of it." H.H.

A I like Servel, below 20, as further recovery earning power. Shares recently got up to their highest level in many years. This was due partly to a rise in earnings in fiscal 1960 and in large measure to a revival of interest in low-priced issues. I would hold the stock but would lighten my holdings on any further run-up to the mid-20's.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Jewish History

that, even in a highly developed country, it was possible to turn back the clock. The steady development from 200 years of struggle by the Jews was set back overnight," Baron said.

The period between the two world wars, he said, marked the "high point of Jewish emancipation in Europe."

To Show Damage

The prosecution put Dr. Baron on the stand to delineate the social and political position of the Jews in Europe at the moment when the Nazis came to power, and to show the extent of the damage wreaked between 1933, when Adolf Hitler came to power, and 1945, when he committed suicide amid the ruins of the Third Reich.

Prior to his appearance on the witness stand, Eichmann's attorney, Dr. Robert Servatius, sharply questioned Capt. Avner Less of the Israeli police, who interrogated Eichmann over a period of eight months.

Given Freely

Less repeated that Eichmann's dictated statements — amounting to more than half a million words and now part of the court record —were given freely and not "under duress."

Servatius led Less through a series of questions about the circumstances of the tape-recorded testimony by Eichmann, part of which was played last week. He asked whether "undue influence" had been used on Eichmann, and whether he was told to answer questions about certain matters and not about others.

"I take it there is an intent behind these questions," said the president of the court, Supreme Court Justice Moshe Landau.

His 'No' Is Firm

"May I ask the witness to answer, yes or no, whether there was any undue influence," Servatius said.

Less replied firmly, "no."

The other two judges also shot a number of questions at Less. One of them, Benyamin Halevy, said he noted "a kind of cross-examination—and this doesn't tally with your other remarks."

"There were sometimes contradictions in what the accused said," Less replied. "I did it for elucidation."

Less said Eichmann has written a 127-page recollection of his personal contacts with the top Nazi officials.

In the background were other screams and a crackling sound, fainter and the call was cut off.

Firemen spotted the flames from the firehouse three miles away. They turned in a second alarm before they left the firehouse. In all, 12 alarms were set off, summoning fire equipment from practically every department in southern Maryland.

Students Answer Europe Parades Against America

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A group of Latin American college students paraded before the state Capitol to answer "demonstrations in Europe against America."

The group, including 21 Cubans, supported President Kennedy's warning to the Soviet Union to keep hands off Cuba.

One student, who said he had an uncle and two cousins among the group that invaded Cuba this week, told a reporter the march Saturday was "in answer to demonstrations in Europe against America."

He said he did not believe the invasion had been a failure.

"It showed the world that some Cubans are against (Prime Minister Fidel) Castro," he said.

The students were from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy.

Governor Vetoes

Drumm, R-Columbia, sponsored the measure. Mrs. Gordon said the bill had the backing of the State Grange, the State Farm Bureau and most of the major dairymen's cooperatives in the state.

It would have set up a Bureau of Milk Distribution to oversee retail prices. The commissioner could have regulated milk advertising, barred sale of milk below costs and regulated trade practices.

Says Safeguards Lacking

The governor said the measure lacked sufficient guides and standards to afford safeguards to either dairy farmers or the public.

In announcing he had signed the injunction measure, Rockefeller said it protected both the farmer with perishable products on his hands and preserved the legitimate rights of labor.

Under the bill, effective Sept. 1, courts may issue injunctions effective for a maximum five days to halt unlawful acts by labor unions that threaten a farmers' produce.

The measure is limited to labor disputes involving production at the farm, shipment from the farm and initial storage or first processing of perishable products.

Rockefeller took this other action on other agriculture bills:

EGGS — Vetoed a bill that would have required that eggs produced and sold in this state be marked: "New York Produced."

COOPERATIVE DUES — Vetoed a measure under which milk dealers would have deducted from payments to farmers the membership dues the farmer owed to a cooperative. The dealer would have forwarded the money to the cooperative. The governor noted the legislation was opposed by dealers "upon whom it could well work a serious hardship." He suggested various dairy - industry groups work out a plan acceptable to all.

TRUCKS — Vetoed a bill that would have permitted tank trucks picking up milk at farms to use state highways the public works commissioner had closed to heavy trucks to prevent damage. The governor said a question had been raised about such an exemption from the point of view of maintaining safe roads.

Invasion Lacked Muscle

Says Castro Has Support For Program Despite Hate

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The main lesson from the Cuban invasion disaster is that you can't beat something with nothing.

What the invasion lacked was ideas and enough muscle. But the lesson here applies elsewhere.

President Kennedy said last week: "There are from this useful lessons. It is clear that the forces of communism are not to be underestimated in Cuba or anywhere else in the world."

Fidel Castro, at the beginning of his war against Fulgencio Batista's dictatorship, seemed to have nothing much more than resentment.

Seeks Mass Support

It was only after a year of fighting Batista in the mountains that he broadcast an idea to draw mass support.

This was his program of agrarian reform—land for the landless.

When he took over, even though he became a dictator, he put in this reform and others.

It's easy for Americans, with their distaste for dictatorship, to think that because they despise Castro all Cubans do. But there are two kinds of dictatorships.

One is simply repressive, selfish, and ignores the people's needs. There is the other which rallies support with benefits or promises of benefits long overdue.

Castro's is the latter kind.

Value of Freedom

To assume Cubans, after a long history of dictatorships, value freedom above all else when they haven't had the kind of freedom Americans enjoy, is simply to think of Cubans in American terms, not in their terms.

There was some astonishment—and the American Central Intelligence Agency reportedly badly advised Kennedy on this—that the Cubans didn't rise up and sink Castro when the invasion began.

There shouldn't have been. The exiled Cubans making the invasion represented shades of thinking from left to right. If they had won, it is easy to imagine the subsequent, and perhaps bloody, struggles between them for power.

But so far as this writer knows they did not try to win the Cuban masses away from Castro by programs which might make them look more attractive than the dictator.

Castro Programs Aided

Castro undoubtedly has broad support for some of his programs in Cuba, even though he may have brought hatred and resentment with others.

As a minimum for winning popular support before the invasion the rebels would have had to promise to keep the good Castro reforms while abolishing the unpopular ones.

Without proclaiming such a program in advance, the rebels seemed to be nothing more than a brand of men who didn't like Castro and whose only program was to get rid of him.

So, before the invasion began, the rebels hadn't prepared the population with ideas. And, as it turned out, from a military standpoint they also were poorly prepared, both in numbers and equipment.

U.S. Helped Plans

But this disaster raises questions which go further, and are more important, than Cuba alone. The United States, it's clear now, helped prepare the invasion.

If this government was so far off base in understanding both the attitude of the Cuban people and what the invasion needed in ideas and muscle, then how much better is it in other areas where it is trying to stave off communism?

If in Asia, or Africa or Latin America the Communists promise needed reforms and benefits but this country simply puts its effort into fighting communism, particularly if it backs reactionary regimes, the outcome looks gloomy, indeed.

This may be what Kennedy had in mind when he mentioned more lessons than one that needed to be learned from Cuba.

Kennedy Family Leaves Estate

Kennedy took a respite from the cares of office following his Saturday meeting with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower at Camp David, Md.

The President attended Roman Catholic Mass with Mrs. Kennedy at the Middleburg Community Center Sunday. Then, in glorious sunny weather, he put the emphasis on comfort and such activities as swatting a few golf balls across the rolling lawns of Glen Ora.

Must Shoot Them:

with Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor in an investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency, the New York Times said today.

A Washington dispatch to the newspaper said President Kennedy asked his brother to help investigate the CIA's part in the Cuban crisis and in all other aspects of the secret defense activities of the United States.

Taylor, former Army chief of staff, was recalled from retirement Saturday to conduct a survey of the organization and capacity of the United States to deal with such things as subversion, counterespionage and guerrilla warfare.

The Times Story

The Times story said in part: The CIA, which operates under the President and the National Security Council, "helped organize, train, finance and arm the recent unsuccessful efforts of the Cuban refugees to overthrow the Castro government."

The President turned to his brother to help with the investigation because of his confidence in the attorney general and because the CIA's role in the Cuban attack has raised a number of highly sensitive political and international problems.

The failure of the Cuban uprising has been generally attributed to a faulty CIA intelligence estimate that the Cuban people were ready to revolt against the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Seek Refugee Safety

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—The Venezuelan Foreign Ministry sought safe conduct today for former President Manuel Urrutia of Cuba and 86 other Cubans who have taken refuge in the Venezuelan Embassy in Havana.

Two persons were hospitalized in two other area collisions over the weekend—one on Malden turnpike, the other on Lucas Avenue extension near Cottekill Four Corners.

William Donald Schaffer, 22, of Malden, was admitted to Benedictine Hospital with contusions, abrasions and a possible rib injury after his car, proceeding in a westerly direction on the turnpike, left the right side of the road and smashed head-on into a tree. The time was 2:30 a. m. Sunday. Trooper David Wachtel of the Kingston state police investigated.

Fractures Leg

Joseph V. Sullivan Jr., 31, of Box 171, Saugerties, suffered a fractured right leg and numerous abrasions of the face and body when his car went out of control on Lucas Avenue extension about 500 feet north of Four Corners, Cottekill.

Sullivan told Deputy Sheriffs Thomas Mayone and Charles Dullea that he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming vehicle.

He swerved off the road to avoid a collision, plunged into a small ditch, continuing for some 200 feet and striking a wooden fence pole. The car then sheared off a utility pole, continuing and striking four more fence poles before it crossed the highway and came to a stop.

Sullivan was proceeding north at the time of the mishap. The time was 2:30 a. m. Sunday.

A condition report was not immediately available at the hospital. He was not on the serious list, however.

Junior Chamber Lists Events for Survival Program

Operation Survival Day Saturday will climax a week of activities sponsored by the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce Operation Survival committee in cooperation with the Civil Defense Administration.

Tuesday, two short movies on atomic fallout and how to shield oneself from fallout will be shown at the Kingston High School Auditorium beginning at 8 p. m.

Thursday noon a Nike Atlas missle will arrive in the city.

Saturday afternoon beginning at 12:30 p. m. and continuing until 5 p. m. at the Kingston High School parking lot many interesting displays and exhibits will be on view. Emil Buhler, chairman of the committee, announced that the Nike Atlas missile will be on display as well as a model fallout shelter. A band concert will be given by the Kingston Concert Band with Marlin Morrette, directing the 25-piece union band, between the hours of 2 and 4. The concert is given courtesy of the Kingston local 215, AF of M through a grant from the Recording Industries Trust Fund of the American Federation of Musicians.

In adition to these events the National Guard will be present with many interesting displays. The United States Air Force will have nine airplanes circling the city twice at 2 p. m. The planes will fly from southwest to northeast and circle the city twice in the two approaches to Kingston that they will make. The planes will be three C119 Cargo planes; three T133 Fighter Jet Trainers and three B-52 Supersonic Jet Bombers. The Civil Air Patrol also will appear at the affair.

Emil Buhler and his comittee are looking forward to a large turnout from the public. He wishes to point out that radioactive fallout would cause the highest number of casualties in a nuclear attack, according to information garnered at the Civil Defense Commission. Without shelter protection, an estimated 77 percent of Kingston's population could be killed or injured by fallout radiation. One of the characteristics of fallout radiation that make protection against it practicable is its short life he said. Two weeks after a nuclear detonation, the intensity of fallout radiation would be only one-tenth of one per cent of the intensity at the time of detonation.

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "Recently you answered a letter from a school teacher, working for a moderate salary. I'm a white collar worker and very much in the same boat. You advised the purchase of good growth stock as a partial protection against inflation. I've been following the market for some time and would like to invest in five such stocks. Could you help me " E.G.

A) If you've been following the market closely, you know that there are several million other investors who feel as you do. Growth has always commanded a premium in the stock market.

Increased emphasis recently on growth — particularly on rapid stocks into stratospheric levels where I'm afraid to follow them. And I am not a timid man where investments are concerned.

In your circumstances, where a minimum of risk should be assumed, I'm going to suggest growth — has pushed a lot of stocks which have not yet gone wholly into orbit. Compared to other good growth situations, Brunswick (NYSE) looks relatively undervalued. I believe that Corn Products (NYSE), scheduled to be split this week, has little downside risk and a lot of growth ahead. I also like First Charter Financial, Fairmont Foods, and Montana Power, all Big Board stocks. I believe you will do well with these over a period of time.

Q) "We bought Servel shares recently. We know it is a speculation but would like your opinion of it." H.H.

A I like Servel, below 20, as further recovery earning power. Shares recently got up to their highest level in many years. This was due partly to a rise in earnings in fiscal 1960 and in large measure to a revival of interest in low-priced issues. I would hold the stock but would lighten my holdings on any further run-up to the mid-20's.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Jewish History

that, even in a highly developed country, it was possible to turn back the clock. The steady development from 200 years of struggle by the Jews was set back overnight," Baron said.

The period between the two world wars, he said, marked the "high point of Jewish emancipation in Europe."

To Show Damage

The prosecution put Dr. Baron on the stand to delineate the social and political position of the Jews in Europe at the moment when the Nazis came to power, and to show the extent of the damage wreaked between 1933, when Adolf Hitler came to power, and 1945, when he committed suicide amid the ruins of the Third Reich.

Prior to his appearance on the witness stand, Eichmann's attorney, Dr. Robert Servatius, sharply questioned Capt. Avner Less of the Israeli police, who interrogated Eichmann over a period of eight months.

Given Freely

Less repeated that Eichmann's dictated statements — amounting to more than half a million words and now part of the court record —were given freely and not "under duress."

Servatius led Less through a series of questions about the circumstances of the tape-recorded testimony by Eichmann, part of which was played last week. He asked whether "undue influence" had been used on Eichmann, and whether he was told to answer questions about certain matters and not about others.

"I take it there is an intent behind these questions," said the president of the court, Supreme Court Justice Moshe Landau.

His 'No' Is Firm

"May I ask the witness to answer, yes or no, whether there was any undue influence," Servatius said.

Less replied firmly, "no."

The other two judges also shot a number of questions at Less. One of them, Benyamin Halevy, said he noted "a kind of cross-examination—and this doesn't tally with your other remarks."

"There were sometimes contradictions in what the accused said," Less replied. "I did it for elucidation."

Less said Eichmann has written a 127-page recollection of his personal contacts with the top Nazi officials.

In the background were other screams and a crackling sound, fainter and the call was cut off.

Firemen spotted the flames from the firehouse three miles away. They turned in a second alarm before they left the firehouse. In all, 12 alarms were set off, summoning fire equipment from practically every department in southern Maryland.

Students Answer Europe Parades Against America

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A group of Latin American college students paraded before the state Capitol to answer "demonstrations in Europe against America."

The group, including 21 Cubans, supported President Kennedy's warning to the Soviet Union to keep hands off Cuba.

One student, who said he had an uncle and two cousins among the group that invaded Cuba this week, told a reporter the march Saturday was "in answer to demonstrations in Europe against America."

He said he did not believe the invasion had been a failure.

"It showed the world that some Cubans are against (Prime Minister Fidel) Castro," he said.

Governor Vetoes

Drumm, R-Columbia, sponsored the measure. Mrs. Gordon said the bill had the backing of the State Grange, the State Farm Bureau and most of the major dairymen's cooperatives in the state.

It would have set up a Bureau of Milk Distribution to oversee retail prices. The commissioner could have regulated milk advertising, barred sale of milk below costs and regulated trade practices.

Says Safeguards Lacking

The governor said the measure lacked sufficient guides and standards to afford safeguards to either dairy farmers or the public.

In announcing he had signed the injunction measure, Rockefeller said it protected both the farmer with perishable products on his hands and preserved the legitimate rights of labor.

Under the bill, effective Sept. 1, courts may issue injunctions effective for a maximum five days to halt unlawful acts by labor unions that threaten a farmers' produce.

The measure is limited to labor disputes involving production at the farm, shipment from the farm and initial storage or first processing of perishable products.

Rockefeller took this other action on other agriculture bills:

EGGS — Vetoed a bill that would have required that eggs produced and sold in this state be marked: "New York Produced."

COOPERATIVE DUES — Vetoed a measure under which milk dealers would have deducted from payments to farmers the membership dues the farmer owed to a cooperative. The dealer would have forwarded the money to the cooperative. The governor noted the legislation was opposed by dealers "upon whom it could well work a serious hardship." He suggested various dairy - industry groups work out a plan acceptable to all.

TRUCKS — Vetoed a bill that would have permitted tank trucks picking up milk at farms to use state highways the public works commissioner had closed to heavy trucks to prevent damage. John C. Larson Is Elected New Onteora P-TA President

John C. Larson of the Ohayo Mountain Road, Woodstock, was elected president of the Onteora Parent-Teacher Association at the annual April meeting.

JOHN C. LARSON

Larson, who is a member of the technical staff at Rotron Manufacturing Company in Woodstock, succeeds Mrs. Ginger Anderson of Woodstock, who automatically becomes a member of the P-TA's executive committee.

Other new officers are: First vice president, William Jackson, Ashokan; second vice president, Mrs. Janet Wemple, Shokan; recording secretary, Mrs. Raymand Cocks; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Schneider, and treasurer, Lindsay Hoyt, Mt. Pleasant.

Committee chairmen will be announced by the new president at the May meeting.

Larson was a candidate for the vacancy on the Onteora Board of Education created by the resignation of trustee John Haggerty. The board appointment went to David R. Fox of West Hurley, who is a candidate for election to the full term.

The P-TA has decided to combine its annual "Know Your Candidate" night with the budget hearing Friday night, April 25, at 8 p. m. in the cafeteria of the main building at Boiceville.

The two announced candidates —David R. Fox and R. C. Cruthers of West Shokan—will appear before the P-TA to outline their educational philosophy and answer questions from the audience. G. Alfred Nussbaum, of West Hurley, will be the moderator.

Knight Deplores Bond Issue Loss; Sees Big Problem

The defeat of the recent $1,016,500 bond issue in the Onteora Central Schools District set education back many months, Trustee Arthur P. Knight of West Hurley said at the annual "Progress at Onteora" report to the Onteora P-TA.

Knight said defeat of the bond issue which would have provided 19 additional classrooms poses a serious problem for the Board of Education. He said the board must now place desperately needed rooms in places where people will vote for them.

Martin J. Rubin, Phoenicia attorney, was moderator.

Members of the Board of Education and the school administration discussed various areas of responsibilities and progress made there during the past year.

Trustee Knight explained the functions of the board's four major committees—budget, construction, curriculum and bond program. Trustee Janet Greene reported the personnel committee has been interviewing candidates for the post of supervising principal soon to be vacated by William H. Deming. She also discussed the bond issue brochure and the permanent school district news pamphlet which will be published regularly in the future.

George Finigan, the district's business manager, pointed that even if the student population had remained the same the total budget for 1961-62 would have gone up between 4 and 6 per cent. He said the new budget was roughly nine per cent higher than last year's. He also spoke of the change in annual meeting date which would permit earlier bidding for school materials resulting in better prices that would save the district considerable money.

Defends RRB School

Trustee John Aalto, reporting on routine repairs, defended the Reginald R. Bennett school as a good building and said the minor repairs needed there were being made. He described it as an extremely economical proposition.

Paul T. Runge, assistant to the district principal, said the Middle States Evaluation report on Onteora was highly favorable. He also commended the Board of Education for its continued stand for quality education.

Ronald P. Vanni, director of elementary education, described new methods of teaching, including Cuisinaire, the mathematics theory which is starfed in kindergarten. He also mentioned the Cadet Teaching program, in-service training of teachers, the kindergarten handbook and said an elementary handbook was being prepared.

Bernard Stahl, guidance director, spoke on guidance and Trustee Marie Kleine described the outside affiliations of the Board of Education, such as mid-Hudson association, the county school boards association, etc.

District Principal Deming spoke of new policies at Onteora, including the student insurance fund which was initiated and sponsored by P-TA. He said that more than 100 claims had been filed with the insurance carrier with excellent response.

Deming also reported the new financial aid policy for libraries in the district and the revised bus driver and student handbook. He also said that the athletic field at Boiceville was being repaired for year round use and mentioned the appointment of a maintenance mechanic for small repairs which had saved the district much money. He also said the school's permanent brochure publication would be mailed to approximately 8,000 persons according to lists compiled with the assistance of the P-TA.

Budget Hearing At OCS Tuesday

The public hearing on the proposed Onteora Central Schools District's $1,708,034 budget for the 1961-62 fiscal year will be held Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the cafeteria of the main building at Boiceville.

The proposed budget is roughly nine per cent higher than the current budget.

Principal items in the budget include: general control, $29,068; instructional services, $864,963; special schools, $10,000; operation of plant, $121,140; maintenance of plant, $22,825; fixed charges, $166,327; debt service, $161,087.50.

Other items are: total auxiliary agencies, including transportation, $271,120.

Principal salary items are: district principal, $13,000; elementary principal, Woodstock-West Hurley, $8,800; business manager, $7,400; administrative assistant, $8,300; assistant to district principal, $11,000; director of elementary education, $9,400; guidance director, $8,500.

The sur-taxes included in this year's budget include: retirement 15 bonds at $1,000 each, plus interest on bonds due Dec. 1, 1961, and June 1, 1962, amounting $16,150 in former School District No. 5 in West Hurley.

The Woodstock sur-tax breakdown follows: retirement of six bonds each at $1,000 from original bond issue of $220,000, plus interest, $8,355; and retirement of three bonds at $1,000 each on original issue of $56,000, plus interest, $5,000 for a grand total of $13,355.

Mrs. Moncure has just returned from New York city, where she spent considerable time doing extensions and revisions on the music for the play, as well as singing in various New York schools from lower Manhattan to the Bronx. For the past two months she has been living at the Henry Street Settlement House, where she was singing with groups of all ages, from the six and seven year olds to the "good companions" who are 60 and over.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

THE MODERN JACOBINS

The great Edmund Burke, friend of America in 1776, described the Bolshevik Revolution more than a century before it happened. He was, of course, writing about the French Revolution of the 1790's, but Lenin, Stalin and Krushchev are the spiritual offspring of Rousseau, Robespierre, Danton, etc.

E. F. Hutton

Burke said, "To them the will, the wish, the wants, the liberty, the toil, the blood of individuals is as nothing. The State is all in all.

"They would guillotine the whole human race to the slightest of their experiments. They declare that they do not think 2,000 years too long a period for the good that they pursue.

"They are not fatigued with the contemplation of human suffering through the wild waste of centuries of time.

"These philosophers consider men in their experiments no more than they do mice in an air pump (vacuum).

"They secure an army by dividing amongst the people of no property the estates of the lawful proprietors. Schools are established to poison mankind with the horrible maxims of atheism. When finally wearied of the cries of a people hungering for religion, they permit it only as a tolerated evil."

And finally, speaking, as if to us, of our "infatuated rulers, who in conflict with this new power, proceed as if they were engaged in a war that bore a resemblance to their former contests."

It is high time for us to see "these fanatical atheists" as they are.

Demonstration Unit Elects Mrs. Winslow

Mrs. Zenna Winslow has been elected president of the Woodstock Home Demonstration Unit for the 1961-62 season. Mrs. Winslow was named at the annual election meeting held in the Overlook Methodist Church hall. She will assume office in September.

Mrs. Margaret Schilz was elected first vice chairman; Mrs. Inez Hall, second vice chairman; Mrs. Elizabeth Clough, secretary; and Mrs. Elsie Ertz, treasurer.

Following the business meeting, members viewed a film of Princess Beatrix of the Netherlands on her trip to the United States. Mrs. James W. Cook, wife of the pastor of Overlook Church, showed the films.

Open Bids Wednesday On New Paltz Project

Bids on six projects—one in New Paltz—for construction, repairs and alterations to various state-owned facilities will be opened by State DeDpartment of Public Works Wednesday 2 p. m. at the State Office Building.

The work at New Paltz includes separate proposals covering construction, heating, sanitary, electric and elevator work, laboratory and stage equipment, improvement of grounds and service connections for the Fire Arts and Classroom Building at State University College of Education.

Also, service connections, sewer and water lines for dormitory housing 200 at Building 20 at the college.

Dutchess Students Elect New Officers

Dutchess Community College Student Association recently held elections of officers and senators for the 1961-62 academic year.

Officers elected are: President, Mearl Rose, Poughkeepsie; Vice President, Lee Cabe, Beacon; Secretary, Carol Casement, Poughkeepsie; and Treasurer, Rudy Mannari, Beacon.

Senators elected to represent the class of 1962 are: Nancy Seigel Pomerance and Sheila Sessa, Poughkeepsie; Tita De La Cruz and Jeffrey Wigand, Pleasant Valley; Tamara Balducelli and Barbara O'Keeffe, Beacon; Lynne Ames, Milbrook; Arlene Nolan, Wappingers Falls; Thomas O'Malley, Massapequa; and Robert Wahl, Rhinebeck.

Market Dispute Parleys Slated

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — A negotiating session and two union membership meetings were planned today amid management charges that union leaders were stalling in efforts to settle a dispute that has closed 266 supermarkets in Upstate New York and northern Pennsylvania.

Robert J. McIntyre, a management spokesman, said Sunday night in renewing the stalling charge that the union was interjecting minor points in the negotiations.

There was no immediate reply from the Amalgamated Meatcutters, Butchers and Affiliated Crafts Union.

Approximately 800 union members met with their leaders in Utica Sunday to review the issues and settlement efforts.

Similar meetings are planned for Rochester and Jamestown today.

The negotiations will resume in Syracuse.

About 8,000 employes of five supermarket chains — Loblaw, A&P, Acme, Victory-Johnson and P&C — are idled by the shutdown, which began April 7. The supermarkets are between Schenectady and Rochester and in five counties in Pennsylvania.

How you can help your boy if he says—

"I want to be a newspaperman."

Help him the same way you would if he set his sights on any other profession . . . medicine or law or teaching. First, make sure he knows exactly what he's headed for. Then, show him the best road to get there.

Newspaper work naturally attracts young people. It offers prestige, excitement, good pay, the opportunity for rapid advancement — and, most important, the satisfaction of making a real contribution to society. But, in return, it requires dedication, hard work, civic responsibility and basic integrity.

If your boy understands the responsibilities (as well as the rewards) of newspaper life, he's ready to prepare for it. The time for him to start is right now — while he's still in high school.

Newspaper work is divided into five major fields. Each requires special skills and special training for a successful career in it:

NEWS REPORTING AND EDITORIAL WRITING — often considered the basics of newspaper work: gathering, reporting, editing or analyzing the news . . . or commenting on it for the newspapers' opinion pages. These tasks require curiosity, perseverance, the ability to write clearly. They call for training in a journalism school or department, or a broad liberal-arts college education.

BUSINESS — under the business department come accounting and finance, and frequently personnel work and sales promotion. Useful here are the ability to plan ahead, to get along with people, good business judgment and a knowledge of bookkeeping and office management. Some business department positions call for a college degree in accounting or management. In the case of sales promotion, a man needs ability in creative copywriting or art.

ADVERTISING — the department that furnishes the newspaper with most of its revenue. People who sell advertising successfully often have a broad educational background in business, marketing, accounting and psychology. Above all, they enjoy meeting and talking with people, following through on sales problems and presenting new advertising ideas imaginatively.

CIRCULATION — Training and supervising newspaper boys and men who sell and distribute newspapers is the heart of circulation management. Sales training, general business experience and a broad education (including psychology and marketing courses) are helpful here.

PRODUCTION — the departments that turn words, photographs, ink and paper into the finished newspaper. The departments offer technical job opportunities in typesetting, photoengraving, stereotyping and press operation. Although a high-school graduate can qualify for many trainee jobs, a technical education is very helpful. An increasing number of graduate engineers are being employed in the production department.

Work on high-school or college newspapers is especially valuable training for any of these newspaper fields.

The whole newspaper story can't be told here. To learn more about its exciting employment opportunities, mail the coupon on this page. You'll receive a 22-page illustrated brochure, "Career Opportunities in the Daily Newspaper Business," a list of accredited journalism schools and other guides. Why not mail it today?

By E. F. HUTTON

THE MODERN JACOBINS

The great Edmund Burke, friend of America in 1776, described the Bolshevik Revolution more than a century before it happened. He was, of course, writing about the French Revolution of the 1790's, but Lenin, Stalin and Krushchev are the spiritual offspring of Rousseau, Robespierre, Danton, etc.

E. F. Hutton

Burke said, "To them the will, the wish, the wants, the liberty, the toil, the blood of individuals is as nothing. The State is all in all.

"They would guillotine the whole human race to the slightest of their experiments. They declare that they do not think 2,000 years too long a period for the good that they pursue.

"They are not fatigued with the contemplation of human suffering through the wild waste of centuries of time.

"These philosophers consider men in their experiments no more than they do mice in an air pump (vacuum).

"They secure an army by dividing amongst the people of no property the estates of the lawful proprietors. Schools are established to poison mankind with the horrible maxims of atheism. When finally wearied of the cries of a people hungering for religion, they permit it only as a tolerated evil."

And finally, speaking, as if to us, of our "infatuated rulers, who in conflict with this new power, proceed as if they were engaged in a war that bore a resemblance to their former contests."

It is high time for us to see "these fanatical atheists" as they are.

Market Dispute Parleys Slated

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — A negotiating session and two union membership meetings were planned today amid management charges that union leaders were stalling in efforts to settle a dispute that has closed 266 supermarkets in Upstate New York and northern Pennsylvania.

Robert J. McIntyre, a management spokesman, said Sunday night in renewing the stalling charge that the union was interjecting minor points in the negotiations.

There was no immediate reply from the Amalgamated Meatcutters, Butchers and Affiliated Crafts Union.

Approximately 800 union members met with their leaders in Utica Sunday to review the issues and settlement efforts.

Similar meetings are planned for Rochester and Jamestown today.

The negotiations will resume in Syracuse.

About 8,000 employes of five supermarket chains — Loblaw, A&P, Acme, Victory-Johnson and P&C — are idled by the shutdown, which began April 7. The supermarkets are between Schenectady and Rochester and in five counties in Pennsylvania.

How you can help your boy if he says—
"I want to be a newspaperman."

Help him the same way you would if he set his sights on any other profession . . . medicine or law or teaching. First, make sure he knows exactly what he's headed for. Then, show him the best road to get there.

Newspaper work naturally attracts young people. It offers prestige, excitement, good pay, the opportunity for rapid advancement – and, most important, the satisfaction of making a real contribution to society. But, in return, it requires dedication, hard work, civic responsibility and basic integrity.

If your boy understands the responsibilities (as well as the rewards) of newspaper life, he's ready to prepare for it. The time for him to start is right now – while he's still in high school.

Newspaper work is divided into five major fields. Each requires special skills and special training for a successful career in it:

NEWS REPORTING AND EDITORIAL WRITING – often considered the basics of newspaper work: gathering, reporting, editing or analyzing the news . . . or commenting on it for the newspapers' opinion pages. These tasks require curiosity, perseverance, the ability to write clearly. They call for training in a journalism school or department, or a broad liberal-arts college education.

BUSINESS – under the business department come accounting and finance, and frequently personnel work and sales promotion. Useful here are the ability to plan ahead, to get along with people, good business judgment and a knowledge of bookkeeping and office management. Some business department positions call for a college degree in accounting or management. In the case of sales promotion, a man needs ability in creative copywriting or art.

ADVERTISING – the department that furnishes the newspaper with most of its revenue. People who sell advertising successfully often have a broad educational background in business, marketing, accounting and psychology. Above all, they enjoy meeting and talking with people, following through on sales problems and presenting new advertising ideas imaginatively.

CIRCULATION – Training and supervising newspaper boys and men who sell and distribute newspapers is the heart of circulation management. Sales training, general business experience and a broad education (including psychology and marketing courses) are helpful here.

PRODUCTION – the departments that turn words, photographs, ink and paper into the finished newspaper. The departments offer technical job opportunities in typesetting, photoengraving, stereotyping and press operation. Although a high-school graduate can qualify for many trainee jobs, a technical education is very helpful. An increasing number of graduate engineers are being employed in the production department.

Work on high-school or college newspapers is especially valuable training for any of these newspaper fields.

The whole newspaper story can't be told here. To learn more about its exciting employment opportunities, mail the coupon on this page. You'll receive a 22-page illustrated brochure, "Career Opportunities in the Daily Newspaper Business," a list of accredited journalism schools and other guides. Why not mail it today?

The Speculative Epidemic

Today's stock market is dangerous. A speculative epidemic is developing. Its rise is being generated by two psychological forces: (1) uncertainty about buying power of the dollar, and (2) a latent desire to make some easy money in common stocks.

The bull market is totally unlike that of 1927-1928-1929. In those days the federal government was doing nothing to control speculative credit. Today a margin speculator must put up 70 per cent of the purchase price of his stocks. "Shoe-string" speculation is out.

As was pointed out in this column last week, there is an abundance of money available in the country for speculation. Given the right impetus, it comes out of hiding boldly and quickly.

Economic America has never faced such psychologically-based speculation as she faces today. Millions of investors are willing to take risks and the money is plentiful to carry out such action.

A sobering thought about this speculative epidemic is that America is not prepared to handle it adequately. It might be compared to a disease epidemic in our country with far too few professional, ethical medical doctors available to cope with it.

Where are millions of investors getting their information and advise from? From customers' brokers and mutual fund salesmen. And salesmanship pervades these fields. One single New York Stock Exchange firm is employing more customers' brokers than the total number of registered investment counselors in America.

Investment advice must be administered from some recognized ethical and professional level. The bulk of it emanates from the salesmanship level.

When I go to a medical doctor to get a check-up, I receive different treatment than when I go out to buy an automobile. The doctor has an ethical and professional code to maintain. The automobile salesman simply must outsell his keen competitors.

Ever since the Securities and Exchange Commission came into being 25 years ago, it became clear that the entire securities profession had to improve its ethical standards and basic knowledge.

Yet it has not done so. Today there are in America scores of unhappy brokerage partners and hundreds of discontented customers' brokers who should become competent, ethical and professional investment counselors.

This column is 29 years old. Some weeks I get 100 letters from investors and speculators whose money-management affairs are in a sorry state because of the unethical and professional advice they have been given.

The present unsound, unsafe, ignorant speculative epidemic is but a clear manifstation of the forces that have been building up for 20 years. It is alright for high authorities to warn the public to curb speculation. But with millions of people caught up in America's inflation forces, it is going to take some grass roots administration to handle the speculative desires of armies of people with billions of dollars.

Mexican Caravan Plans for 1961 Announced Today

The 10th annual caravan to Mexico, headed by the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool, will depart from Dietz Stadium at 9 a. m. Monday, July 3, it was announced today in a handsome 12-page brochure.

The caravan will travel 9,000 miles through Mexico and the Southwest in station wagons, returning 45 days later on August 17. Traveling with the caravan will be a truck carrying the baggage and pulling a kitchen trailer.

The caravan, which last year numbered more than 50 young people, both boys and girls, will enter Mexico July 9, crossing the Rio Grande at Laredo and spending that night in Monterrey.

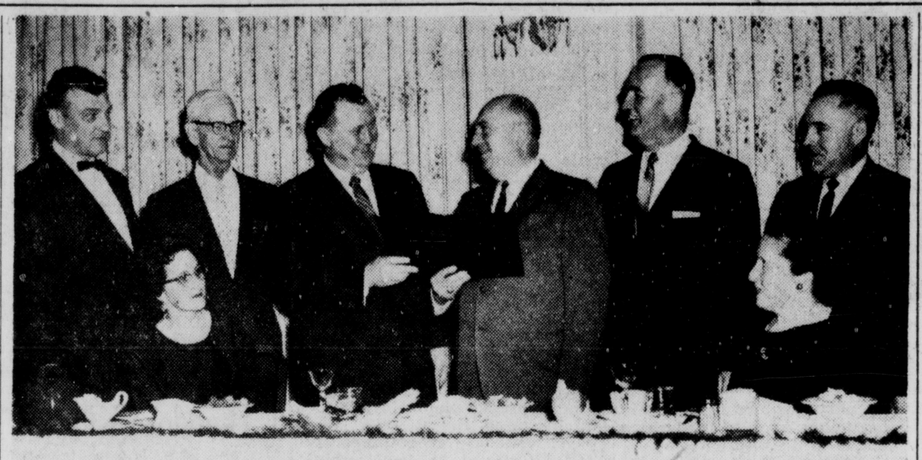

The group will also visit, on the way, Matehuala, Queretaro, Mexico City (spending four days there), Acapulco, Iguala back to Mexico City for another two days, Lake Patzcuaro, Uruapan, Guadalajara (four four days), Mazatlan, Navajoa, Guaymas, and back into the United States at Nogales August 4.

The caravan then proceeds to Grand Canyon, passing through Apache country, spending four days at the canyon, continuing thence to Gallup, N. M., where the caravaners will see reservations and trading posts, visit the petrified forest and other attractions.

The brochure contains numerous pictures of Mexico and caravaners and describes the "adventure" in some detail, listing highlights of the trip.

One of the highlights is the Gallup Indian Ceremonial where some 12,000 Indians gather for impressive rites. There is also a question box in which are answered many of the questions prospective caravaners might be inclined to ask about what to take, food, water and sleeping arrangements.

Persons desiring copies of the brochure may obtain them from the Oudemools at 109 Pearl Street.

Claims Americans Are Being Duped by Bigots

NEW YORK — "Some well-meaning Americans are being duped into un-American attitudes by bigots parading as anti-Communists," Secretary of State Caroline K. Simon told students and their parents at St. Mary's and St. Paul's School, Garden City, L. I., today.

"A society which is now the subject of much criticism is typical of the muddy thinking which confuses many otherwise patriotic citizens and draws them into activities which are the very opposite of the principles underlying the American way of life," Mrs. Simon said.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Wall Street financial district is getting frayed around the edges.

And big days in the stock market point up the physical shortcomings of the famed money capitol of the world. A determined move is underway to do something about it.

Ghost After Officials Close

The aim: to replace the decayed outer edges with new financial and world trade buildings and to make the district a round-the-clock community instead of a ghost town after offices close.

New York's financial district—less than one square mile, bounded on three sides by the harbor—largely took its present form in the first 30 years of this century. After the 1929 stock market crash Wall Street vegetated for a time in bad repute.

"Young men didn't want to work down here," says David Rockefeller, president of Chase Manhattan Bank and chairman of the Downtown-Lower Manhattan Association.

But he pointed out in an interview that since World War II the financial community has been rehabilitated in the public mind and there now is no dearth of job applicants. Rockefeller himself went to work in the bank when he was 31, after jobs with New York's Mayor LaGuardia, with Anna Rosenberg in the U.S. Office of Defense, Health and Welfare Service, and a wartime hitch in the U.S. Army.

In the last 10 years, 21 new commercial buildings have gone up in the once becalmed financial district, adding about 10.5 million square feet of office space, for a total of 34 million.

But these have risen in the district's already crowded core, as century-old lofts on the fringes have been sinking into decay, threatening still worse to come, if unchecked.

In recent years, too, some of the big banks have moved headquarters to mid-Manhattan, brokerage houses have opened large branches there, and some industrial firms have moved their home offices uptown.

The New York Stock Exchange, in the heart of the district, is looking for larger quarters it says it badly needs.

Nearly a half million persons work in the Wall Street area but only about 2,000 live there. The workaday inhabitants labor at banking, stock and commodity trading, insurance, shipping, transportation, public utilities, real estate, law, accounting, and in the headquarters of the big industrial corporations still there.

The rehabilitation committee headed by Rockefeller proposes to replace the decaying and often vacant buildings along the waterfronts with a new stock exchange, big and small office buildings, a hotel, and room for stores, restaurants and other services needed to make this a living as well as trading area. To this end, middle income apartment houses are included.

Reasons for Change

Why a round-the-clock community? David, youngest of John D. Jr.'s four sons, says: "For one thing, to keep stores and restaurants going to serve the working population. At present these depend largely on midday trade alone, and that's hard going for them.

"For another, so that people can walk to work. The middle income apartments I'm sure will be eagerly sought by persons working here. And this will make it easier to get and keep skilled workers."

Mexican Caravan Plans for 1961 Announced Today

The 10th annual caravan to Mexico, headed by the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool, will depart from Dietz Stadium at 9 a. m. Monday, July 3, it was announced today in a handsome 12-page brochure.

The caravan will travel 9,000 miles through Mexico and the Southwest in station wagons, returning 45 days later on August 17. Traveling with the caravan will be a truck carrying the baggage and pulling a kitchen trailer.

The caravan, which last year numbered more than 50 young people, both boys and girls, will enter Mexico July 9, crossing the Rio Grande at Laredo and spending that night in Monterrey.

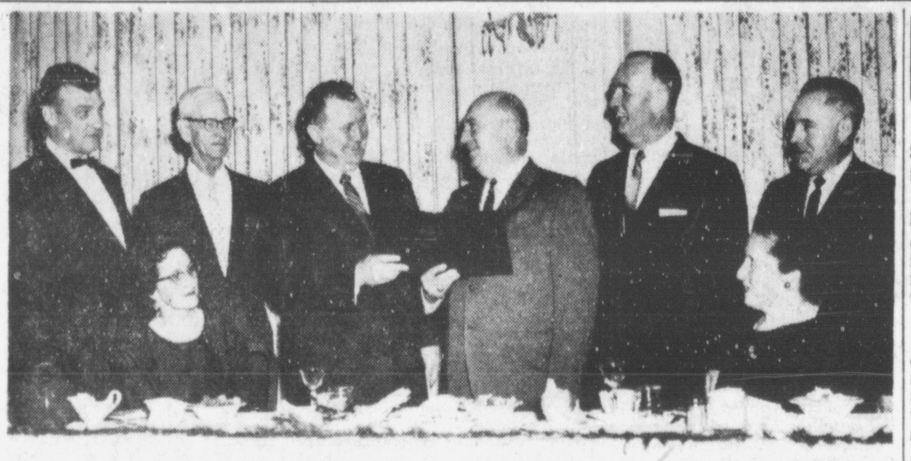

The group will also visit, on the way, Matehuala, Queretaro, Mexico City (spending four days there), Acapulco, Iguala back to Mexico City for another two days, Lake Patzcuaro, Uruapan, Guadalajara (four four days), Mazatlan, Navajoa, Guaymas, and back into the United States at Nogales August 4.

The caravan then proceeds to Grand Canyon, passing through Apache country, spending four days at the canyon, continuing thence to Gallup, N. M., where the caravaners will see reservations and trading posts, visit the petrified forest and other attractions.

The brochure contains numerous pictures of Mexico and caravaners and describes the "adventure" in some detail, listing highlights of the trip.

One of the highlights is the Gallup Indian Ceremonial where some 12,000 Indians gather for impressive rites. There is also a question box in which are answered many of the questions prospective caravaners might be inclined to ask about what to take, food, water and sleeping arrangements.

Persons desiring copies of the brochure may obtain them from the Oudemools at 109 Pearl Street.

KHS Choir Concert Will Be Held This Year In Observance of National Music Week

The annual Kingston High School Choir Concert will be held on May 12 and 13 in conjunction with the observance of National Music Week.

The choir of 100 voices is presently engaged in rehearsals in preparation of its usual varied program. Music to be presented will include early liturgical music, several choruses from Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah," and choruses from the larger works of Beethoven and Brahms. The program will also list several negro spirituals and some contemporary numbers including a medley of selections from "South Pacific." It is planned to use the new electronic organ which has been presented to the school by the choir, to accompany several of the larger choruses.

National Music Week, which is always the first full week in May, will be celebrated for the 38th year on May 7-14, 1961, under the sponsorship of the National Federation of Music Clubs, a non-profit organization. The theme is "Let's Make Music Around the World."

1961 objectives are: to make music the language of all peoples; to develop more extensive understanding and appreciation of music; to encourage amateur participation in music; and to increase musical knowledge through study.

The purpose of this annual observance is to focus the attention of the public on the dynamic influence of music as an effective medium of communication and understanding between all peoples and as a spiritualizing force, which helps relieve the tensions of our era. In the words of National Music Week's founder, Mr. Charles Tremaine, let "Music be made welcome everywhere in the world, between all human beings, in a spirit of exchange and harmony." Music is the language of all peoples. Whether used nationally or internationally, it is one of the greatest forces in creating peace and harmony.

As evidenced by more than 1300 newspaper clippings from all over the country, there is a nation-wide enthusiasm for the recognition of forcible instruments for training, for arousing, and for governing the minds and spirits of men. Music now, more than ever, is a National need. National Music Week also gives to civic workers the dividends of pleasure and inspiration which good music brings to all people.

KHS Choir Concert Will Be Held This Year In Observance of National Music Week

The annual Kingston High School Choir Concert will be held on May 12 and 13 in conjunction with the observance of National Music Week.

The choir of 100 voices is presently engaged in rehearsals in preparation of its usual varied program. Music to be presented will include early liturgical music, several choruses from Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah," and choruses from the larger works of Beethoven and Brahms. The program will also list several negro spirituals and some contemporary numbers including a medley of selections from "South Pacific." It is planned to use the new electronic organ which has been presented to the school by the choir, to accompany several of the larger choruses.

National Music Week, which is always the first full week in May, will be celebrated for the 38th year on May 7-14, 1961, under the sponsorship of the National Federation of Music Clubs, a non-profit organization. The theme is "Let's Make Music Around the World."

1961 objectives are: to make music the language of all peoples; to develop more extensive understanding and appreciation of music; to encourage amateur participation in music; and to increase musical knowledge through study.

The purpose of this annual observance is to focus the attention of the public on the dynamic influence of music as an effective medium of communication and understanding between all peoples and as a spiritualizing force, which helps relieve the tensions of our era. In the words of National Music Week's founder, Mr. Charles Tremaine, let "Music be made welcome everywhere in the world, between all human beings, in a spirit of exchange and harmony." Music is the language of all peoples. Whether used nationally or internationally, it is one of the greatest forces in creating peace and harmony.

As evidenced by more than 1300 newspaper clippings from all over the country, there is a nation-wide enthusiasm for the recognition of forcible instruments for training, for arousing, and for governing the minds and spirits of men. Music now, more than ever, is a National need. National Music Week also gives to civic workers the dividends of pleasure and inspiration which good music brings to all people.

Secretaries Week Is Observed Here Locally; Kingston - Poughkeepsie Sponsors Events

The week of April 23 through April 29 has been proclaimed by Mayor Edwin F. Radel of Kingston as Secretaries Week, with this Wednesday designated as Secretaries Day, in honor of the First Lady of Business.

We want to assure our employers that we are constantly aware that 'Better Secretaries Mean Better Business.'

"Through our Secretaries Week activities, we hope to demonstrate our desire to continually improve our office performance, to assume more responsibility, display more initiative, and become more valuable as 'management's right hand'."

LaGuardia's Sister Tells of Horrors In German Camp

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—On Monday sad-eyed Gemma La Guardia Glueck will be 80.

For the only sister of Fiorello La Guardia, fiery little former mayor of New York, it will be something of a triumph.

At least once in her life she was sure she would not live to see the next morning. That was in 1945 when she was condemned to the gas chamber at Ravensbruck concentration camp.

But Mrs. Glueck, who was probably the only American held there as a political hostage of Adolf Eichmann, was spared at the last minute from fear of reprisals against Germans in New York.

Others who survived the notorious camp will be here tonight—they can only come on the weekend—to help Mutti celebrate her birthday.

Mutti, or mother, is what the camp prisoners called Mrs. Glueck, who secretly taught them English. "If I had been caught I would have been sent to the punishment block. They whipped you there."

In gratitude, her pupils stole sheets of paper, bound them into a book with a fine handkerchief a girl had managed to keep and inscribed it to her with their names.

It is a prized possession of Mrs. Glueck, now partially paralyzed from a stroke and living with her older daughter in Queens.

It was after a particularly passionate speech by Fiorello that Mrs. Glueck was arrested at her home in Budapest, June 7, 1944.

Her mother was Jewish, but she had always been an Episcopalian. And although her husband, Hermann, a bank official, was an Hungarian Jew, he was not arrested until he insisted upon going with her.

They were taken to Mauthausen extermination camp, where her husband died. She was sent on to Ravensbruck, and later her older daughter and baby son were also taken there.

Because of her brother, she was told, she was made a special prisoner, in an elite block where she had a bed to herself and didn't have to work 12 hours a day like the others. The food was mostly turnips and black bread.

Mrs. Glueck saw all she could and remembered. Later she wrote a 90-page memoir, which, although she had never heard of Eichmann until his capture, is one of the documents at his trial.

It happened this way: Israeli authorities preparing for the trial uncovered a memorandum to Eichmann from the German foreign office dated the day before her arrest, suggesting she be held "for eventual political use."

The Israelis assumed she had died at Ravensbruck, but Samuel L. Shneiderman, a writer who saw the memorandum, returned to New York. Through Fiorello La Guardia's widow he found Mrs. Glueck. She told him about the memoir, and he notified Israeli officials. Now he's helping her expand it to book length for publication this year.

NamedGuestSpeaker For Local AAUW Meeting on May 2

The Soviet Union today will be discussed by Dr. Emily Clark Brown, Professor of Economics at Vassar College, on Tuesday evening, May 2 at the George Washington School. Dr. Brown will describe recent soci-economic changes in the Soviet Union with particular emphasis on the labor movement. Professor Brown had specialized in labor relations in the United States until 1955 when she spent a month in Russia on a grant from the Social Science Research Council. She returned to Russia in 1959 and spent ten and a half weeks there. Her studies have resulted in three articles in the Industrial Labor Relations Review: "The Soviet Labor Market;" "The Local Union in Soviet Industry: its relations with members, party and management;" and "Labor Relations in Soviet Factories."

A graduate of Carleton College, Dr. Brown received her advanced degrees from the University of Chicago. She has been a member of the Vassar faculty since 1932, having previously taught at Wellesley College.

The public is cordially invited to attend the lecture, which will be followed by a coffee hour, on Tuesday, May 2 at 8:00 in the Music Room of the George Washington School. The nominal admission fee will be donated to the Building Fund of the American Association of University Women. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. John L. Grogan or at the door.

Governor's Wife To Attend Luncheon Of Wellesley Club

The annual meeting of the Mid-Hudson Wellesley Club will be held on Friday, April 28 at noon at Beau Rivage Restaurant, Newburgh. The officers and chairman of the luncheon are pleased to announce that there will be three distinguished visitors.

Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller has just completed a term as a trustee of Wellesley College and has accepted the invitation of the Club to attend this meeting. Mrs. Lee B. Morey of Millbrook, past alumna trustee and now a permanent trustee, will also be present.

Mrs. Morey is bringing the speaker of the day, Mrs. Helen Mansfield. Mrs. Mansfield is the executive secretary of the alumnae Association and is known and beloved by all who have had any contact with the college after graduation. She is the axle upon which turn all activities such as Reunions, Council, the files of "who lives where."

It is hoped that an extra-large crowd will be present to greet the guests. Last minute reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Holden, Newburgh, or Mrs. Matthews in West Point.

New York's Botanical Garden Provides Entertainment, Recreation and Instruction

Today New Yorkers enjoy one of America's great public gardens because 75 years ago a Columbia University professor was studying the rare plants of the Andes.

The New York Botanical Garden, world-renowned plant research center, with its 230 acres of trees, shrubs and flowers from all over the world, was the result of this unusual combination of events.

Before the turn of the century the United States had no research center devoted exclusively to botany and few arboretums and botanical gardens. Dr. Nathaniel Lord Britton, noted professor of botany at Columbia, conducting research on the plants of South America, found it necessary to visit the Royal Botanic Gardens at Kew which had a collection of plant specimens gathered in Bolivia in the mid-1880's.

Greatly impressed with the beauty of the English garden and its fine hebarium—a collection of preserved plant specimens from all over the world—Dr. and Mrs. Britton came home determined to sponsor such a garden in New York City. As members of the Torrey Botanical Club, America's oldest botanical society, the Brittons sought the aid of other members. The club, sparked by their enthusiasm, immediately appointed a committee to consider the project. In 1889, their fund-raising pamphlet inspired the press to call for "An American Kew" in New York.

Seventy years ago, on April 28, 1891, as result of the committee's work, the legislature of the State of New York passed an act incorporating The New York Botanical Garden and authorized the Commissioner of Parks to set aside 250 acres of Bronx Park for the Garden. The 48 incorporators included many of New York's most distinguished citizens and the first officers were Cornelius Vanderbilt, president of the Board of Managers; Andrew Carnegie, vice president; and J. Pierpont Morgan, treasurer.

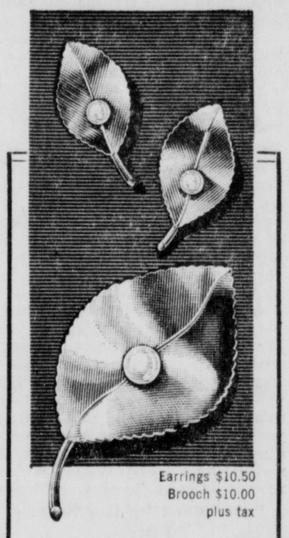

Today, about 1,000,000 New Yorkers and their guests visit the Garden every year, enjoying the lavish seasonal floral displays. The sparkling glass dome of the Conservatory is a familiar city landmark and the special flower shows held there attract thousands of visitors. The Museum Building, completed in 1900, houses one of the world's finest hermariums and botanical and horticultural libraries. The Research Laboratory, built in 1956, is devoted to a broad, ambitious program of research and education. These scientific reference and research facilities fulfill the Brittons' dream.

As thousands of April visitors arrive to stroll through the woods, bask in the sun, admire the flowering magnolias and cherries and visit the flower show, The New York Botanical Garden obviously has fulfilled another stated concept and purpose of establishing a garden for "the entertainment, recreation and instruction of the people."

EXPRESSING HER SINCERE GRATITUDE

Q: While on a business trip recently, I lost my purse. It contained quite a large sum of money, as well as my driver's license, keys and other personal belongings. When I returned home there was a letter from a stranger enclosing her personal check for the amount found in my purse and explaining that she was sending the purse and contents under separate cover. It has arrived with everything intact. Now what can I do about rewarding this person?

A: Write her a letter expressing your heartfelt thanks and rather than money, send her a present costing approximately 10 per cent of the sum you had lost.

Mourning for a Business Woman

Q: I'm newly bereaved, having lost my husband two weeks ago. However, duty calls me back to my business. What kind of mourning clothes would it be proper for me to wear when I am in contact with other people?

A: Conspicuously deep mourning would be unsuitable. But you can wear plain black dresses with very simple white neck trimmings, or black and white prints of the sort that might be mourning or not, and utility jewelry. This means your wedding and engagement rings, a watch, and if necessary, a pin to close the neck of your dress.

Entertained by Her Sister's Friends

Q: I have just returned home from a two weeks visit with my sister who lives in another city. While there, I was entertained by quite a few of my sister's friends. I would like to know if I am expected to write notes of thanks to these kind people for the hospitality they have shown me.

A: If you have become friends with any of them and have something to write them about, then do so by all means. But you are under no obligation to write your thanks for the hospitality shown you solely for your sister's sake.

Metropolitan Opera Star Will Give Recital on May 5

Licia Albanese, brilliant soprano of the Metropolitan and the San Francisco Opera companies, will give a recital at Vassar College on Friday evening, May 5. The concert has been arranged in honor of two centennial observances: the anniversary of the liberation and unification of Italy in 1861 and that of the founding of Vassar College in the same year.

Portugal Sends Troops

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal is pouring thousands of troops into its territories on opposite sides of Africa, seeking to curb terrorism in Angola and prevent it from starting in Mozambique.

Between 2,500 and 3,000 troops have been flown to Angola, by unofficial estimate, since Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar took personal charge of the Portuguese Defense Ministry 11 days ago.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Guests on "What's My Line?" Sunday night were a young man who gives mud baths, a lady who counts fish in a government hatchery and Peter Ustinov, actor and Oscar winner.

The panel guessed two—the fish counter and the Oscar winner—which was about par for the show. But as far as the home audience was concerned, correct guesses were only incidental to the personalities and repartee.

In the sudden-death world of TV, this program runs along year after year as a Sunday night fixture. John Daly, Arlene Francis, Dorothy Kilgallen and Bennett Cerf are broadcasting institutions.

Some of us oldsters remember way back when a wisecracking man named Hal Block had Bennett's chair. We recall Fred Allen's seasons on the panel, too, and Steve Allen's. Nowadays, the No. 2 spot—where the Allens sat—is reserved for visitors who come and go. It's the four regulars that the viewers tune in to see.

The top prize money is still a tiny $50. It's a good-tempered, light-hearted, easy-to-follow show and will probably be around another dozen years.

"The Happiest Day," Sunday night's NBC play with music was a little fantasy about a guardian angel (gently played by Wally Cox) sent down to earth to solve the love and marriage problems of a melancholy working girl (Janis Paige).

He solved them in broadcasting's pet pattern: Our working girl discovered it wasn't the rich, smart, handsome smoothie with the penthouse (Craig Stevens) that she loved, but poor, honest and slightly idiotic Ralph (Jack Carson).

A trifle it was with a bit of music here and there, but also bits of comedy, homely philosophy and whimsy, all of which didn't mix so well.

Speaking of unsatisfactory mixers, there was Friday night's "Million Dollar Incident." Jackie Gleason apparently could not decide whether to play it for laughs, for melodramatics or for a demonstration of his acting powers. So he tried them all.

CBS should be grateful to Jackie's former manager, "Bullets" Durgom, for the advance publicity he gave the show with his law suit. The deletion of his name was hardly noticeable.

Recommended tonight: "The Americans," NBC, 7:30-8:30, EST —action-adventure series set in the Civil War period, with Charles Bickford as guest star.

The bride, a graduate of Wallkill Central High School, was formerly employed by the Veterans Administration office in Kingston and is now employed by the Raritan Arsenal, Metuchen, N. J.

The bridegroom is serving in the U. S. Navy, aboard the aircraft carrier, U.S.S. Intrepid.

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson are residing in Perth Amboy, following their wedding trip to Washington, D. C.

The Martino family have been residents of the Town of Plattekill, since 1926, when they purchased the farm of the late Abram D. Wager on Cotter Road, Plattekill.

The cafeteria staff of the school, will conduct the program and serve the refreshments at the May 9 meeting.

Health for All

Insomniacs, Attention!

A hungry animal leaves his lair and seeks food. If you're sleepless, it may be a good idea to leave your bed and seek the refrigerator. Skip the lobster salad and heavy pie, though. Try milk and crackers.

Hunger is only one of the discomforts that can keep you awake. Cold is another. It's just about impossible to fall asleep if your feet are cold. Warm them up with wool socks, a hot water bottle, or heating pad turned to its lowest point.

If you're excessively tired at bedtime, read for an hour or so, or take a warm bath. Your mind may be worn out, while you feel physically restless. In that case, take a walk around a couple of blocks.

One of the chief causes of insomnia is worry about not being able to sleep. Stop punching your pillow out of shape. Read for awhile or listen to some favorite music. Don't worry because you're awake or you'll never get to sleep.

Make sure bed is comfortable, with no squealing springs. You will probably want a window open for ventilation. However, if an open window lets in loud street noises, better do without the ventilation. You'll get some air, anyway. Few windows fit that snugly.

The drug short-cut to sleep is seldom justified. Never use sleeping pills unless a doctor prescribes them for you. Even so, be careful. Accidental overdose is quite common.

Area Five School Board Association To Meet Thursday

Over 100 school board representatives from several counties in Area Five of the New York State School Boards Association will attend the Spring Conference dinner meeting of the Association at the Tri-Valley Central School, Grahamsville, Thursday, April 27, at 8:15 p. m.

This major activity of the association is one of a series of meetings to be held throughout the state. Each meeting is designed to give school board members an opportunity to exchange ideas and information and to discuss current educational problems.

Max Rubenzahl, president of the Tri Valley Central Board will extend local greetings to the organization. William I. Landauer of Red Hook, director of Area Five, will preside over the general meeting. New 1961 legislation relating to education will be reviewed by the Executive Director of the Association, Everett R. Dyer.

Old Timer's Civil War Notes

Your Old Timer from time to time during this Centennial Year plans to present to his Readers a sort of biographical column, or brief sketches of Boys in Blue from various parts of Ulster County. He will be glad to hear from relatives of veterans, or perhaps people who were acquainted with the subjects of these stories, in order to publish such supplementary information. Just address Old Timer's care of The Freeman.

One of the best known members of Pratt Post 127, Grand Army of the Republic was Major Oliver P. Carpenter, who was born Dec. 7, 1840 in Town of Plattekill near Clintondale, son of Robert and Susan G. Young Carpenter. As a young man he taught school at Clintondale, and also at Highland, which then was known as New Paltz Landing. He enlisted, 1861, in the 44th Regiment, N. Y. Volunteer Infantry and served under Generals Sherman, Hunter and Mitchell. Carpenter next enlisted in the Harris (2nd New York) Calvary, attaining the rank of captain. Leading a charge to take a battery at Appomattox Station, just previous to Lee's surrender, he lost his horse which had been presented to him by his company and was wounded by the last shot from the Confederate battery.

Carpenter's record also included participation in the great Shenandoah Valley campaign under Sherman and Custer, and was breveted major for meritorious and gallant service. Many another Ulster County young man served in this hard-fighting outfit of which Secretary of War Stanton said, "No regiment has done so much for the Government as the Harris Light Calvary." Returning home after the war, Carpenter was admitted to the bar May 5, 1866 and subsequently served as district attorney and surrogate of Ulster County. He was married, Sept. 22, 1866, to Ethelind DuBois of Highland and their children were Charles, Minnie, Eva, Oliver, Fred, George S., David B., Robert E. and Ethel.

Among the Union soldiers killed in action and whose remains were interred in Wiltwyck Cemetery, Kingston, were the following: First Sergeant John S. Snyder, A Company, 120th Regiment, Gettysburg, July 2, 1863 . . . Harvey Otis Jr., 156th Infantry, Winchester, Va., Sept. 19, 1864, aged 27 years. He was formerly a member of Wiltwyck Hose Co., and a great favorite with its members . . . James B. VanEtten, H Co., 20th Infantry, a splendid soldier and a favorite with his regiment, at Bull Run, Aug. 30, 1862, aged 17 years and 3 months . . . Charles K. Hale, D Co., 156th Regiment, Battle of the Wilderness, May 6, 1864, at age 21 years six months. Young Hale was remarkable for his kindness of spirit and was mourned by all his comrades.

Still there are other local veterans whose memory should be kept alive in the minds of rising and future generations, their names forever inscribed upon our country's roll of honor. John Converse Elmendorf was one Civil War dummer boy who was spared many of the agonizing battle experiences which fell to the lot of scores of these youngsters during the great four years' struggle. The boy, a drummer in F Company of Ulster's beloved Old Twentieth Infantry, had left Kingston early in April for the South with the regiment's complement of 800 men in response to Lincoln's first call for 75,000 volunteers. He came home on sick leave and died June 8, 1861, aged 12 years, eight months and four days and was buried in the Houghtaling Cemetery. A bright boy, well liked by the other soldiers, he was son of P. E. Elmendorf, also a member of F Company. Coincidentally, the county's youngest veteran and one who was perhaps its oldest veteran lie very near to each other in the old burying ground — Capt. David Catlin, a soldier of the Revolutionary War, died at the home of his son in Kingston, Oct. 13, 1839, aged 92 years. — C. A. W.

Heart Lead Poses Problem

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There used to be a character named "Hard Luck Joe" who made regular appearances in this column. He was used to represent those bridge players who play well, but not well enough, and who always seem to be followed by hard luck.

Today's South falls into the "Hard Luck Joe" group. Against anything but a heart lead he would have no trouble with his spade slam. Against the inspired heart lead he had quite a problem.

He thought for some time and finally played the queen from dummy. When it held he paid no attention to the fact that East had dropped the jack. Instead he simply led a trump. West took his ace and East ruffed a second heart lead.

If South had really been on his toes he would have gone right up with the ace of hearts on the first lead. Then he would have led a club to his king; cashed his ace of diamonds; ruffed his king of diamonds in dummy and discarded his three remaining hearts on dummy's good clubs.

Corvair 700 Club Coupe

If you've been asking for a car with sure and easy handling, tenacious traction, a smooth-as-snow ride, and a practical slant — the only question left is

"WHICH CHEVY CORVAIR?"

If you'd been able to watch the 1961 Corvair walk away with first place in the 1,265-mile Canadian Winter Rally, you'd know exactly where to find those things we mentioned. But since Corvairs come in lots of different models, you still have to decide which fits your needs best. The Corvair Monza 4-Door? You'll love the way it handles—and the handsome way it looks. (Bucket-type front seats are optional at extra cost.) Maybe you go for the 700 Club Coupe, though. It captures you with its thrift, not to mention its thoroughly agreeable style. The only way to make up your mind, really, is to see them both at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Guests on "What's My Line?" Sunday night were a young man who gives mud baths, a lady who counts fish in a government hatchery and Peter Ustinov, actor and Oscar winner.

The panel guessed two—the fish counter and the Oscar winner—which was about par for the show. But as far as the home audience was concerned, correct guesses were only incidental to the personalities and repartee.

In the sudden-death world of TV, this program runs along year after year as a Sunday night fixture. John Daly, Arlene Francis, Dorothy Kilgallen and Bennett Cerf are broadcasting institutions.

Some of us oldsters remember way back when a wisecracking man named Hal Block had Bennett's chair. We recall Fred Allen's seasons on the panel, too, and Steve Allen's. Nowadays, the No. 2 spot—where the Allens sat—is reserved for visitors who come and go. It's the four regulars that the viewers tune in to see.

The top prize money is still a tiny $50. It's a good-tempered, light-hearted, easy-to-follow show and will probably be around another dozen years.

"The Happiest Day," Sunday night's NBC play with music was a little fantasy about a guardian angel (gently played by Wally Cox) sent down to earth to solve the love and marriage problems of a melancholy working girl (Janis Paige).

He solved them in broadcasting's pet pattern: Our working girl discovered it wasn't the rich, smart, handsome smoothie with the penthouse (Craig Stevens) that she loved, but poor, honest and slightly idiotic Ralph (Jack Carson).

A trifle it was with a bit of music here and there, but also bits of comedy, homely philosophy and whimsy, all of which didn't mix so well.

Speaking of unsatisfactory mixers, there was Friday night's "Million Dollar Incident." Jackie Gleason apparently could not decide whether to play it for laughs, for melodramatics or for a demonstration of his acting powers. So he tried them all.

CBS should be grateful to Jackie's former manager, "Bullets" Durgom, for the advance publicity he gave the show with his law suit. The deletion of his name was hardly noticeable.

Recommended tonight: "The Americans," NBC, 7:30-8:30, EST—action-adventure series set in the Civil War period, with Charles Bickford as guest star.

Plattekill

PLATTEKILL — Miss Lucy Martino, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Martino of Cotter Road, Plattekill, was married to Daniel L. Simpson of Walden, Saturday, April 15, at Spirit Church, Perth Amboy, N. J.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Henry Murphy and the bride was given in marriage by her brother, Santo Martino of Wallkill.

The bride, a graduate of Wallkill Central High School, was formerly employed by the Veterans Administration office in Kingston and is now employed by the Raritan Arsenal, Metuchen, N. J.

The bridegroom is serving in the U. S. Navy, aboard the aircraft carrier, U.S.S. Intrepid.

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson are residing in Perth Amboy, following their wedding trip to Washington, D. C.

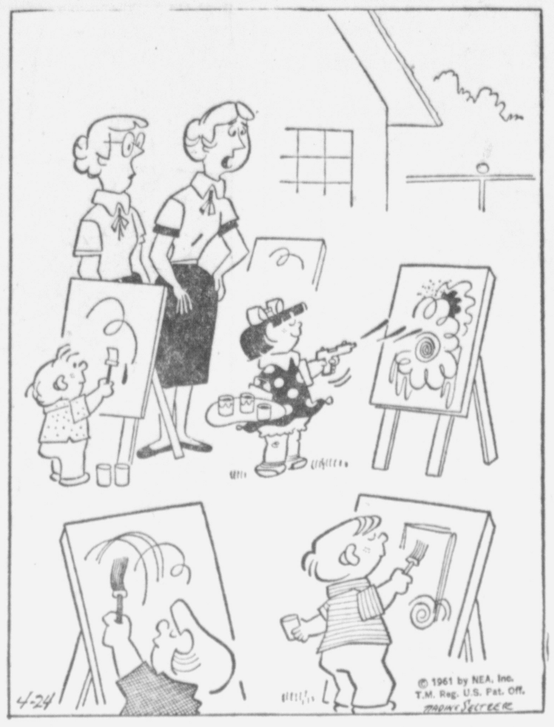

The Martino family have been residents of the Town of Plattekill, since 1926, when they purchased the farm of the late Abram D. Wager on Cotter Road, Plattekill.

The Parent's Club met recently at Plattekill Elementary School, when a nominating committee was appointed to select candidates for the annual election of officers at the May 9 meeting as follows:

Health for All

Insomniacs, Attention!

A hungry animal leaves his lair and seeks food. If you're sleepless, it may be a good idea to leave your bed and seek the refrigerator. Skip the lobster salad and heavy pie, though. Try milk and crackers.

Hunger is only one of the discomforts that can keep you awake. Cold is another. It's just about impossible to fall asleep if your feet are cold. Warm them up with wool socks, a hot water bottle, or heating pad turned to its lowest point.

If you're excessively tired at bedtime, read for an hour or so, or take a warm bath. Your mind may be worn out, while you feel physically restless. In that case, take a walk around a couple of blocks.

One of the chief causes of insomnia is worry about not being able to sleep. Stop punching your pillow out of shape. Read for awhile or listen to some favorite music. Don't worry because you're awake or you'll never get to sleep.

Make sure bed is comfortable, with no squeaking springs. You will probably want a window open for ventilation. However, if an open window lets in loud street noises, better do without the ventilation. You'll get some air, anyway. Few windows fit that snugly.

The drug short-cut to sleep is seldom justified. Never use sleeping pills unless a doctor prescribes them for you. Even so, be careful. Accidental overdose is quite common.

Heart Lead Poses Problem

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There used to be a character named "Hard Luck Joe" who made regular appearances in this column. He was used to represent those bridge players who play well, but not well enough, and who always seem to be followed by hard luck.

Today's South falls into the "Hard Luck Joe" group. Against anything but a heart lead he would have no trouble with his spade slam. Against the inspired heart lead he had quite a problem.

He thought for some time and finally played the queen from dummy. When it held he paid no attention to the fact that East had dropped the jack. Instead he simply led a trump. West took his ace and East ruffed a second heart lead.

If South had really been on his toes he would have gone right up with the ace of hearts on the first lead. Then he would have led a club to his king; cashed his ace of diamonds; ruffed his king of diamonds in dummy and discarded his three remaining hearts on dummy's good clubs.

Of course, this would be right lucky. Clubs do not figure to break 4-4, but when West opened a heart against the spade slam it was almost certain that hearts would not break 2-2.

Old Timer's Civil War Notes

Your Old Timer from time to time during this Centennial Year plans to present to his Readers a sort of biographical column, or brief sketches of Boys in Blue from various parts of Ulster County. He will be glad to hear from relatives of veterans, or perhaps people who were acquainted with the subjects of these stories, in order to publish such supplementary information. Just address Old Timer's care of The Freeman.

One of the best known members of Pratt Post 127, Grand Army of the Republic was Major Oliver P. Carpenter, who was born Dec. 7, 1840 in Town of Plattekill near Clintondale, son of Robert and Susan G. Young Carpenter. As a young man he taught school at Clintondale, and also at Highland, which then was known as New Paltz Landing. He enlisted, 1861, in the 44th Regiment, N. Y. Volunteer Infantry and served under Generals Sherman, Hunter and Mitchell. Carpenter next enlisted in the Harris (2nd New York) Calvary, attaining the rank of captain. Leading a charge to take a battery at Appomattox Station, just previous to Lee's surrender, he lost his horse which had been presented to him by his company and was wounded by the last shot from the Confederate battery.

Carpenter's record also included participation in the great Shenandoah Valley campaign under Sherman and Custer, and was breveted major for meritorious and gallant service. Many another Ulster County young man served in this hard-fighting outfit of which Secretary of War Stanton said, "No regiment has done so much for the Government as the Harris Light Calvary." Returning home after the war, Carpenter was admitted to the bar May 5, 1866 and subsequently served as district attorney and surrogate of Ulster County. He was married, Sept. 22, 1866, to Ethelind DuBois of Highland and their children were Charles, Minnie, Eva, Oliver, Fred, George S., David B., Robert E. and Ethel.

Among the Union soldiers killed in action and whose remains were interred in Wiltwyck Cemetery, Kingston, were the following: First Sergeant John S. Snyder, A Company, 120th Regiment, Gettysburg, July 2, 1863 . . . Harvey Otis Jr., 156th Infantry, Winchester, Va., Sept. 19, 1864, aged 27 years. He was formerly a member of Wiltwyck Hose Co., and a great favorite with its members . . . James B. VanEtten, H Co., 20th Infantry, a splendid soldier and a favorite with his regiment, at Bull Run, Aug. 30, 1862, aged 17 years and 3 months . . . Charles K. Hale, D Co., 156th Regiment, Battle of the Wilderness, May 6, 1864, at age 21 years six months. Young Hale was remarkable for his kindness of spirit and was mourned by all his comrades.

Still there are other local veterans whose memory should be kept alive in the minds of rising and future generations, their names forever inscribed upon our country's roll of honor. John Converse Elmendorf was one Civil War dummer boy who was spared many of the agonizing battle experiences which fell to the lot of scores of these youngsters during the great four years' struggle. The boy, a drummer in F Company of Ulster's beloved Old Twentieth Infantry, had left Kingston early in April for the South with the regiment's complement of 800 men in response to Lincoln's first call for 75,000 volunteers. He came home on sick leave and died June 8, 1861, aged 12 years, eight months and four days and was buried in the Houghtaling Cemetery. A bright boy, well liked by the other soldiers, he was son of P. E. Elmendorf, also a member of F Company. Coincidentally, the county's youngest veteran and one who was perhaps its oldest veteran lie very near to each other in the old burying ground — Capt. David Catlin, a soldier of the Revolutionary War, died at the home of his son in Kingston, Oct. 13, 1839, aged 92 years. — C. A. W.

Corvair 700 Club Coupe

If you've been asking for a car with sure and easy handling, tenacious traction, a smooth-as-snow ride, and a practical slant — the only question left is

"WHICH CHEVY CORVAIR?"

If you'd been able to watch the 1961 Corvair walk away with first place in the 1,265-mile Canadian Winter Rally, you'd know exactly where to find those things we mentioned. But since Corvairs come in lots of different models, you still have to decide which fits your needs best. The Corvair Monza 4-Door? You'll love the way it handles—and the handsome way it looks. (Bucket-type front seats are optional at extra cost.) Maybe you go for the 700 Club Coupe, though. It captures you with its thrift, not to mention its thoroughly agreeable style. The only way to make up your mind, really, is to see them both at your Chevrolet dealer's.

PUZZLE

Can you imagine how a person could put up a dime under a cup on a table and get it out without touching the cup?

Magic!

This is a good one to try on yourself, and if you succeed, try it on the other fellows and get all their goats. Remember it must be a very "mysterious" affair, and the greater the mystery the greater the hysterics—after you get the dime.

Now, how do you do it?

ANSWER

Place the dime under the cup. Then put your hand under the table and make some queer motions as though you were pulling the dime down through a crack. Act as if you had the dime, and say, Now then, see if it's still there. Someone will then lift the cup, and when he does pick up the dime. You got it without touching the cup, didn't you?

Gateway trains people to obtain gainful employment in local industry, and even has a program for the blind. Proceeds of the show will go toward buying equipment needed at the center. Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Do teenage girls really like to date?

Brigid Bazlen, who is one, offers the revolutionary thought that they don't.

"Most dating is a bore," says the black-haired beauty. "And I think girls would admit it if they weren't subject to pressures. Trouble is, most mothers think there is something wrong if their daughters don't keep dating.

"I date very little. It's all right if the boy is really interesting. But this business of going out for an evening and making small talk with someone you scarcely know is a waste of time. Girls could spend their time much better at home with a good book."

Granted, it is an unusual viewpoint. But then, Brigid is an unusual teen-ager. For one thing, she wears hats. "I love hats," said the stylishly attired actress.

She gets her hats and her clothes-sense from her mother, Maggie Daly, the noted fashion commentator. Her ideas about dating and other matters are entirely her own. They reflect a maturity beyond her years (16).

So mature is she that she was able to play the Biblical temptress Salome in the forthcoming "King of Kings." It was her first film role and won her a contract at MGM, where she is now starring in "The Honeymoon Machine."

Brigid has come a long way in her 16 years. It was perhaps symbolic that she ordered the Elizabeth Taylor salad as we lunched in the MG.I commissary. She resembles the legendary Liz in her precocious beauty.

The Bazlen career started with her playing, of all things, "The Blue Fairy," on a children's TV show in Chicago. That brought her much notice and a role in a brief TV series, "Too Young to Go Steady."

One day when she was visiting New York, her agent took her to see producer Samuel Bronston. After a few minutes' conversation, he asked her, "Do you have a passport?" Within six days she was on her way to Spain to play Salome.

India Accepts Bid to Attend Laos Sessions

NEW DELHI (AP) — Britain and the Soviet Union asked India today to convene the three-nation commission to supervise a cease-fire in Laos and India agreed.

India also accepted an invitation to attend a 14-nation conference on Laos to begin in Geneva May 12.

British High Commissioner Sir Paul Gore-Booth and Soviet Ambassador I. A. Benediktov gave Indian Prime Minister Nehru three documents.

One asked him to call the control commission, which also includes Canada and Poland and which was first established by the 1954 Indochina armistice.

The second document invited India to Geneva. The third was an information copy of the British and Soviet appeal for cease-fire in Laos.

Gore-Booth said he was uncertain when the cease-fire appeal would go into effect, but it will be published Tuesday.

Informed sources said the three truce commissioners are likely to meet in New Delhi Thursday and go to Laos Friday.

Surplus Equipment Proposed for Vols

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., proposed today that cities and volunteer fire companies be permitted to receive government surplus property.

A bill he drafted to permit this, Stratton said, was sparked by a request from the Gloversville, N. Y., council which is interested in obtaining surplus trucks and bulldozers.

Under present law only school districts and civil defense organizations are entitled to such property.

Fireman Rescue Colonel and Son

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. (AP)—City firemen plucked an Air Force colonel and his teen-aged son from the icy waters of Lake Champlain Sunday night. The two had clung to an overturned canoe for about three-quarters of an hour in the 25-degree water.

Col. Clarence Poff, 47, and his son, Michael, 13, were reported in fair condition in the Plattsburgh Air Force Base hospital. They suffered from exposure.

The 14-foot aluminum canoe, equipped with a sail, capsized about one-quarter of a mile from shore in a gusty wind. Air Police at the base, where the colonel is stationed, spotted the two in the water.

A rescue attempt by airmen in a rowboat was thwarted by the choppy water. The firemen, makin gtheir first rescue trip in a recently acquired motor launch, pulled the two from the water and towed the canoe to shore.

Chicago Firm Begins Production on May 1

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Stanray Corp. of Chicago will begin production of aluminum highway bridge sections at Frankfurt about May 1, Gov. Rockefeller said today.

The governor said the firm would employ 55 persons with an annual payroll of approximately $300,000 at first.

Rockefeller said the State Commerce Department's new branch office in Chicago helped secure the industry for the state.

Stanray is a diversified manufacturer of metal and reinforced plastic products. It also operates Traveler Manufacturing Co. in Amsterdam, builder of aluminum and fiberglass boats.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Do teenage girls really like to date?

Brigid Bazlen, who is one, offers the revolutionary thought that they don't.

"Most dating is a bore," says the black-haired beauty. "And I think girls would admit it if they weren't subject to pressures. Trouble is, most mothers think there is something wrong if their daughters don't keep dating.

"I date very little. It's all right if the boy is really interesting. But this business of going out for an evening and making small talk with someone you scarcely know is a waste of time. Girls could spend their time much better at home with a good book."

Granted, it is an unusual viewpoint. But then, Brigid is an unusual teen-ager. For one thing, she wears hats. "I love hats," said the stylishly attired actress.

She gets her hats and her clothes-sense from her mother, Maggie Daly, the noted fashion commentator. Her ideas about dating and other matters are entirely her own. They reflect a maturity beyond her years (16).

So mature is she that she was able to play the Biblical temptress Salome in the forthcoming "King of Kings." It was her first film role and won her a contract at MGM, where she is now starring in "The Honeymoon Machine."

Brigid has come a long way in her 16 years. It was perhaps symbolic that she ordered the Elizabeth Taylor salad as we lunched in the MG.I commissary. She resembles the legendary Liz in her precocious beauty.

The Bazlen career started with her playing, of all things, "The Blue Fairy," on a children's TV show in Chicago. That brought her much notice and a role in a brief TV series, "Too Young to Go Steady."

One day when she was visiting New York, her agent took her to see producer Samuel Bronston. After a few minutes' conversation, he asked her, "Do you have a passport?" Within six days she was on her way to Spain to play Salome.

India Accepts Bid to Attend Laos Sessions

NEW DELHI (AP) — Britain and the Soviet Union asked India today to convene the three-nation commission to supervise a cease-fire in Laos and India agreed.

India also accepted an invitation to attend a 14-nation conference on Laos to begin in Geneva May 12.

British High Commissioner Sir Paul Gore-Booth and Soviet Ambassador I. A. Benediktov gave Indian Prime Minister Nehru three documents.

One asked him to call the control commission, which also includes Canada and Poland and which was first established by the 1954 Indochina armistice.

The second document invited India to Geneva. The third was an information copy of the British and Soviet appeal for cease-fire in Laos.

Gore-Booth said he was uncertain when the cease-fire appeal would go into effect, but it will be published Tuesday.

Informed sources said the three truce commissioners are likely to meet in New Delhi Thursday and go to Laos Friday.

Mrs. Howard Every, co-chairman of West Hurley, $170.75; Mrs. Wesley O'Brian, Glenford, $86.60; William O'Kelly, Plank Road and South Boulevard, $36, and Mrs. Ernest Myer, Hurley, $463.

Myer expressed appreciation to all contributors for their generous support.

Surplus Equipment Proposed for Vols

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., proposed today that cities and volunteer fire companies be permitted to receive government surplus property.

A bill he drafted to permit this, Stratton said, was sparked by a request from the Gloversville, N. Y., council which is interested in obtaining surplus trucks and bulldozers.

Under present law only school districts and civil defense organizations are entitled to such property.

Mahaffey Fans 17 Batters; Tigers Stretch Win Streak

Wally Moon Hits Eighth Home Run As LA Takes 1st

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Art Mahaffey's feat of striking out 17 Chicago Cubs, only one short of the major league record, in a Philadelphia shutout sweep Sunday overshadowed the early struggles in the pennant race.

Los Angeles clung to first place when San Francisco faltered and lost the second game to St. Louis. A Giant victory would have put them on top of the heap.

If it had not been for Mahaffey and Frank Sullivan, who teamed up with a startling pair of 1-0 and 6-0 shutouts for the last-place Phillies, the big news might have been Milwaukee's Warren Spahn, who won game No. 289 on his 40th birthday. Spahn just missed a shutout when Don Hoak homered for Pittsburgh in the ninth, but he won 3-1.

Or it might have been Wally Moon, the spectacular Los Angeles Dodger who continued to slap those "moon shots" over the left field screen at the Coliseum. He hit another, his eighth homer of the season, all to the wrong field for a left-handed batter. Moon's hit gave him a .500 batting average and helped the league-leading Dodgers trim Cincinnati 5-1 on a six-hitter by Roger Craig.

Giants Blow One

San Francisco had a chance to take over first place after beating St. Louis 2-1 in the opener. The Giants took a 4-2 lead into the ninth inning of the second game but the Cardinals rose up with five runs in the ninth and got a split 7-4. Maury McDermott's pinch double drove in three big runs.

In the first four innings Mahaffey struck out nine men. Going to the ninth he had 16. He struck out the first man but fell one short of the record of 18 set by Bob Feller of Cleveland in 1938 and tied by Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers in 1959. Mahaffey allowed only four hits.

Although Dick Ellsworth allowed only three hits in the first game, the Phils beat him behind Sullivan when Bobby Gene Smith crashed a home run in the ninth.

Spahn was closing in on his 52nd shutout when Hoak hit his home run in the ninth. He gave up seven hits and struck out four, boosting his lifetime total to 2,085. Vern Law, the Pirates' 20-game winner last year, suffered his third straight defeat.

Continues Spurt

Moon continued his fantastic spring spurt in the Coliseum where he has hit safely in all 12 games. Don Demeter also homered for the Dodgers and Jerry Lynch smashed his second pinch homer for the Reds.

Just when the Giants appeared poised to take over first place, the Cardinals rose up with their five-run spurt in the ninth to grab the second game. McDermott, signed as a free agent to help the bullpen corps, smashed his three-run pinch double off relief man Jim Duffalo and saved the decision for Lindy McDaniel, although Mickey pitched the last inning himself.

Billy O'Dell, who failed in the second game, teamed up with rookie Bob Bolin to put down a Cardinal uprising in the first game and saved the verdict for Sam Jone.

Batting — Wally Moon, Dodgers, hit eighth "wrong field" home run to left field in Los Angeles Coliseum, boosting batting average to .500 in 5-1 victory over Cincinnati.

Pitching — Art Mahaffey, Phillies, struck out 17 Cubs, one short of Major League record, while shutting out Chicago 6-0 in second game after Frank Sullivan blanked Cubs 1-0 in opener.

Stop Los Angeles Twice, 3-1, 3-2; Yanks Are Beaten

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Detroit stretched its winning streak to seven Sunday and opened up a half game lead in the American League on the Minnesota Twins.

Manager Bob Scheffing's Tigers, who lost their opener, polished off the Los Angeles Angels in both ends of a doubleheader.

Jim Donohue, 22, a right-hander who didn't figure to stick with the big club, figured prominently in both of Sunday's victories, 3-1 and 3-1 in 11 innings. The youngster, up from St. Paul, stamped out a ninth-inning rally and saved the first game for Bob Bruce. He won the second in relief of Jim Bunning.

Jack Kralick, a young lefty with a chance to be the No. 3 man on Minnesota's staff behind Pedro Ramos and Camilo Pascual, shut out Washington 1-0 with four hits. He also drove in the only run with a fifth-inning single that hung a third straight defeat on Dick (Tough Luck) Donovan.

Mantle Homers

Jackie Brandt and Brooks Robinson led a 13-hit attack by Baltimore in a 4-1 victory over the New York Yankees despite Mickey Mantle's fifth home run. Cleveland shaded Kansas City 10-8 with the help of a wild pitch and a throwing error in a game that set a new American League record and tied the major league mark with 14 pitchers (seven on each side) in action.

Bob Shaw, a stubborn holdout in spring training, pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 7-1 decision over Boston and an even break in a doubleheader. Tom Brewer won the first for Boston 4-3 although his arm tightened and he left the game after eight innings.

Scheffing, fired as boss of the Chicago Cubs in 1959, continued to get the most out of his Tigers. Bruce was two outs away from his first big league shutout when Ted Kluszewski homered and Bob Cerv doubled for the Angels. Scheffing brought in Terry Fox who hit two men, loading the bases. Donohue bailed him out by retiring pinch hitters Ken Hunt and Leo Burke on pop flies.

In the second game Dick Brown had a pinch single which won it in the 11th after the Angel pitchers loaded the bases on walks. Donohue, 6-4½ and 190 pounds, succeeded Bunning who went out after 10 innings for pinch hitter Dick Gernert who tied the score a homer.

Kralick delighted 13,408 fans who ignored morning rain to watch the Twins play the Senators. After Billy Gardner doubled in the fifth, Kralick drove him home with a single. Donovan, beaten on errors opening day by Chicago and whipped by Cleveland after eight shutout innings, allowed only four hits.

Chuck Estrada, knocked out in the first inning last Sunday, came back and beat the Yankees with help from Dick Hall. Brandt and Brooks Robinson each had three hits off loser Danny McDevitt and three successors.

Shaw retired the first 14 men he faced and scattered nine hits after Tom Brewer won the opener for Boston in a steady drizzle.

The A's lost when, with two on base in the ninth by walks, Joe Nuxhall's fourth ball to Johnny Temple was a wild pitch, letting a run score. Catcher Haywood Sullivan threw wildly, letting a second run come in. Wynn Hawkins was the winner.

San Juan Rookie Keeps Club Hot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The not-so-secret weapon that has moved the San Juan Marlins into the first division in the International League standings is a 21 - year-old outfielder named James Edward Beauchamp.

The Marlins have won three of the six games they have played so far and Beauchamp, who hit .258 at Tulsa last season, has personally accounted for two of them. He broke up last Friday's game against Buffalo with a three-run eighth inning homer and Sunday he clouted a ninth-inning homer with one on base to give the Marlins a 5-4 decision over the Bisons, at San Juan.

The second game of the scheduled doubleheader, which drew only 1,000 spectators, was rained out so Buffalo didn't get a second chance for its first victory of the season.

Toronto's torried Maple Leafs had to go 11 innings to beat Jersey City 11-7 in another poorly-attended game, but they moved into a tie with Richmond for first place as the Virginians split a doubleheader with the Syracuse Chiefs. The game at Jersey City drew 2,002 fans.

Syracuse took the opener from Richmond 7-3 on a pinch homer and lost the nightcap by the same score in 10 innings. Also on a homer. The Columbus Jets made it four straight with a 4-2 first game victory but the Red Wings came back to win 10-5 on Columbus errors.

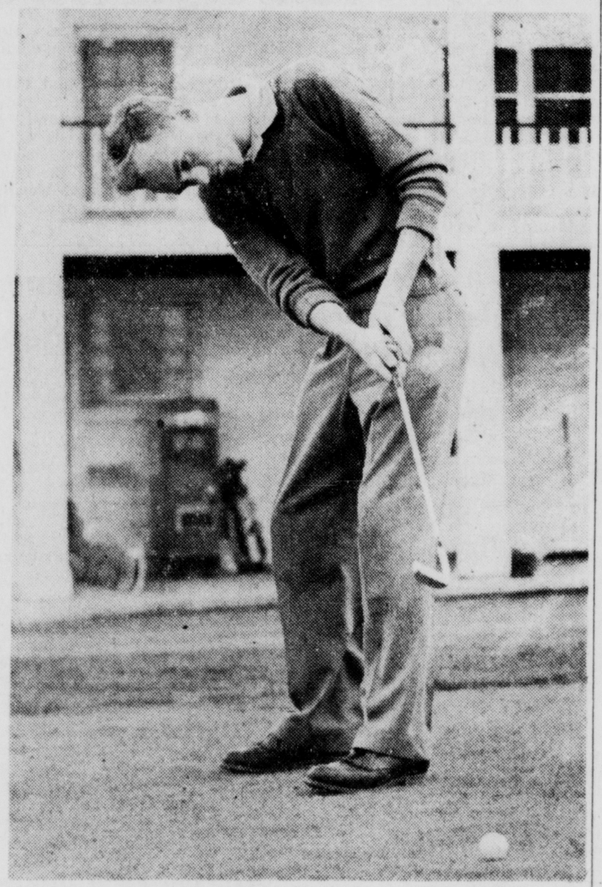

Jim Rivera Placed On Disabled List

CHICAGO AP — The Chicago White Sox Sunday announced that utility outfielder Jim Rivera has been placed on the disabled list because of a fractured thumb on his left hand.

Rivera suffered the injury while sliding into third base Saturday in a game the White Sox lost to Boston, 7-6 in 11 innings.

U. S. Cagers Top Reds, Women's Team Beaten

MOSCOW, Apr. 23 (AP)—The United States' touring basketball teams opened their invasion of Russia today by splitting two games. The men defeated the Soviets, 78-68, and the American women dropped a 65-48 decision.

The American men never were far in front, holding only a 39-32 margin at the half. The American women trailed, 31-21, at the half.

The games were witnessed by a crowd of 15,000, including Major Yuri Gagarin, the world's first spaceman. He sat in the distinguished visitors' box and chatted with the U. S. players, wishing them luck before the start of the contests.

The Russians started off at a fast pace, building a 13-5 lead in the first six minutes. Armenak Alachachan, back on the Soviet national team after an absence of seven years, led the attack.

Sparked by Lucas

But halfway through the period, Alachachan was taken out after committing three fouls and the Americans, using a zone defense, began to close in.

With Jerry Lucas starring on offense and defense, the Americans forged to the front, 24-23, at the 15-minute mark and never were headed. Dan Swartz also played a big role in the American's attack with field goals from mid-court range.

Swartz led the Americans with 17 points. James Francis and Lucas each scored 11. Yuri Korneyev paced the Russians with 22 while Gennady Volnov had 17 and 7-foot-plus Yan Kruminsh 10.

Women Flustered

The American women jumped off to an 8-2 lead with Rita Horky leading the attack. But the Russians pressing defense became effective and the U. S. began making errors and losing possession of the ball. The Russions led, 20-15, after 15 minutes and never relinquished the advantage.

The American women seemed somewhat flustered and after the game coach Harley Redin, of Wayland College, said:

"They are not accustomed to international rules."

Clifford Buck, vice-president of the American Amateur Athletic Union, had this to say:

"The Russians, both men and women, play as if their life depends on it. Ours go in to win but for them it's not a matter of life or death."

Old Fellows Come Through When Pacific Coast Heat Is On

BY HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Someone at Yankee Stadium told Fred Haney that the Angels could win some early games on hitting strength, and before the Los Angeles heat got to the old guys.

Eddie Yost is 34, Bob Cerv and Ned Garver are 35, Ted Kluszewski 36 and Del Rice 38.

General manager Haney winked at Bill Skiff, chief of Yankee scouts.

"Not that the Angels are stocked entirely with spavined veterans," he said, "but don't you know that the Pacific Coast League through the years was noted as an old men's home?" Famous players thrived out there after completing major league careers."

Haney rattled off names—Pop Van Haltren, Doc Crandall, Cap Dillon, Wade Killefer, Wahoo Sam Crawford and Cactus Cravath.

"For years," Haney recalled, "the Los Angeles club, with Crawford, Killefer, Rube Ellis, Art Griggs, Tom Hughes and others, was referred to as the old gentlemen from the south."

Haney, who played third base for Ty Cobb in Detroit, is himself an example. Fred spent his first three years in the Pacific Coast League, returned there after major league stops.

"There's something in the far western climate that puts new life in old players," pointed out Skiff, the long-time catcher. "This goes all up and down the coast. I managed Seattle from 1941 through '46 and the only time we were bothered by heat was in Sacramento. There rarely is extreme heat on the coast even in Los Angeles, where you almost invariably sleep under a blanket at night.

Ken Hunt

"I won two pennants and three Shaughnessy Playoffs in five years and was beaten for another on the final day which would have set a league record. And who do you suppose helped most? Old guys with their major league careers behind them —Jo Jo White, Earl Averill, Spencer Harris, Sylvester Johnson and others.

"Why, Babe Herman was still thumping the ball in the Coast League to such an extent that Branch Rickey brought him back to Brooklyn as a pinch-hitter."

Haney isn't concerned about the elderly blokes in this hastily thrown together Los Angeles party. He's more interested in the future and younger combatants such as pitchers Eli Grba, Jerry Casale and Ted Bowsfield; infielders like Fritzie Brickell and Ken Aspromonte and outfielders Ken Hunt and Leon Wagner.

Haney is looking for and at kids like southpaw Ron Moeller, and infielders on the order of Leo Burke and Jim Fregosi, the latter shipped out and expected to be back as a regular within two springs.

Bill Skiff assured Haney that Ken Hunt, obtained from the Yankees in the $75,000 stocking draft, had all the requirements and could stand out in center field.

"Meanwhile don't worry about our old guys," concluded Fred Haney.

"History proves that the weather out there does something to them."

Grays Start Well In Eastern Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Outfielder Charlie Fields has served noticed he again intends to play a dominant role in the Williamsport Grays bid for a second straight Eastern League pennant.

The slugging outfielder, who belted 17 home runs last year, got the Grays off on the right foot Sunday by driving in five runs with a homer and a double for a 14-11 victory over Johnstown.

In other games, league-leading Reading made it two in a row over Lancaster with a 6-5 victory and Binghamton defeated Springfield 6-2.

A crowd of 1,572 turned out to watch the Grays open their home season under new manager Andy Seminick. It was the first setback for Johnstown, the new entry in the league, which had two of its home games postponed by bad weather.

Fields' drive high over the left field fence sparked a seven-run eighth inning for the Grays and gave the Williamsport club the lead for good at 12-10. The Grays added two more insurance runs before Pedro Perez could put out the fire.

HOME-GROWN—Charley Hiller came out of the farm system to open the season at second for San Francisco Giants.

Johnson Is Heavy Favorite To Whip Von Clay Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Harold Johnson risks his piece of the world light heavyweight crown in a 15-rounder against 21-year-old Von Clay at the Philadelphia Arena tonight.

The fight won't be televised.

Johnson is a 3-1 favorite to repel the challenge of his fellow Philadelphian and chalk up his 14th straight victory. The 32-year-old veteran is recognized as king of the 175-pounders by the National Boxing Association. New York and Europe still recognize ancient Archie Moore as world champion.

Clay got the crack at Johnson by handing Scotland's Chic Calderwood his first defeat in a London upset last month. Clay's record is 14-3-1. Johnson's record is 65-8.

Doug Jones, undefeated New York light heavyweight contender who defeated Clay twice, takes on Pete Rademacher, the 1956 Olympic heavyweight champion in a television—ABC, 10 p.m. EST—10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena Saturday night.

The No. 3 light heavyweight will spot the 200-pound Rademacher about 20 pounds. Jones, 24, has a 17-0 record including nine knockouts. Rademacher's record is 13-3-1, including seven knockouts. The 32-year-old Rademacher has won seven straight to fatten his record.

The former Army officer from Grand View, Wash., and Columbus, Ga., started his pro career in a title fight with world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and was knocked out in the sixth round. In his next pro start, he was flattened again, this time in four rounds by contender Zora Folley.

Since then Pete has done fairly well. His only loss was on a seventh round kayo by Brian London in London over a year ago.

If Rademacher wins, there is a possibility he may be matched in Louisville against Cassius Clay, the precocious 1960 Olympic light heavyweight champion. The 19-year-old boxer-puncher from Louisville has won all six of his pro fights.

Carry Back Is Early Favorite in Derby

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico (AP) — Dorchester Farm's Carry Back has been made the favorite in the Caliente future book on the May 6 Kentucky Derby despite his second place finish to Globemaster in Saturday's Wood Memorial at Aqueduct.

Now rated at 3-1 in the latest odds released Sunday, Carry Back had been the co-favorite with Alberta Ranch's Four-And-Twenty at 5-1.

Pricemaker Tony Alessio installed Four-And-Twenty as the second choice at 4-1 after his good winning effort at Keeneland. Grouped at 6-1 are Flutterby,

Six Records Set At Kansas Relays

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) —Six meet records were established, four of them by Texas athletes, in the windup of the 36th Kansas Relays Saturday.

Baylor scored the most victories — two relays and two individual events — but didn't figure in the record performances.

North Texas State's distance medley unit was anchored home by John Cooper's 4:07.1 mile in record time of 9:49.3 — :01.5 faster than Oklahoma's record in 1958.

Texas Southern's foursome of Homer Jones, Barney Allen, Charles Frazier and Lester Milburn lowered the college division 440 relay record to :41.0 and the 880 standard to 1:24.2. The Houston Negro team had set a 440 relay record of :41.1 in Frday's preliminaries.

Howard-Payne won the college two-mile relay in record time of 7:32 as David Noble, Frank Santiago, Lowell Bishop and Glenn Petty presented the Brownwood, Tex., school its sixth successive title in that event.

Other records went to Emporia (Kan) State's College mile relay team of Mel Mayo, Landis Franklin, Noel Certain and Eddie Washington in 3:12.2 ,and to John Kelly, former Stanford star, with a 50-3 in the hop-step-jump.

Bill Kemp, who was elected the meet's outstanding performer, anchored Baylor's winning 440 relay team home in :40.8 and the Bears' half mile relay unit in 1:25.1.

Wally Moon Hits Eighth Home Run As LA Takes 1st

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Art Mahaffey's feat of striking out 17 Chicago Cubs, only one short of the major league record, in a Philadelphia shutout sweep Sunday overshadowed the early struggles in the pennant race.

Los Angeles clung to first place when San Francisco faltered and lost the second game to St. Louis. A Giant victory would have put them on top of the heap.

If it had not been for Mahaffey and Frank Sullivan, who teamed up with a startling pair of 1-0 and 6-0 shutouts for the last-place Phillies, the big news might have been Milwaukee's Warren Spahn, who won game No. 289 on his 40th birthday. Spahn just missed a shutout when Don Hoak homered for Pittsburgh in the ninth, but he won 3-1.

Or it might have been Wally Moon, the spectacular Los Angeles Dodger who continued to slap those "moon shots" over the left field screen at the Coliseum. He hit another, his eighth homer of the season, all to the wrong field for a left-handed batter. Moon's hit gave him a .500 batting average and helped the league-leading Dodgers trim Cincinnati 5-1 on a six-hitter by Roger Craig.

Giants Blow One

San Francisco had a chance to take over first place after beating St. Louis 2-1 in the opener. The Giants took a 4-2 lead into the ninth inning of the second game but the Cardinals rose up with five runs in the ninth and got a split 7-4. Maury McDermott's pinch double drove in three big runs.

In the first four innings Mahaffey struck out nine men. Going to the ninth he had 16. He struck out the first man but fell one short of the record of 18 set by Bob Feller of Cleveland in 1938 and tied by Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers in 1959. Mahaffey allowed only four hits.

Although Dick Ellsworth allowed only three hits in the first game, the Phils beat him behind Sullivan when Bobby Gene Smith crashed a home run in the ninth.

Spahn was closing in on his 52nd shutout when Hoak hit his home run in the ninth. He gave up seven hits and struck out four, boosting his lifetime total to 2,085. Vern Law, the Pirates' 20-game winner last year, suffered his third straight defeat.

Continues Spurt

Moon continued his fantastic spring spurt in the Coliseum where he has hit safely in all 12 games. Don Demeter also homered for the Dodgers and Jerry Lynch smashed his second pinch homer for the Reds.

Just when the Giants appeared poised to take over first place, the Cardinals rose up with their five-run spurt in the ninth to grab the second game. McDermott, signed as a free agent to help the bullpen corps, smashed his three-run pinch double off relief man Jim Duffalo and saved the decision for Lindy McDaniel, although Mickey pitched the last inning himself.

Billy O'Dell, who failed in the second game, teamed up with rookie Bob Bolin to put down a Cardinal uprising in the first game and saved the verdict for Sam Jone.

Stop Los Angeles Twice, 3-1, 3-2; Yanks Are Beaten

Detroit stretched its winning streak to seven Sunday and opened up a half game lead in the American League on the Minnesota Twins.

Manager Bob Scheffing's Tigers, who lost their opener, polished off the Los Angeles Angels in both ends of a doubleheader.

Jim Donohue, 22, a right-hander who didn't figure to stick with the big club, figured prominently in both of Sunday's victories, 3-1 and 3-1 in 11 innings. The youngster, up from St. Paul, stamped out a ninth-inning rally and saved the first game for Bob Bruce. He won the second in relief of Jim Bunning.

Jack Kralick, a young lefty with a chance to be the No. 3 man on Minnesota's staff behind Pedro Ramos and Camilo Pascual, shut out Washington 1-0 with four hits. He also drove in the only run with a fifth-inning single that hung a third straight defeat on Dick (Tough Luck) Donovan.

Mantle Homers

Jackie Brandt and Brooks Robinson led a 13-hit attack by Baltimore in a 4-1 victory over the New York Yankees despite Mickey Mantle's fifth home run. Cleveland shaded Kansas City 10-8 with the help of a wild pitch and a throwing error in a game that set a new American League record and tied the major league mark with 14 pitchers (seven on each side) in action.

Bob Shaw, a stubborn holdout in spring training, pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 7-1 decision over Boston and an even break in a doubleheader. Tom Brewer won the first for Boston 4-3 although his arm tightened and he left the game after eight innings.

Scheffing, fired as boss of the Chicago Cubs in 1959, continued to get the most out of his Tigers. Bruce was two outs away from his first big league shutout when Ted Kluszewski homered and Bob Cerv doubled for the Angels. Scheffing brought in Terry Fox who hit two men, loading the bases. Donohue bailed him out by retiring pinch hitters Ken Hunt and Leo Burke on pop flies.

In the second game Dick Brown had a pinch single which won it in the 11th after the Angel pitchers loaded the bases on walks. Donohue, 6-4½ and 190 pounds, succeeded Bunning who went out after 10 innings for pinch hitter Dick Gernert who tied the score a homer.

Kralick delighted 13,408 fans who ignored morning rain to watch the Twins play the Senators. After Billy Gardner doubled in the fifth, Kralick drove him home with a single. Donovan, beaten on errors opening day by Chicago and whipped by Cleveland after eight shutout innings, allowed only four hits.

Chuck Estrada, knocked out in the first inning last Sunday, came back and beat the Yankees with help from Dick Hall. Brandt and Brooks Robinson each had three hits off loser Danny McDevitt and three successors.

Shaw retired the first 14 men he faced and scattered nine hits after Tom Brewer won the opener for Boston in a steady drizzle.

The A's lost when, with two on base in the ninth by walks, Joe Nuxhall's fourth ball to Johnny Temple was a wild pitch, letting a run score. Catcher Haywood Sullivan threw wildly, letting a second run come in. Wynn Hawkins was the winner.

San Juan Rookie Keeps Club Hot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The not-so-secret weapon that has moved the San Juan Marlins into the first division in the International League standings is a 21 - year-old outfielder named James Edward Beauchamp.

The Marlins have won three of the six games they have played so far and Beauchamp, who hit .258 at Tulsa last season, has personally accounted for two of them. He broke up last Friday's game against Buffalo with a three-run eighth inning homer and Sunday he clouted a ninth-inning homer with one on base to give the Marlins a 5-4 decision over the Bisons, at San Juan.

The second game of the scheduled doubleheader, which drew only 1,000 spectators, was rained out so Buffalo didn't get a second chance for its first victory of the season.

Toronto's torried Maple Leafs had to go 11 innings to beat Jersey City 11-7 in another poorly-attended game, but they moved into a tie with Richmond for first place as the Virginians split a doubleheader with the Syracuse Chiefs. The game at Jersey City drew 2,002 fans.

Syracuse took the opener from Richmond 7-3 on a pinch homer and lost the nightcap by the same score in 10 innings. Also on a homer. The Columbus Jets made it four straight with a 4-2 first game victory but the Red Wings came back to win 10-5 on Columbus errors.

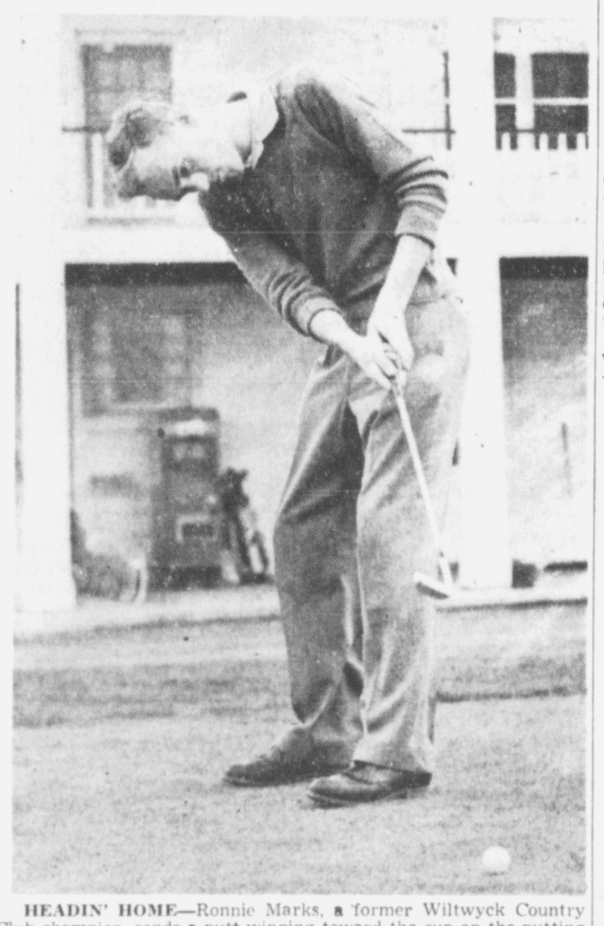

Jim Rivera Placed On Disabled List

U. S. Cagers Top Reds, Women's Team Beaten

MOSCOW, Apr. 23 (AP)—The United States' touring basketball teams opened their invasion of Russia today by splitting two games. The men defeated the Soviets, 78-68, and the American women dropped a 65-48 decision.

The American men never were far in front, holding only a 39-32 margin at the half. The American women trailed, 31-21, at the half.

The games were witnessed by a crowd of 15,000, including Major Yuri Gagarin, the world's first spaceman. He sat in the distinguished visitors' box and chatted with the U. S. players, wishing them luck before the start of the contests.

The Russians started off at a fast pace, building a 13-5 lead in the first six minutes. Armenak Alachachan, back on the Soviet national team after an absence of seven years, led the attack.

Sparked by Lucas

But halfway through the period, Alachachan was taken out after committing three fouls and the Americans, using a zone defense, began to close in.

With Jerry Lucas starring on offense and defense, the Americans forged to the front, 24-23, at the 15-minute mark and never were headed. Dan Swartz also played a big role in the American's attack with field goals from mid-court range.

Swartz led the Americans with 17 points. James Francis and Lucas each scored 11. Yuri Korneyev paced the Russians with 22 while Gennady Volnov had 17 and 7-foot-plus Yan Kruminsh 10.

Women Flustered

The American women jumped off to an 8-2 lead with Rita Horky leading the attack. But the Russians pressing defense became effective and the U. S. began making errors and losing possession of the ball. The Russions led, 20-15, after 15 minutes and never relinquished the advantage.

The American women seemed somewhat flustered and after the game coach Harley Redin, of Wayland College, said:

"They are not accustomed to internationl rules."

Clifford Buck, vice-president of the American Amateur Athletic Union, had this to say:

"The Russians, both men and women, play as if their life depends on it. Ours go in to win but for them it's not a matter of life or death."

Old Fellows Come Through When Pacific Coast Heat Is On

BY HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Someone at Yankee Stadium told Fred Haney that the Angels could win some early games on hitting strength, and before the Los Angeles heat got to the old guys.

Eddie Yost is 34, Bob Cerv and Ned Garver are 35, Ted Kluszewski 36 and Del Rice 38.

General manager Haney winked at Bill Skiff, chief of Yankee scouts.

"Not that the Angels are stocked entirely with spavined veterans," he said, "but don't you know that the Pacific Coast League through the years was noted as an old men's home?" Famous players thrived out there after completing major league careers."

Haney rattled off names—Pop Van Haltren, Doc Crandall, Cap Dillon, Wade Killefer, Wahoo Sam Crawford and Cactus Cravath.

"For years," Haney recalled, "the Los Angeles club, with Crawford, Killefer, Rube Ellis, Art Griggs, Tom Hughes and others, was referred to as the old gentlemen from the south."

Haney, who played third base for Ty Cobb in Detroit, is himself an example. Fred spent his first three years in the Pacific Coast League, returned there after major league stops.

"There's something in the far western climate that puts new life in old players," pointed out Skiff, the long-time catcher. "This goes all up and down the coast. I managed Seattle from 1941 through '46 and the only time we were bothered by heat was in Sacramento. There rarely is extreme heat on the coast even in Los Angeles, where you almost invariably sleep under a blanket at night.

Ken Hunt

"I won two pennants and three Shaughnessy Playoffs in five years and was beaten for another on the final day which would have set a league record. And who do you suppose helped most? Old guys with their major league careers behind them —Jo Jo White, Earl Averill, Spencer Harris, Sylvester Johnson and others.

"Why, Babe Herman was still thumping the ball in the Coast League to such an extent that Branch Rickey brought him back to Brooklyn as a pinch-hitter."

Haney isn't concerned about the elderly blokes in this hastily thrown together Los Angeles party. He's more interested in the future and younger combatants such as pitchers Eli Grba, Jerry Casale and Ted Bowsfield; infielders like Fritzie Brickell and Ken Aspromonte and outfielders Ken Hunt and Leon Wagner.

Haney is looking for and at kids like southpaw Ron Moeller, and infielders on the order of Leo Burke and Jim Fregosi, the latter shipped out and expected to be back as a regular within two springs.

Bill Skiff assured Haney that Ken Hunt, obtained from the Yankees in the $75,000 stocking draft, had all the requirements and could stand out in center field.

"Meanwhile don't worry about our old guys," concluded Fred Haney.

"History proves that the weather out there does something to them."

Grays Start Well In Eastern Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

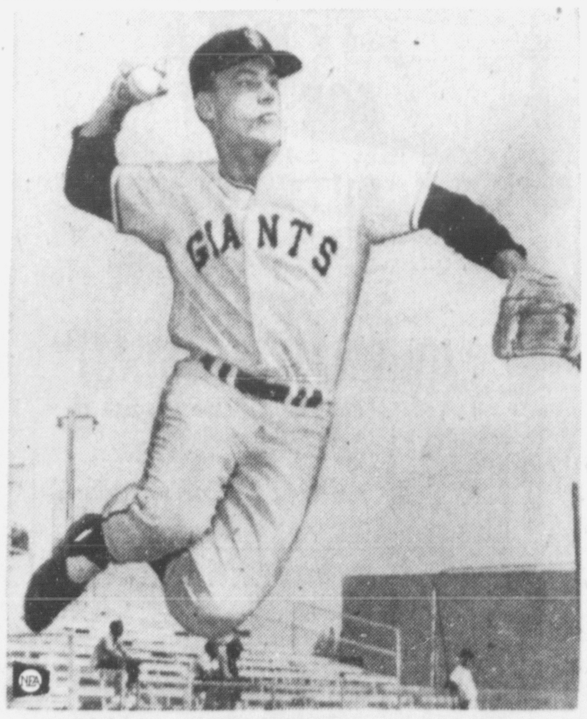

Outfielder Charlie Fields has served noticed he again intends to play a dominant role in the Williamsport Grays bid for a second straight Eastern League pennant.

The slugging outfielder, who belted 17 home runs last year, got the Grays off on the right foot Sunday by driving in five runs with a homer and a double for a 14-11 victory over Johnstown.

In other games, league-leading Reading made it two in a row over Lancaster with a 6-5 victory and Binghamton defeated Springfield 6-2.

A crowd of 1,572 turned out to watch the Grays open their home season under new manager Andy Seminick. It was the first setback for Johnstown, the new entry in the league, which had two of its home games postponed by bad weather.

Fields' drive high over the left field fence sparked a seven-run eighth inning for the Grays and gave the Williamsport club the lead for good at 12-10. The Grays added two more insurance runs before Pedro Perez could put out the fire.

HOME-GROWN—Charley Hiller came out of the farm system to open the season at second for San Francisco Giants.

Johnson Is Heavy Favorite To Whip Von Clay Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Harold Johnson risks his piece of the world light heavyweight crown in a 15-rounder against 21-year-old Von Clay at the Philadelphia Arena tonight.

The fight won't be televised.

Johnson is a 3-1 favorite to repel the challenge of his fellow Philadelphian and chalk up his 14th straight victory. The 32-year-old veteran is recognized as king of the 175-pounders by the National Boxing Association. New York and Europe still recognize ancient Archie Moore as world champion.

Clay got the crack at Johnson by handing Scotland's Chic Calderwood his first defeat in a London upset last month. Clay's record is 14-3-1. Johnson's record is 65-8.

Doug Jones, undefeated New York light heavyweight contender who defeated Clay twice, takes on Pete Rademacher, the 1956 Olympic heavyweight champion in a television—ABC, 10 p.m. EST—10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena Saturday night.

The No. 3 light heavyweight will spot the 200-pound Rademacher about 20 pounds. Jones, 24, has a 17-0 record including nine knockouts. Rademacher's record is 13-3-1, including seven knockouts. The 32-year-old Rademacher has won seven straight to fatten his record.

The former Army officer from Grand View, Wash., and Columbus, Ga., started his pro career in a title fight with world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and was knocked out in the sixth round. In his next pro start, he was flattened again, this time in four rounds by contender Zora Folley.

Since then Pete has done fairly well. His only loss was on a seventh round kayo by Brian London in London over a year ago.

If Rademacher wins, there is a possibility he may be matched in Louisville against Cassius Clay, the precocious 1960 Olympic light heavyweight champion. The 19-year-old boxer-puncher from Louisville has won all six of his pro fights.

Six Records Set At Kansas Relays

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) —Six meet records were established, four of them by Texas athletes, in the windup of the 36th Kansas Relays Saturday.

Baylor scored the most victories — two relays and two individual events — but didn't figure in the record performances.

North Texas State's distance medley unit was anchored home by John Cooper's 4:07.1 mile in record time of 9:49.3 — :01.5 faster than Oklahoma's record in 1958.

Texas Southern's foursome of Homer Jones, Barney Allen, Charles Frazier and Lester Milburn lowered the college division 440 relay record to :41.0 and the 880 standard to 1:24.2. The Houston Negro team had set a 440 relay record of :41.1 in Frday's preliminaries.

Howard-Payne won the college two-mile relay in record time of 7:32 as David Noble, Frank Santiago, Lowell Bishop and Glenn Petty presented the Brownwood, Tex., school its sixth successive title in that event.

Other records went to Emporia (Kan) State's College mile relay team of Mel Mayo, Landis Franklin, Noel Certain and Eddie Washington in 3:12.2 ,and to John Kelly, former Stanford star, with a 50-3 in the hop-step-jump.

Bill Kemp, who was elected the meet's outstanding performer, anchored Baylor's winning 440 relay team home in :40.8 and the Bears' half mile relay unit in 1:25.1.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico (AP) — Dorchester Farm's Carry Back has been made the favorite in the Caliente future book on the May 6 Kentucky Derby despite his second place finish to Globemaster in Saturday's Wood Memorial at Aqueduct.

Now rated at 3-1 in the latest odds released Sunday, Carry Back had been the co-favorite with Alberta Ranch's Four-And-Twenty at 5-1.

Pricemaker Tony Alessio installed Four-And-Twenty as the second choice at 4-1 after his good winning effort at Keeneland. Grouped at 6-1 are Flutterby,

By CHARLES J. TIANO

The warmth and quality of the wonderful Waryas family of Poughkeepsie was extolled Saturday night at the Polish Club Hall in Poughkepsie.

The occasion was the Dutchess County Old Timers Baseball Association's testimonial to Steve Waryas, who with John Babiarz, organized the Association and made it a vital influence in the sports fraternity in Poughkeepsie.

The city of Poughkeepsie has been enriched by such as Steve and Victor Waryas, the incumbent mayor, and other members of the closely-knit family who through the years have made substantial contributions to sports in the Bridge City.

It was a moving and poignant sight to watch Papa Waryas, a remarkably octogenerian (he's now 85) share in the plaudits for his son. This was the essence of the true spirit of the American legend-the immigrant father who lives long enough to see his sons earn recognition and honor that comes only through long years of devotion to a principle.

When you consider the pathetically few persons who are really interested in promoting athletics for kids in any given community, the achievments and dedication of Steve Waryas become more impressive.

• From the Beginning:

Papa Waryas, who doesn't look a day over 70, leaned forward intently, straining to catch every syllable of the battery of orators who had come to pay homage to his son. It was one of those rewarding moments in this life that some men achieve, others never get the opportunity.

Victor Waryas recalled that many years ago when Mama Waryas would count heads for the daily chores around the large and bustling household, invariably one would be missing-Steve, who by then was always safely ensconced on some nearby baseball field. The wonderful bond between these two distinguished Poughkeepsie brothers was clearly evident in the mayor's remarks. The mayor, incidentally, is a new star on the Dutchess county political horizon. Urban and polished, he is eloquent and forceful as an orator and seems destined to bring further fame to the Waryas family.

Joe Smith, the dinner chairman; Police Chief Martin, Fred Smith, the Dutchess county clerk, Fran Carey and Jackie Farrell, the Mighty Mite of the New York Yankees public relations department, joined the array of speakers who paid tribute to the honored guest.

They told how Steve Waryas had been attracted to baseball as a kid back around 1927 and spent the rest of his life in the game in one capacity or another. He was a better than average catcher who played with and against teams in every town and hamlet in Dutchess. As a high school kid he was a fine athlete who played baseball and football with such intensity that he numbers two broken ankles, a broken wrist and a broken elbow among his athletic momentoes.

• Little League Leader:

Waryas joined the first Little League movement in Poughkeepsie and stayed with it for 15 years. Then came another form of expression-the Dutchess County Old Timers Baseball Association, a nostalgic collection of Dutchess county players, 40 years and older. Waryas and John Babiarz were the driving forces behind the Dutchess organization and both have worked hard to make it one of the liveliest in the country. They patterned it after the Old Timers Association of Kingston, but they have far surpassed the local group in motivation, achievment and ideals.

When the inevitable moment came, as it always does, when the honored guest must respond to the accolades that have been heaped on him, Steve Waryas rose to say that he was at a loss for words. This was a remarkable understatement spoken in good jest, since he happens to be one of the finest toastmasters in this part of the country.

He was visibly moved as he acknowledged the fine tributes from his brother and the other speakers and told how wonderful it was to have his father present. And then he wondered out loud how his eldest son, a freshman at Marist College, had done in his first varsity crew race. The family hadn't heard. It was typical of Steve Waryas that he would share his finest hour with his family.

We had the pleasure of installing the new officers and directors of the Dutchess Old Timers. And we had the further honor and opportunity to say some nice things about Steve Waryas. No man ever deserved them more.

Pender Wants Gene Fullmer After His Win Over Basilio

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Paul Pender today envisions a title-clearing showdown with Gene Fullmer in November between the pair of partial middleweight champions.

Relaxing after his third successful defense Saturday night against gallant Carmen Basilio, Pender admitted: "I want this Fullmer so bad I can taste it. I want to square this thing away."

Pender, 30, ex-fireman from Brookline, Mass., is considered the world's 160-pound king in Massachusetts, New York and Europe. Fullmer from West Jordan, Utah, is the 48-state National Boxing Association champion.

Promoter Sam Silverman—seeking a November Boston Garden date with an eye toward a $200,000 gate and as much as $150,000 more in television money—has been doing long distance negotiating with Marv Jenson, Fullmer's manager.

Basilio, onetime middleweight and welterweight ruler, blinked through a swollen face tatooed by Pender's left jabs and hooks and predicted Paul will not be able to beat Fullmer. Carmen, who had just lost a unanimous 15-round decision to Pender, twice had been stopped by Fullmer.

"I fought them both," Basilio said. "It would be a tough fight but Fullmer would win."

Pender did a convincing job on Basilio, 34, knocking him down for an eight count in the 13th round and nine count in the 15th before 12,168 Garden fans and a national TV audience. Basilio had not been floored in 78 pro bouts.

On the official cards, referee Eddie Bradley had Pender 149-135, judge Joe Blumsack 147-132 and judge Harry Sundberg 147-138.

Hebert, Venturi To Collide Today In Golf Playoff

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—Jay Hebert met Ken Venturi in an 18-hole playoff today after picking up five strokes in the last five holes of the final round to gain a tie in the $40,000 Houston Golf Classic.

Hebert, the 1960 PGA champion, birdied three of the last four holes Sunday as Venturi, last year's second-leading money winner, took bogies on three of the last five.

Hebert, 38, closed his birdie spree with a 25-foot putt on the final green for a 67 and a 72-hole 276, four under par for the 7,122-yard par 70 Memorial Park course.

Venturi, 29, the Californian who has picked up over $151,000 in less than five years as a pro, missed a 30-foot putt that would have avoided the Classic's third straight playoff.

Hebert had earlier rounds of 69, 71, and 69. Venturi opened with a pair of 70s and closed with a pair of 68s.

Today's round was worth 17,000 to the winner, $3,600 to the loser.

Venturi had shared the third round lead with Peter Thomson and Tommy Bolt. He took command in the final round with birdies on the first two holes and held the lead until he missed the long birdie on the final green.

Bolt took a bogie on 18 and collected $2,500 for third place at 278. Lione' Hebert, Jay's brother, was the only other player from a starting field of 107 pros to break par over 72 holes. He won $2,200 for 279. Julius Boros received $1,900 for a par 280. Thomson took a final round 75 to share a five-way tie at 283 with Arnold Palmer, Gart Plyer, Paul Harney and Bill Casper Jr. Each received $1,200.

M. Sanford Rolls 596

Marion Sandford, the highest average woman bowler in Saugerties, fired a 596 triple on games of 188, 195 and 214 in the Thursday Ladies League at the Saugerties Rec Center. It was a new league record.

Teammate Pat Pavlak rolled the only other 500 triple with 518; team results: Berzal's Rockettes 2, Berzal's Corvettes 1; Halpert's 2, Phil's Sea Shells 1; Vinnie Lou 3, Katsbaan Tavern 0; Friendly Inn 1, Brook's Market 2.

Wiltwyck Women Plan Meeting on 1961 Golf Season

A meeting of the Women's Division of the Wiltwyck Country Club will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the clubhouse on Lucas Avenue extension.

Plans for 1961 golf and social season will be presented for consideration by the members. Mrs. Robert H. Daley, women's golf chairman, will present the tournament schedule for the year, as well as conduct a question and answer period on the Rules of Golf, the conduct of play, and golf etiquette. This should be of particular appeal to the newer golfing members.

As the newly-revised by laws and constitution call for only two general meetings a year, one in the spring and the other the final meeting in the fall, all members are urgently requested to attend this important session.

A nominating committee for the selection of a possible chairman for the following year will be elected and will hold that office throughout the season. Social members are also invited to attend this meeting but are not entitled to any voting privileges and cannot be elected to office.

Committee chairmen are looking forward to a most successful season and ask the cooperation of all members towards this aim. Mrs. Edward V. Strohsahl, general chairman of women's golf activities as Wiltwyck, will preside at the meeting.

Jack Barry Dies, Was Former Star

SHREWSBURY, Mass. AP — Jack Barry, 73, famed former major league shortstop, died Sunday. Fancy glove man in the Philadelphia Athletics' storied $100,000 infield, Barry died at home of lung cancer.

A native of Meriden, Conn., Barry was a sophomore at Holy Cross when he was signed off the campus by Philadelphia. In an 11-year span he appeared on six world champion baseball clubs—playing four World Series' with the Athletics and one with the Boston Red Sox though he was with the Sox for two title years.

Barry was unable this year—his 41st season—to continue actively as head coach at Holy Cross. In the 40 years he directed the Crusaders from the dugout, Barry had a record of 625 victories and five ties in 783 games.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Su Mac Lad Rated A Heavy Favorite In Thursday Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Su Mac Lad, the big U.S. entry in the International harness racing series at Yonkers Raceway, shouldn't have too much trouble taking the third and final leg for Trotters Thursday night — the $50,000 National Championship at 1½ miles.

The 5-year-old son of Bud Mite took the lead at the half mile in the $25,000 Monitor Pace and finished two lengths in front of Caduceus. Time for the 1¼-mile race over the sloppy track was 2:39 1-5.

New York Stadium Is Now on the Way

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Construction is expected to start in two or three weeks on an $18-million stadium in Queens to house New York City's new National League baseball team.

Gov. Rockefeller said Saturday he had signed legislation permitting the city to build the stadium on park land near the site of the 1964-65 World's Fair and lease it to the team for 30 years.

"As a baseball fan, who is anxious to see a second major league ball team in New York, I am pleased to approve this bill," Rockefeller said.

The team that will occupy the 55,000 seat stadium has no players and no name, George Weiss, former general manager of the New York Yankees, is president of the club and it has acquired a staff of scouts.

The team intially is expected to be supplied with players by purchase from the rosters of the other National League teams.

New York City lost two National League teams to California several years ago.

NFL to Change Its TV Schedule

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — National Football League owners feel the fledgling American Football League has a better television arrangement than the older NFL. And they plan to do something about it during their annual meeting which began here today.

Vic Morabito, owner of the San Francisco 49ers, said the NFL favors a package deal with a single television network. Last year it dealt with three.

Eleven teams, including the 49ers, had contracts with the Columbia Broadcasting System; one with the National Broadcasting Co., and another with an organization called Sport Network, Morabito said.

He said he and other NFL owners feel they would get a better break if they could arrange a package deal with one network like the AFL did in its opening season last year.

Today's opening meetings were largely among business managers. General sessions are scheduled to start Tuesday.

matter of FACT

The "timid" rabbit puts up a good scrap when it has to. A mother with young is a courageous fighter. Mama bunny has been known to fight a dog if she thinks her babies are in danger. Her weapon: powerful hind legs, which can even kill a dog with a few sharp blows. That "rabbit punch" is no joke.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

The warmth and quality of the wonderful Waryas family of Poughkeepsie was extolled Saturday night at the Polish Club Hall in Poughkepsie.

The occasion was the Dutchess County Old Timers Baseball Association's testimonial to Steve Waryas, who with John Babiarz, organized the Association and made it a vital influence in the sports fraternity in Poughkeepsie.

The city of Poughkeepsie has been enriched by such as Steve and Victor Waryas, the incumbent mayor, and other members of the closely-knit family who through the years have made substantial contributions to sports in the Bridge City.

It was a moving and poignant sight to watch Papa Waryas, a remarkably octogenerian (he's now 85) share in the plaudits for his son. This was the essence of the true spirit of the American legend-the immigrant father who lives long enough to see his sons earn recognition and honor that comes only through long years of devotion to a principle.

When you consider the pathetically few persons who are really interested in promoting athletics for kids in any given community, the achievments and dedication of Steve Waryas become more impressive.

• From the Beginning:

Papa Waryas, who doesn't look a day over 70, leaned forward intently, straining to catch every syllable of the battery of orators who had come to pay homage to his son. It was one of those rewarding moments in this life that some men achieve, others never get the opportunity.

Victor Waryas recalled that many years ago when Mama Waryas would count heads for the daily chores around the large and bustling household, invariably one would be missing-Steve, who by then was always safely ensconced on some nearby baseball field. The wonderful bond between these two distinguished Poughkeepsie brothers was clearly evident in the mayor's remarks. The mayor, incidentally, is a new star on the Dutchess county political horizon. Urban and polished, he is eloquent and forceful as an orator and seems destined to bring further fame to the Waryas family.

Joe Smith, the dinner chairman; Police Chief Martin, Fred Smith, the Dutchess county clerk, Fran Carey and Jackie Farrell, the Mighty Mite of the New York Yankees public relations department, joined the array of speakers who paid tribute to the honored guest.

They told how Steve Waryas had been attracted to baseball as a kid back around 1927 and spent the rest of his life in the game in one capacity or another. He was a better than average catcher who played with and against teams in every town and hamlet in Dutchess. As a high school kid he was a fine athlete who played baseball and football with such intensity that he numbers two broken ankles, a broken wrist and a broken elbow among his athletic momentoes.

• Little League Leader:

Waryas joined the first Little League movement in Poughkeepsie and stayed with it for 15 years. Then came another form of expression-the Dutchess County Old Timers Baseball Association, a nostalgic collection of Dutchess county players, 40 years and older. Waryas and John Babiarz were the driving forces behind the Dutchess organization and both have worked hard to make it one of the liveliest in the country. They patterned it after the Old Timers Association of Kingston, but they have far surpassed the local group in motivation, achievment and ideals.

When the inevitable moment came, as it always does, when the honored guest must respond to the accolades that have been heaped on him, Steve Waryas rose to say that he was at a loss for words. This was a remarkable understatement spoken in good jest, since he happens to be one of the finest toastmasters in this part of the country.

He was visibly moved as he acknowledged the fine tributes from his brother and the other speakers and told how wonderful it was to have his father present. And then he wondered out loud how his eldest son, a freshman at Marist College, had done in his first varsity crew race. The family hadn't heard. It was typical of Steve Waryas that he would share his finest hour with his family.

We had the pleasure of installing the new officers and directors of the Dutchess Old Timers. And we had the further honor and opportunity to say some nice things about Steve Waryas. No man ever deserved them more.

Pender Wants Gene Fullmer After His Win Over Basilio

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Paul Pender today envisions a title-clearing showdown with Gene Fullmer in November between the pair of partial middleweight champions.

Relaxing after his third successful defense Saturday night against gallant Carmen Basilio, Pender admitted: "I want this Fullmer so bad I can taste it. I want to square this thing away."

Pender, 30, ex-fireman from Brookline, Mass., is considered the world's 160-pound king in Massachusetts, New York and Europe. Fullmer from West Jordan, Utah, is the 48-state National Boxing Association champion.

Promoter Sam Silverman—seeking a November Boston Garden date with an eye toward a $200,000 gate and as much as $150,000 more in television money—has been doing long distance negotiating with Marv Jenson, Fullmer's manager.

Basilio, onetime middleweight and welterweight ruler, blinked through a swollen face tatooed by Pender's left jabs and hooks and predicted Paul will not be able to beat Fullmer. Carmen, who had just lost a unanimous 15-round decision to Pender, twice had been stopped by Fullmer.

"I fought them both," Basilio said. "It would be a tough fight but Fullmer would win."

Pender did a convincing job on Basilio, 34, knocking him down for an eight count in the 13th round and nine count in the 15th before 12,168 Garden fans and a national TV audience. Basilio had not been floored in 78 pro bouts.

On the official cards, referee Eddie Bradley had Pender 149-135, judge Joe Blumsack 147-132 and judge Harry Sundberg 147-138.

Hebert, Venturi To Collide Today In Golf Playoff

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—Jay Hebert met Ken Venturi in an 18-hole playoff today after picking up five strokes in the last five holes of the final round to gain a tie in the $40,000 Houston Golf Classic.

Hebert, the 1960 PGA champion, birdied three of the last four holes Sunday as Venturi, last year's second-leading money winner, took bogies on three of the last five.

Hebert, 38, closed his birdie spree with a 25-foot putt on the final green for a 67 and a 72-hole 276, four under par for the 7,122-yard par 70 Memorial Park course.

Venturi, 29, the Californian who has picked up over $151,000 in less than five years as a pro, missed a 30-foot putt that would have avoided the Classic's third straight playoff.

Hebert had earlier rounds of 69, 71, and 69. Venturi opened with a pair of 70s and closed with a pair of 68s.

Today's round was worth 17,000 to the winner, $3,600 to the loser.

Venturi had shared the third round lead with Peter Thomson and Tommy Bolt. He took command in the final round with birdies on the first two holes and held the lead until he missed the long birdie on the final green.

Bolt took a bogie on 18 and collected $2,500 for third place at 278. Lione' Hebert, Jay's brother, was the only other player from a starting field of 107 pros to break par over 72 holes. He won $2,200 for 279. Julius Boros received $1,900 for a par 280. Thomson took a final round 75 to share a five-way tie at 283 with Arnold Palmer, Gart Plyer, Paul Harney and Bill Casper Jr. Each received $1,200.

ABC Tournament

DETROIT (AP) — A former softball player has helped the Cliff Anton team of St. Louis increase its share of the American Bowling Congress tournament's half million dollar prize fund.

The Antons grabbed the regular division team lead Saturday night on a 3,055 series with Max Legate, 35-year-old bowling house manager, bolstering the club with a 182-266-225—673 series.

Legate came back Sunday with 635 in the doubles and 630 in the singles to pump his total for the complete nine-game route to 1,938, worth second place in the all-events.

New York State Men's

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — A three-game total of 3097 gave the Simon Pure team the scratch leadership Sunday in the team division of the New York State Men's Bowling Tournament.

Although the Simon Pures have no handicap, their score was good also for third place in the handicap standings. Their high game was 1059.

Motts of Newark holds the handicap lead with 3130 rolled two weeks ago.

J. Zak of Kenmore took over the scratch lead in the singles from D. Parisee of Rochester, who held the lead a week ago. Zak rolled a 730.

Knights of St. John

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The Dietrich Funeral Home team of Buffalo holds the Knights of St. John National bowling tournament championship today.

The team finished first Sunday in a two-day tournament that drew about 350 bowlers.

R. Close and J. Russell, both of Buffalo, with 1329, won the doubles crown. Joseph Perrault of Cleveland, Ohio, took the singles championship. He won with a 625 score plus a handicap of 90 for a 715 total.

Marge Quinn of Schenectady took the women's single title with 655.

Suggs-Wright Golf Monopoly Broken

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — The women's golf tour rolled on to Augusta, Ga., for the Titleholders Tournament today with Mary Lena Faulk having broken the Louise Suggs-Mickey Wright monopoly with victory in the $7,000 Babe Zaharias Open.

Miss Faulk, who last won a major tournament in 1957 — the St. Petersburg, Fla., Open — shot eight-under-par 211 for 54 holes to take first money of $1,200 by four strokes.

The Sea Island, Ga., veteran had a closing three-under-par 70 while Miss Suggs sho ta 72 and wound up in second place with 215. Miss Wright, who led the tournament in its first day with a 70, had a finishing 77 for 219 and a tie for fourth place with Sandra Haynie, the little tour freshman from Fort Worth, Texas.

Phillip to Be Coach Of Chicago Majors

CHICAGO (AP) —Andy Phillip, one of the University of Illinois' all-time greats, Sunday was named head coach of the Chicago Majors, one of eight teams in the new American Basketball League which will begin operations this fall.

Wiltwyck Women Plan Meeting on 1961 Golf Season

A meeting of the Women's Division of the Wiltwyck Country Club will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the clubhouse on Lucas Avenue extension.

Plans for 1961 golf and social season will be presented for consideration by the members. Mrs. Robert H. Daley, women's golf chairman, will present the tournament schedule for the year, as well as conduct a question and answer period on the Rules of Golf, the conduct of play, and golf etiquette. This should be of particular appeal to the newer golfing members.

As the newly-revised by laws and constitution call for only two general meetings a year, one in the spring and the other the final meeting in the fall, all members are urgently requested to attend this important session.

A nominating committee for the selection of a possible chairman for the following year will be elected and will hold that office throughout the season. Social members are also invited to attend this meeting but are not entitled to any voting privileges and cannot be elected to office.

Committee chairmen are looking forward to a most successful season and ask the cooperation of all members towards this aim. Mrs. Edward V. Strohsahl, general chairman of women's golf activities as Wiltwyck, will preside at the meeting.

Jack Barry Dies, Was Former Star

SHREWSBURY, Mass. AP — Jack Barry, 73, famed former major league shortstop, died Sunday. Fancy glove man in the Philadelphia Athletics' storied $100,000 infield, Barry died at home of lung cancer.

A native of Meriden, Conn., Barry was a sophomore at Holy Cross when he was signed off the campus by Philadelphia. In an 11-year span he appeared on six world champion baseball clubs—playing four World Series' with the Athletics and one with the Boston Red Sox though he was with the Sox for two title years.

Barry was unable this year—his 41st season—to continue actively as head coach at Holy Cross. In the 40 years he directed the Crusaders from the dugout, Barry had a record of 625 victories and five ties in 783 games.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Shriners Are Hosts To Group at Circus

Through the efforts of a small group of Kingston Shriners a delegation of mentally retarded children in the Kingston Central School District, Consolidated, and the Children's Home of Kingston, attended the Cyprus Temple Shrine circus and Pollack Brothers circus at Albany Saturday.

Mrs. Robert Gaines, teacher of the trainable children of the mentally retarded class in the Kingston school system, accompanied 20 children in one bus and all but two boys, who were visiting their families, went from the Children's Home in Kingston in a second bus.

Reserved seats and two chartered buses from the Pine Hill-Kingston Bus Corporation were provided for the children through the efforts of the Kingston Shriners.

matter of FACT

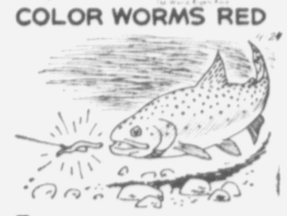

The "timid" rabbit puts up a good scrap when it has to. A mother with young is a courageous fighter. Mama bunny has been known to fight a dog if she thinks her babies are in danger. Her weapon: powerful hind legs, which can even kill a dog with a few sharp blows. That "rabbit punch" is no joke.

COLOR WORMS RED

REDDISH EARTHWORMS ARE OFTEN BETTER BAIT THAN NATURAL-COLORED WORMS, ESPECIALLY IN SPRINGTIME'S ROILED WATERS. HERE'S HOW TO COLOR THEM:

POUND OR GRIND A RED BRICK INTO DUST. MIX THE DUST INTO 3 TIMES ITS BULK OF RICH SOIL, USING AN OLD TUB OR A TIGHT WOODEN BOX FOR A CONTAINER. MOISTEN (DON'T SOAK) MIXTURE, THEN ADD PLAIN WORMS. SPRINKLE USED COFFEE GROUNDS, PAN FATS, AND DAMP CORNMEAL ON TOP FOR FOOD. KEEP DAMP, IN A COOL LOCATION FOR ABOUT A WEEK. FEED DAILY AND THE FATTENED RED WORMS RESULT.

COLLECT A LARGE SUPPLY OF WORMS DURING SPRING RAINS.

Bingo Complaint Heard by Board Will be Studied

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Investigation Commission will open public hearing Tuesday which Chairman Jacob Grumet says will show that the state's bingo law has been seriously abused.

A bingo probe by the commission came to light last January when Thomas J. Dorr, chief investigator for the State Lottery Control Commission, resigned.

The control commission, set up in 1958, supervises bingo playing, which now is allowed in 650 communities in the state that have given approval by referendum.

Under the law, only certain organizations, such as religious, charitable, veterans and volunteer firemen's groups, can legally sponsor the game.

In Albany, Gov. Rockefeller announced today that he had vetoed a bill passed by the Legislature that would have permitted bingo operators to charge an individual player up to 15 cents for each game. The present maximum is $2 a day.

The governor said there had been indications professional promoters were trying to profit from bingo.

Say Schools Should

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP) — Mrs. Caroline Werner Gannett, the only woman members of the State Board of Regents, says schools should not neglect the average pupil in their efforts to aid the gifted and the slow pupils.

Mrs. Gannett, widow of newspaper publisher Frank Gannett, addressed 200 high school social studies teachers Saturday during final sessions of a two-day education symposium at Elmira College.

She said she hope d"the average child—the solid citizen of the future — would avoid a squeeze play between the emphasis upon forwarding the gifted child and helping the less alert."

DeGaulle Generals Accuse Him of Pledge Violations

EDITOR'S NOTE — Associated Press correspondent Andrew Borowiec has been covering the Algerian story for nearly four years —in Paris, Algiers and Tunis. Here he tells of the agonizing dilemma facing the French army.

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

PARIS (AP) — The right-wing military putsch in Algiers has put the French army in an agonizing dilemma.

The choice is whether to obey the President of the Republic and fire if necessary on the mutineers or to pick up the banner of revolt to keep the army's oath and "Keep Algeria French."

The oath to maintain French rule over Algeria was solemnly proclaimed with rolling drums and blaring trumpets in the sunlit forum of Algiers after a similar coup in May 1958.

De Gaulle Is Accused

That coup brought President Charles de Gaulle to power.

Now the generals who helped De Gaulle three years ago accuse him of violating his pledge by his willingness to give Algeria independence if that is the choice of the Algerian people.

According to reports filtering from Algeria, the coup was staged by elite Foreign Legion paratroop regiments whose French officers bitterly oppose De Gaulle's Algerian policy.

Added to their dismay at the prospect of another French retreat was fear that Algeri's independence would end the Legion's existence. According to the laws of France, Foreign Legion units can only be stationed in overseas possessions. Loss of Algeria will leave France only a scattering of small islands overseas.

Troops Join Revolt

Apparently, shortly after the coup, other units of the French army were joining the revolt.

A great number of army career officers bitterly resent De Gaulle's self-determination plan and his willingness to negotiate with the Moslem rebels. They feel that French withdrawal from Algeria will be a death blow to the army's pride.

Draftees serving in Algeria did not oppose the 1958 coup, and there is little chance they will oppose their officers on a large scale. Thus the fate of the army is in the hands of its officers.

Some 500,000 French soldiers, sailors and airmen serve in Algeria. There are about 250,000 in France, mainly in training centers, administrative units and several skeleton divisions. Some 50,000 are in Germany.

At this stage it is impossible to trace the dividing line cutting through the army. One thing is certain—most French career officers now stationed in France and Germany have served in Algeria and have been at one time or other involved in an effort to keep it French.

Bingo Complaint Heard by Board Will be Studied

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Investigation Commission will open public hearing Tuesday which Chairman Jacob Grumet says will show that the state's bingo law has been seriously abused.

A bingo probe by the commission came to light last January when Thomas J. Dorr, chief investigator for the State Lottery Control Commission, resigned.

The control commission, set up in 1958, supervises bingo playing, which now is allowed in 650 communities in the state that have given approval by referendum.

Under the law, only certain organizations, such as religious, charitable, veterans and volunteer firemen's groups, can legally sponsor the game.

In Albany, Gov. Rockefeller announced today that he had vetoed a bill passed by the Legislature that would have permitted bingo operators to charge an individual player up to 15 cents for each game. The present maximum is $2 a day.

The governor said there had been indications professional promoters were trying to profit from bingo.

Say Schools Should

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP) — Mrs. Caroline Werner Gannett, the only woman members of the State Board of Regents, says schools should not neglect the average pupil in their efforts to aid the gifted and the slow pupils.

Mrs. Gannett, widow of newspaper publisher Frank Gannett, addressed 200 high school social studies teachers Saturday during final sessions of a two-day education symposium at Elmira College.

She said she hope d "the average child—the solid citizen of the future — would avoid a squeeze play between the emphasis upon forwarding the gifted child and helping the less alert."

DeGaulle Generals Accuse Him of Pledge Violations

EDITOR'S NOTE — Associated Press correspondent Andrew Borowiec has been covering the Algerian story for nearly four years —in Paris, Algiers and Tunis. Here he tells of the agonizing dilemma facing the French army.

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

PARIS (AP) — The right-wing military putsch in Algiers has put the French army in an agonizing dilemma.

The choice is whether to obey the President of the Republic and fire if necessary on the mutineers or to pick up the banner of revolt to keep the army's oath and "Keep Algeria French."

The oath to maintain French rule over Algeria was solemnly proclaimed with rolling drums and blaring trumpets in the sunlit forum of Algiers after a similar coup in May 1958.

De Gaulle Is Accused

That coup brought President Charles de Gaulle to power.

Now the generals who helped De Gaulle three years ago accuse him of violating his pledge by his willingness to give Algeria independence if that is the choice of the Algerian people.

According to reports filtering from Algeria, the coup was staged by elite Foreign Legion paratroop regiments whose French officers bitterly oppose De Gaulle's Algerian policy.

Added to their dismay at the prospect of another French retreat was fear that Algeri's independence would end the Legion's existence. According to the laws of France, Foreign Legion units can only be stationed in overseas possessions. Loss of Algeria will leave France only a scattering of small islands overseas.

Troops Join Revolt

Apparently, shortly after the coup, other units of the French army were joining the revolt.

A great number of army career officers bitterly resent De Gaulle's self-determination plan and his willingness to negotiate with the Moslem rebels. They feel that French withdrawal from Algeria will be a death blow to the army's pride.

Draftees serving in Algeria did not oppose the 1958 coup, and there is little chance they will oppose their officers on a large scale. Thus the fate of the army is in the hands of its officers.

Some 500,000 French soldiers, sailors and airmen serve in Algeria. There are about 250,000 in France, mainly in training centers, administrative units and several skeleton divisions. Some 50,000 are in Germany.

At this stage it is impossible to trace the dividing line cutting through the army. One thing is certain—most French career officers now stationed in France and Germany have served in Algeria and have been a t one time or other involved in an effort to keep it French.

Frightened Youth Shoots Prankster

HORNELL, N. Y. (AP) — Gary Carnes, 18, and a companion thought they would scare five high school friends who were spending the night at a farm cabin near here.

They crept up on the cabin shortly after midnight Friday and pounded suddenly on the walls and door.

The door flew open and a shot rang out from inside. Gary fell to the ground with a .22 caliber bullet in his stomach. He died four hours later.

Police said Thomas Corvino, 19, fired the rifle because he was startled. He was charged with second-degree manslaughter.

All of the youths were from Hornell. The gun belonged to Corvino, police said.

He was released in $2,000 bail after arraignment before Peace Justice Herbert Johnston in Bath, pending an appearance Saturday.

Police Prevented From Looking at Old Convictions

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A driver's previous record has no connection with any new charges of traffic violations, Gov. Rockefeller declared today in announcing approval of a bill to keep that record from a police officer.

The measure, effective Oct. 1, allows a driver to separate his license into two parts — one the certificate entitling him to drive, the other a record of any convictions.

He would not be required to show the part listing convictions until after a conviction of a new offense or at a hearing of the Motor Vehicle Department.

Sponsors of the bill held that police officers tended to be lenient with motorists without previous convictions and unduly harsh with those with a record.

NATIONAL COMMANDER HONORED HERE — It was National Commander's Night here Friday for the Third District, Department of New York, American Legion, which gave a testimonial dinner to William F. Burke of Los Angeles, Calif., head of the organization in the United States. The Navy veteran of World War II (center) discusses membership with Thomas M. Bohan of Ulster Park, commander of the district, which held the dinner attended by 300 people, in the cafeteria of Kingston High School. With Commander Burke looking over the roster of Legionnaires is New York Department Commander Aldo R. Benedetto. The two exservicemen at left are Benjamin E. Bragg, sergeant-at-arms of the district, and its chaplain, the Rev. Clarence E. Brown. At far right are Edwin L. Baker, vice commander of the Department of New York, and Ulster County American Legion Commander William E. Polk. Commander Burke reported on his visit to nine countries for the basis of effectively checking on foreign policy, and urged action by the U. S. to help keep Cuba from joining the Communist world by way of the Castro government. (Freeman photo).

Washington P-TA To Hold Science Program April 26

The George Washington P-TA will present a program entitled "Science Fair" in the school auditorium Wednesday 7:30 p. m.

Three movies will be shown, donated by the IBM Command Control Center of Kingston. The first of these, entitled "X-15, Man Into Space," concerns the man-carrying rocket ship. The second film, "Information Machine," is a Walt Disney film about the development of the electronic computer. "Intercept" is the title of the third film about the Bomarc Missile. A missile firing from the Kingston Control Center will be seen in this film.

Boyd Miller will be the speaker for the evening. Miller, who is associated with the Hercules Powder Company as a chemist, formerly taught at Kingston High School for 25 years. He is a graduate of Grove City College, received his masters degree from New York State University College of Education in Albany, and was the recipient of a Union College Fellowship.

The pupils from the George Washington School who wish to exhibit and explain the projects which were entered in the recent science fair may do so in the school cafeteria between 7:30 and 8 p. m. At 8 o'clock, the business meeting will be held in the auditorium at which time, the nominating committee will present a slate of officers for the next year.

In view of the attention focused on science and space at the present time, a large attendance is expected.

Program Outlined For Helping Arts

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The Council on the Arts plans a program of technical assistance, exhibitions and guarantees to prominent non-profit professional performing groups to encourage the arts in the state.

The council, established last year by the Legislature at Gov. Rockefeller's request, was given a $450,000 appropriation this year.

Seymour H. Knox, council chairman, outlined Saturday the council's program.

He said the council would assembly technical personnel, who would be available as consultants to museums and historical societies.

It will support exhibitions of paintings, prints, photographs and other graphic media at small museums and galleries throughout the state at minimum costs, he said.

Extended Forecast Through Saturday

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The extended forecasts for New York State, prepared by the U. S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7 p. m. today to 7 p. m. Saturday:

Dr. Gorman Urges Cancer Donations Soon as Possible

The 1961 Ulster County Cancer Crusade comes to an end this week. Clyde Wonderly, general chairman, urged all cancer workers to make their final calls as quickly as possible.

Dr. Gerald Gorman, county president of the American Cancer Society, said over the weekend, that cancer can be conquered. Many types, if found in time, stand an excellent chance of complete recovery. However, he said that much work and research needs to be done. Ulster County must meet its goal of $35,000.

"One person in four will be struck down by cancer. The odds certainly aren't good for 25 per cent of our population" Dr. Gorman told his audience in a recent speech. He urged all those who haven't contributed as yet to do so at once. "Send all donations to The American Cancer Society, Kingston, New York. Do it now," he pleaded.

100 Persons Stricken

KYOTO, Japan (AP) — About 100 Buddhist priests and missionary school students were poisoned Sunday by meatless box lunches served at a religious rally.

Six were reported seriously ill, but doctors said all would recover. About 3,000 others ate without suffering ill effects.

AMVETS Leader Expects Collapse Of Birch Society

TRIBES HILL, N. Y. (AP)—The right-wing John Birch Society will collapse "under the weight of its own poisonous nonsense," Harold Russell, national commander of AMVETS maintains.

Russell said, however, that "we cannot afford to accept at face value the claims of any organized group which says it is banded together as an enemgy of communism, for deeds count more than words."

He spoke at a dinner of the Queene Anne Post of AMVETS Sunday night in this community near Amsterdam.

He suggested a congressional investigation to determine whether legislation was needed to protect the nation against "organized oddballs."

The society was named for a man killed in China just after World War II. The society claims John Birch was the first American killed in the Cold War.

The group has been in the news in recent weeks when it ascribed Communist sympathies to prominent officials of the federal government, including Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Russell said he felt the "good sense of the American people is sufficient to laugh Birchism out of existence."

He added that "at the same time, we have an obligation to protect the rights of the John Birch Society and its individual members. We must be ever mindful of. . .the right of error to be heard."

A congressional investigation, he said, could determine whether it was merely a misguided effort to combat communism or "a far more vicious manifestation of the cumulative power of the far right —from the fringe of fascism itself."

The AMVETS commander noted that Adolph Hitler and Benito Mussolini rode to power on the strength of right-wing socieites at first considered unimportant.

Dote pleaded innocent Saturday. Cummings was to be arraigned today.

Both were held in Oneida County Jail.

Chamber Slates Drive for New Members in May

With the approaching end of the fiscal year, the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce is mailing letters inviting members to renew their membership subscriptions for 1961-62.

The new fiscal year starts on May 1 and most memberships become due at that time. The annual membership dues becoming payable at some other time will be prorated. Therefore after April 30, 1962 all memberships will become payable on that date.

All Chamber of Commerce income is derived from membership subscriptions. All income over the receipts for 1960-61 will be used for promotional purposes. Present active members are invited to provide additional revenue by subscribing for duplicate memberships. Early in May an intensive one-day drive for new members will also be carried out.

This is also a busy period in Chamber of Commerce organizational activities. The terms of all standing Committees expire on April 30, the close of the fiscal year. New Chairmen have been appointed and the personnel of committees will be completed in the near future.

To date a total of 572 paid-up Chamber of Commerce memberships for the fiscal year of 1960-61 have been received. The goal for 1961-62 is 600 paid-up memberships.

Two Youths Face Homicide Counts In Gang Warfare

NE WYORK (AP)—Two youths have been charged with homicide in separate Brooklyn killings over the weekend. Police said both were involved in teen-age gang warfare.

Raul Rosario, 20, was arraigned Sunday as the bike-riding gunman who slew Pablo Oyala, 20, and wounded Joseph Merced, 19, Saturday night.

Rosario said he was beaten up Saturday night by seven members of the El Quintos gang and he escaped only by pulling a .25 caliber automatic and firing two warning shots.

Later, he said, he ran into the same bunch and fired three shots, police reported. Oyala fell dead and Merced was struck in the left ankle.

Also charged with homicide was Dennis Snow, 16, who denied he was a member of a gang.

Police said he was with a gang called the Corsair Lords who got into a pitched battle in Brooklyn Saturday night in which Robert McCray, 19, was fatally stabbed.

Return from Cuba

MONTREAL (AP)—Two Canadian pilots flew their charter airliner back from Cuba today and reported almost all civilians are carrying arms in a quiet Havana.

"It was like walking around in a concentration camp," said Capt. Ron Lippert, 28, of Montreal. He and copilot Guy Larose, 31, of Dorion, Que., were stranded in Cuba with their World Wide Airways transport by last Monday's rebel invasion.

"There were people with guns all over the place," said Lippert.

Frightened Youth Shoots Prankster

HORNELL, N. Y. (AP) — Gary Carnes, 18, and a companion thought they would scare five high school friends who were spending the night at a farm cabin near here.

They crept up on the cabin shortly after midnight Friday and pounded suddenly on the walls and door.

The door flew open and a shot rang out from inside. Gary fell to the ground with a .22 caliber bullet in his stomach. He died four hours later.

Police said Thomas Corvino, 19, fired the rifle because he was startled. He was charged with second-degree manslaughter.

All of the youths were from Hornell. The gun belonged to Corvino, police said.

He was released in $2,000 bail after arraignment before Peace Justice Herbert Johnston in Bath, pending an appearance Saturday.

Police Prevented From Looking at Old Convictions

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A driver's previous record has no connection with any new charges of traffic violations, Gov. Rockefeller declared today in announcing approval of a bill to keep that record from a police officer.

The measure, effective Oct. 1, allows a driver to separate his license into two parts — one the certificate entitling him to drive, the other a record of any convictions.

He would not be required to show the part listing convictions until after a conviction of a new offense or at a hearing of the Motor Vehicle Department.

Sponsors of the bill held that police officers tended to be lenient with motorists without previous convictions and unduly harsh with those with a record.

NATIONAL COMMANDER HONORED HERE — It was National Commander's Night here Friday for the Third District, Department of New York, American Legion, which gave a testimonial dinner to William F. Burke of Los Angeles, Calif., head of the organization in the United States. The Navy veteran of World War II (center) discusses membership with Thomas M. Bohan of Ulster Park, commander of the district, which held the dinner attended by 300 people, in the cafeteria of Kingston High School. With Commander Burke looking over the roster of Legionnaires is New York Department Commander Aldo R. Benedetto. The two ex-servicemen at left are Benjamin E. Bragg, sergeant-at-arms of the district, and its chaplain, the Rev. Clarance E. Brown. At far right are Edwin L. Baker, vice commander of the Department of New York, and Ulster County American Legion Commander William E. Polk. Commander Burke reported on his visit to nine countries for the basis of effectively checking on foreign policy, and urged action by the U. S. to help keep Cuba from joining the Communist world by way of the Castro government. (Freeman photo).

Washington P-TA To Hold Science Program April 26

The George Washington P-TA will present a program entitled "Science Fair" in the school auditorium Wednesday 7:30 p. m.

Three movies will be shown, donated by the IBM Command Control Center of Kingston. The first of these, entitled "X-15, Man Into Space," concerns the man-carrying rocket ship. The second film, "Information Machine," is a Walt Disney film about the development of the electronic computer. "Intercept" is the title of the third film about the Bomarc Missile. A missile firing from the Kingston Control Center will be seen in this film.

Boyd Miller will be the speaker for the evening. Miller, who is associated with the Hercules Powder Company as a chemist, formerly taught at Kingston High School for 25 years. He is a graduate of Grove City College, received his masters degree from New York State University College of Education in Albany, and was the recipient of a Union College Fellowship.

The pupils from the George Washington School who wish to exhibit and explain the projects which were entered in the recent science fair may do so in the school cafeteria between 7:30 and 8 p. m. At 8 o'clock, the business meeting will be held in the auditorium at which time, the nominating committee will present a slate of officers for the next year.

In view of the attention focused on science and space at the present time, a large attendance is expected.

Program Outlined For Helping Arts

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The Council on the Arts plans a program of technical assistance, exhibitions and guarantees to prominent non-profit professional performing groups to encourage the arts in the state.

The council, established last year by the Legislature at Gov. Rockefeller's request, was given a $450,000 appropriation this year.

Seymour H. Knox, council chairman, outlined Saturday the council's program.

He said the council would assembly technical personnel, who would be available as consultants to museums and historical societies.

It will support exhibitions of paintings, prints, photographs and other graphic media at small museums and galleries throughout the state at minimum costs, he said.

Dr. Gorman Urges Cancer Donations Soon as Possible

The 1961 Ulster County Cancer Crusade comes to an end this week. Clyde Wonderly, general chairman, urged all cancer workers to make their final calls as quickly as possible.

Dr. Gerald Gorman, county president of the American Cancer Society, said over the weekend, that cancer can be conquered. Many types, if found in time, stand an excellent chance of complete recovery. However, he said that much work and research needs to be done. Ulster County must meet its goal of $35,000.

"One person in four will be struck down by cancer. The odds certainly aren't good for 25 per cent of our population" Dr. Gorman told his audience in a recent speech. He urged all those who haven't contributed as yet to do so at once. "Send all donations to The American Cancer Society, Kingston, New York. Do it now," he pleaded.

100 Persons Stricken

KYOTO, Japan (AP) — About 100 Buddhist priests and missionary school students were poisoned Sunday by meatless box lunches served at a religious rally.

Six were reported seriously ill, but doctors said all would recover. About 3,000 others ate without suffering ill effects.

AMVETS Leader Expects Collapse Of Birch Society

TRIBES HILL, N. Y. (AP)—The right-wing John Birch Society will collapse "under the weight of its own poisonous nonsense," Harold Russell, national commander of AMVETS maintains.

Russell said, however, that "we cannot afford to accept at face value the claims of any organized group which says it is banded together as an enemgy of communism, for deeds count more than words."

He spoke at a dinner of the Queene Anne Post of AMVETS Sunday night in this community near Amsterdam.

He suggested a congressional investigation to determine whether legislation was needed to protect the nation against "organized oddballs."

The society was named for a man killed in China just after World War II. The society claims John Birch was the first American killed in the Cold War.

The group has been in the news in recent weeks when it ascribed Communist sympathies to prominent officials of the federal government, including Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Russell said he felt the "good sense of the American people is sufficient to laugh Birchism out of existence."

He added that "at the same time, we have an obligation to protect the rights of the John Birch Society and its individual members. We must be ever mindful of. . .the right of error to be heard."

A congressional investigation, he said, could determine whether it was merely a misguided effort to combat communism or "a far more vicious manifestation of the cumulative power of the far right —from the fringe of fascism itself."

The AMVETS commander noted that Adolph Hitler and Benito Mussolini rode to power on the strength of right-wing socieites at first considered unimportant.
